U. S. RETENTION OF PACIFIC ISLES GETS SUPPORT

4 Nations Agree; Wait on Soviets

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 16—Under a British-American compromise which has been accepted by the world security conference committee on trusteeships as a "working paper" to constitute a basis of discussion, the United States would retain possession of Pacific islands American arms have wrested from the Japanese.

Such possession would constitute outright ownership of the islands for the principal purpose of establishing bases for the defense of the United States.

None of the islands would be committed to a trusteeship of the new league of nations unless the United States should voluntarily transfer them to the league.

French, Chinese Favor It

The compromise finds favor in the main with the French and Chinese delegations also. The Russian delegation, which has conflicting proposals of its own, is reserving judgment.

Concurrently with this disclosure it developed that there is a hitch in the agreement reached yesterday to subordinate peace enforcement under the Monroe Doctrine to the authority of the peace league except in case of actual attack.

When the big five—America, Britain, Russia, France, and China—met this afternoon the chief Russian delegate, Ambassador Gromyko had not received instructions from Moscow to consent to the arrangement.

Russians Seem Opposed

Moreover, it appeared that the Russians were disposed to oppose the plan on the ground that, if any region or group of nations could act independently of the league in self defense against attack, world peace enforcement would degenerate into regionalism and the league would fizzle out.

Finally a meeting of the conference committee on regional arrangements was postponed and Gromyko allowed another 24 hours to hear from Moscow.

U. S. Will Have Possession

If the Americans and British stand their ground on the Pacific islands trusteeship question, with support from the French and Chinese, there will be eventual agreement on the Anglo-American compromise or a postponement of the trusteeship question to consideration by the peace conference after the defeat of Japan.

In any event the United States will be in possession of the islands and would be in a position to obtain title to them at the peace table unless it chose to relinquish them or some of them voluntarily.

The Anglo-American compromise represents a victory for Adm. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, and other American navy officials, supported by the war department, who have contended from the start that the United States should have outright ownership of the Japanese islands for the

400,000 More New Cars by April of 1946

Washington, D. C., May 16 [Special] — Manufacture of 200,000 passenger automobiles late this year was predicted by the war production board today after conferences with manufacturers. WPB forecast an output of 400,000 in the first three months of 1946, which would rise to a rate of 2 million annually, about half the 1941 output.

Henry P. Nelson

The WPB today also announced revocation of its controls on an array of civilian products ranging from golf clubs and juke boxes to house trailers, but left it up to manufacturers to find the metal to make them.

Will Ration First Cars

Henry P. Nelson, WPB automobile reconversion chief, told a news conference the prospective auto production rate is based on the current supply outlook. Nelson could not say when manufacturers will get the go ahead signal, but reported it will not come before July 1.

There have been no passenger cars manufactured since February, 1942. When the government halted production at that time, it also "froze" for rationing the entire supply of about 520,000 cars in dealers' and manufacturers' hands. This pool has been distributed to essential users by OPA, and less than 8,000 now remain.

Rationing regulations for new cars will be kept in effect, WPB officials have stated, until new car production reaches a rate of at least 100,000 monthly. OPA plans to retain current eligibility requirements for the first cars. It will gradually broaden the list, which now includes physicians, public welfare officials, and a few others, as output increases.

Industry to Test Ingenuity

Nelson told reporters that car producers do not want to wait until adequate materials are assured, that they prefer instead to depend on their own ingenuity to develop substitutes. He said they are confident this can be done without lowering the quality of cars. He added that serious unemployment might develop in Detroit and other car production centers if resumption of auto manufacture were delayed too long.

A few cars may be produced this summer, Nelson said, but most of the output this year is expected in October, November, and December.

Trucks, particularly lightweight units, are going to be "pushed ahead" of passenger cars in the reconversion time table, Nelson reported, adding:

"We want all the trucks we can get and as soon as possible."

More Repair Parts

Nelson disclosed that the WPB in a few days will revoke all limitations on the production of repair

SUBSTANTIAL BOOST IN 'A' GAS RATION IS REPORTED NEAR

Washington, D. C., May 16 [Special]—"A" card motorists were reported authoritatively here today to be due for a substantial gasoline allotment increase on or before June 22, when A-16 ration coupons become valid. The amount of the increase will be known within 10 days, it was said.

This information came from a reliable source as officials of the petroleum administration for war and high authorities in the oil industry conferred here. Announcement of the increase is being delayed, it was said, because military authorities need time to coördinate information on the army's gasoline needs.

H. J. Brunnier, president of the American Automobile association, telegraphed War Mobilizer Vinson today urging immediate steps to make available to civilians any surplus gasoline on hand as a result of the end of the war in Europe. He asked for "some real down to the earth explaining" to clear up confusion and speculation on the gasoline situation.

FOR FUTURE SECURITY

Truck Drivers Vote to Strike in Pay Dispute

The independent Chicago Truck Drivers' union last night voted to strike in protest against a war labor board award which, while granting a substantial pay boost, failed to meet specific demands for a minimum wage and a 48 hour week.

The strike was ordered effective at midnight, but was not expected to reach full strength until 8 a. m. when most of the union's 6,500 members ordinarily report for work. It was said that some impairment in the distribution of food supplies and in the delivery of war material and equipment would result.

Vote Is 1,677 to 103

Out of 1,794 union men voting on the strike question, 1,677 balloted for the strike and 103 against it. Fourteen ballots were voided.

Members of the union are employed by approximately 1,200 Chicago companies, among them most of the big chain groceries, two of the nation's largest mail order houses, many big trucking and cartage concerns, and numerous small jobbers.

The strike referendum was held in the Madison Athletic club, 4715 Madison st. After the balloting, Capt. Peter M. Kelliher, chief of the labor section of the 6th service command, and Leo Kotin, assistant WLB disputes director, pleaded for a strike delay. Both were hissed and hooted and Kotin was told, "Go home."

Warns Army May Take Over

Capt. Kelliher said that now, during shipment of men and materials to the Pacific, "no worse time for a trucking strike could occur." He warned it might be necessary for the army to take over. Kotin warned that the strike violated no-strike pledges and that no union has yet successfully defied the WLB.

Immediately afterward the WLB sent telegrams to union officials demanding that they terminate the strike by noon today or show cause at 2 p. m. today at WLB offices why they have not done so.

51 Hour Week in Effect

Union members now receive $42 to $51.50 for a 51 hour week, but demand $47 to $56.50 for a 48 hour week. The WLB recently allowed an 8 cent hourly boost, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1945, on the basis of a 51 hour week. This would increase pay $4.08 a week to $46.08 and $55.58 a week.

Meanwhile, Capt. George Barnes of the police labor detail, said he would watch to see whether the strike has any effect on local 705 of the rival International Brotherhood of Teamsters, AFL, whose 8,000 members are said to be sympathetic to the independent union's claims.

DE VALERA ANSWERS CHURCHILL CRITICISM WITH PRAISE, CENSURE

DUBLIN, Eire, May 16 (AP)—Prime Minister de Valera, commenting on Prime Minister Churchill's criticism of Eire's stand during the war, said in a speech tonight that the British leader had "advanced the cause of international morality" by resisting a temptation to break southern Ireland's neutrality.

Prime Minister de Valera

Churchill, in a world-wide broadcast Sunday, said that because of Northern Ireland's friendship to Britain the empire had refrained from violence on Eire and "left the De Valera government to frolic with German and later with Japanese representatives to their hearts' content."

"It is indeed fortunate that Britain's necessity did not reach the point when Mr. Churchill would have acted," De Valera said in a broadcast.

"All credit to him that he successfully resisted the temptation."

The Irish leader expressed regret, however, that Churchill had turned to "abusing a people who have done him no wrong, trying to find in a crisis like the present excuse for continuing the injustice of the mutilation of our country."

75 New Buses Expected for City in June

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday gave the Chicago Motor Coach company permission to borrow up to $1,300,000 to pay for 110 new single deck buses, 75 of which are scheduled for delivery in June. Arrangements for the borrowing at 2 per cent already have been made, representatives of the company reported to William E. Helander of the commission staff.

All the new buses will be diesel powered and each will seat 45 passengers. They are to cost $13,412 each and will be made by the Yellow Coach Manufacturing company. Priorities have been obtained for the June deliveries and the other buses are expected by next November.

Five Years to Pay

Atty. Lee Freeman of the coach company informed the commission that 15 per cent of the cost of the vehicles was being paid out of cash on hand and that the rest would come from the banks willing to lend the money. At most, Freeman said, it would take five years to pay the debt.

It was estimated that to keep 500 buses in service at rush hours the company should have at least 575, spares being necessary to allow for repairs. At present 463 are being operated and the new ones will raise this total to 573. Of these, however, 33 soon are to be retired.

Low Interest Rate

Company officials said the buses on order would be more efficient than those now used.

The 2 per cent interest rate on the borrowing is lower than the city expects to pay on funds to purchase the elevated and surface lines under public ownership. The coach company is privately owned.

REVEAL JAPAN'S SUBS ROAMED ATLANTIC AREA

Nazi U-Boat Taken by Chicagoan

Washington, D. C., May 16 (AP)—A huge German submarine, Japan bound with three German air force generals, surrendered on Sunday to a United States destroyer escort, the navy revealed today.

Capt. D. V. Gallery

Capture of the big craft 500 miles east of Newfoundland was announced with a disclosure simultaneously that Japanese subs have been prowling the Atlantic and that one was sunk off Iceland last summer.

Adm. Ingram, Atlantic fleet commander, made the announcement. In addition to the German major generals aboard the 1,600 ton German submarine, Ingram said, the boarding party found the bodies of two Japanese who had committed hara-kiri just before the surrender.

Sank 126 U-Boats

The victorious conclusion of the battle of the Atlantic permitted these further disclosures:

1 The United States navy sank at least 126 German U-boats during the war.

2. The German submarine U-505 was captured intact off French West Africa last June by the crew of the baby carrier Guadalcanal, the first United States navy capture of a foreign warship on the high seas since the war of 1812.

3. Adm. Ingram, who had warned of the possibility of the German buzz bomb attacks on the east coast last winter, said they did not materialize because the Atlantic fleet was ready with trained anti-submarine forces.

Presents U-Boat's Flag

The first submarine capture was made last June 4 by a navy escort carrier task group under command of Capt. Daniel V. Gallery, Chicago. It hunted down, attacked, boarded, and seized intact the German submarine U-505 150 miles west of the French West African coast.

The vessel was towed 4,500 miles to Bermuda. Capt. Gallery presented the U-boat's flag to Ingram today. The latter said he would turn it over to the naval academy, Annapolis. A destroyer in Gallery's task force was commanded by Lt. Comdr. George W. Casselman, Joliet, Ill.

CHICAGO NAVY FAMILY

Capt. Gallery is a member of a famous Chicago navy family. Three brothers are Capt. William Onahan Gallery, until recently in charge of the naval air training center at 87th and Anthony sts.; Comdr. Philip D. Gallery, commanding a destroyer, and Lt. John Gallery, a navy chaplain in England. A sister, Mrs. Louise A. Rose, lives at 1612 Chase av. They are children of the late Daniel V. and Mary Onahan Gallery of that address.

300,000 Nazis Around, but Oslo Is Happy

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OSLO, Norway, May 16—Norway will observe the 131st anniversary of its independence tomorrow amidst the unprecedented conditions incident to the country's liberation.

Three hundred thousand German soldiers are in camps thruout the country. They have capitulated and await disarmament. A German general and his staff still are quartered in the capital's main hotel and they carry side arms.

The British army of occupation is being expanded from an air borne division which arrived here May 10 and 11. Meanwhile, SHAEF has established a supply mission to furnish food, mainly of American origin.

The British cruiser and mine sweeper which brought Crown Prince Olaf from England ride at anchor in the harbor here. King Haakon still is in England.

Vidkun Quisling, nazi puppet premier of Norway, whose name has been added to the English language as a synonym for traitor, is in jail awaiting trial by a special jury composed of three judges and four laymen.

Greet Returned Refugees.

But the Norwegians appear happy about the whole situation. Much of the 270,000 population of Oslo was in a downtown park last night informally greeting returned refugees. Groups sang the national anthem. The crowd cheered Prince Olaf when he left a formal reception in a theater accompanied by British general and admirals.

The people appear well dressed and they look healthy altho food is not abundant. The sea furnishes fish and lobsters and beer is served in the restaurants.

A plane last night showered the city with leaflets from SHAEF promising food as rapidly as shipping will permit. Before the war Norway imported 40 to 50 per cent of its food.

Norway does not appear to have suffered greatly from the occupation. Germany used its harbors, ships, lumber, and fish during the war and left new airports and other developments. The capital was not bombed. The first of the refugees to return found their homes intact.

They'll Be Sent Home

Armed Germans attract little attention from the Norwegians altho their presence on the streets is startling to war correspondents fresh from the front lines. British commander, Gen. Andrew N. Thorne of the Scottish command, said the Germans have been orderly, have retired to designated camps with three months food supply, and that their disarmament is to begin promptly.

His representative told the press that the German status was that of a surrendered army rather than that of prisoners of war. They feed and house themselves. They are to be transported to Germany after their disarmament.

The Norwegian underground, wearing the national colors as arm bands and carrying American and British rifles which had been parachuted to them, are policing the streets. They have arrested scores of collaborators who are awaiting civil trial.

2,771 SOLDIERS, 1,010 MARINES KILLED ON ISLE

Japanese Losses Total 47,543

GUAM, May 17 [Thursday] (AP)—Marine patrols crossed Asato river estuary and entered Okinawa's capital city, Naha, today as Fleet Adm. Nimitz reported the island campaign had cost the lives of 3,781 American troops and total United States ground casualties of 20,950.

A patrol of the 6th marine division entered the main part of Naha after bitter fighting. Leathernecks had been battling savagely counter-attacking Japanese in the suburbs four days.

The 96th infantry division's 383d regiment maneuvered slowly to within a few hundred yards of Shuri's northeast boundary. This placed the regiment closer to that fortress city, key of the southern defense line, than the 77th infantry division, which was about one mile north of Shuri.

Roll Around Conical Hill

Across the island on the east coast, a tank platoon of the 96th infantry division, rolled around the left nose of Conical hill and drove 800 yards south to within 200 yards of the outskirts of Okinawa's second largest seaport, Yonabaru.

This city, almost obliterated many days ago by bombing and naval bombardment, formed the eastern anchor of the Naha-Shuri-Yonabaru defense line.

Japanese losses were 46,505 killed and 1,038 captured thru Tuesday's fighting. An estimated 34,000 Japanese troops remain on Okinawa.

The American casualties exceed losses on Iwo [19,938] by 1,012. However, more Americans were killed on Iwo, 4,189, in 26 days, than so far have fallen on Okinawa in 45 days. The Okinawa battle is far from ended.

Jap Losses Double

Japanese casualties were nearly double their losses on Iwo, where 23,244 were killed. This figure includes some 2,000 killed since victory day on that island.

American casualties for the Okinawa-Ryukyus campaign, including carrier plane raids on Japanese home islands, are 27,803, including 6,853 navy officers and men dead, wounded, or missing. Navy figures, March 18 thru May 9, were 1,283 killed, 3,498 wounded, and 2,072 missing.

These were the American casualties on Okinawa:

Killed—2,771 soldiers; 1,010 marines.

Wounded—11,675 soldiers; 5,329 marines.

Missing—129 soldiers; 36 marines.

1,097 Killed in Week

Fighting for Naha and Shuri, considered the key to cracking the "Little Siegfried line," extending four miles across the waist of the island, cost the Americans 1,097 killed in the last week alone. Total casualties for the week were 4,425.

Throwing back one Japanese counter-attack on its position in the Naha suburbs, the marines were so hard pressed that only two men survived out of a company of 240.

FIRE NAGOYA AGAIN

GUAM, May 17 [Thursday]—(AP)—Striking again with more than 500 Super Forts, 21st bomber command squadrons showered 3,500 tons of fire bombs on the Japanese arsenal city of Nagoya shortly after midnight today, adding more devastation to fires kindled in a raid Monday.

The B-29s, carrying more than a million six-pound gasoline jelly bombs, flew low over the target area harboring the giant Mitsubishi aircraft assembly plant, the Atsuta factory of the Nagoya arsenal and other war industries.

Returning flyers said they observed fires still burning in the northern section of the city hit in the daylight attack Monday.

Besides being the second record-breaking assault on Nagoya in 68

Yanks Seize Nazi Labor Chief

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, May 16 (AP)—Dr. Robert Ley, 55 year old arch Nazi and the reich's labor minister, was captured tonight by the 101st air borne division acting upon a tip from the German underground.

Dr. Robert Ley

He was identified beyond doubt by an American counter intelligence officer who said, "This capture may be even more important than the surrender of Goering because we have proved indisputably that Ley is the master mind behind the werewolf movement."

Ley at first tried to deny his identity when captured at a mountain hideaway 45 miles south of Berchtesgaden. Cloaked behind a four day growth of beard, and wearing blue pajamas, he said he was "Dr. Ernst Distelmeyer."

At headquarters identification was made by Frank Schwarz, treasurer of the Nazi party, and his son, Franz, as well as by the American officer who had known him for 13 years.

Seize Himmler Aid

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY IN SOUTHERN GERMANY, May 16 (AP)—An anti-Russian resistance movement may have been nipped in the bud with the arrest in Austria of Ernst Kaltenbrunner, Gestapo Chief Himmler's right-hand man.

Kaltenbrunner, captured by the American 80th infantry division on May 12 at Alt Aussee, is known to have admitted he planned "some sort" of action against the Russians but he would not go so far as to say it would be a full scale resistance movement.

[Allied war crimes commission will begin conference in London on May 31. Story on page 3.]

hours, the raid was the 14th demolition and fire bomb effort to put the industrial might of Nippon's third largest city out of production since the B-29s started flying from Marianas bases last November.

Today's attack was centered in the area adjoining the city's inner harbor and estuary docks. Nagoya, with a prewar population of 1,500,000, also is a big port on Japan's inland sea.

The Super Forts today struck at a 16 square mile target area, cascading their incendiaries on the only remaining part of the city not hit with the fire bombs in previous raids.

The Mitsubishi aircraft assembly plant, bigger than the Willow Run factory near Detroit, has been called the largest of its kind in the world.

Another unit of the huge Mitsubishi interests, the aircraft engine factory in northeast Nagoya, was 95 per cent destroyed in a series of B-29 demolition bomb raids several months ago, and the electric plant of this same firm was in the target area of Monday's attack.

Other Factories in Area

The incendiary attacks also strike at Japan's industrial setup thru destruction of small shops set up in homes and smaller buildings for the production of parts for Nippon's vast war machine.

Besides the aircraft assembly plant and the arsenal factory, major plants in the target area include:

Steam and electric cars; locomotives; munitions and ordnance; a vehicle company plant, second largest of its type in the empire; the Aichi aircraft company's Mizuko plant, producer of aircraft component parts; Aichi aircraft's Atsuta plant, producer of engines and other aircraft components; the Sumitomo aluminum company works; the Hokuku machinery company's Atsuta plant; the Yahagi steel plant; the Okamoto aircraft company's Showa plant; the Osaka machinery works; the Okamoto aircraft's Casadera plant; the Hokuku's Kasadera plant; the Tokushu light metals company's Atsuta plant, and the Nagoya steam power plant.

MINDANAO BATTLES RAGE

MANILA, May 17 [Thursday] (AP).—Trapped Japanese continued to fight savagely Tuesday on two of three Mindanao fronts, but doughboys slowly were rooting them out of intrenched positions.

The veteran 24th infantry division was locked in close combat with a major force north of Davao, and repulsed another heavy counter-attack. A Japanese naval gun, one of several harassing the 24th, was knocked out by a marine dive-bomber.

The 31st division, fighting northward on Sayre highway in central Mindanao, pushed five miles to within eight miles of the Valencia air bases. Less than 60 miles to the north, the 40th division was meeting strong resistance below captured Del Monte air center and made only slight progress.

Attack Naval Base

PT boats, crossing Davao gulf in daylight Tuesday, destroyed six 70-foot Japanese torpedo boats and one barge, fired four fuel and ammunition dumps and knocked out a pillbox at a small enemy naval base on Pisco point. Earlier the PT boats destroyed a Japanese marine railway at Mapanga bay in Davao gulf.

A shore to shore operation, in which Dutch troops landed on the southernmost tip of Tarakan Island, off northeast Borneo, also was announced. Activity in other sectors of Tarakan was limited.

Push up Luson Coast

On Luzon, the American 1st cavalry division pushed north along the east coast to within three miles of the port of Lampon, an enemy seaplane anchorage south of Infanta. Light naval units supported the advance, bombarding enemy shore concentrations near the port.

East of Manila, units of the 43d division near the Ipo dam were reported 'pressing in from all sides on the enemy's isolated forces."

Medium, attack, and fighter bombers continued raids on Nipponese communications and defenses in the Cagayan valley of northern Luzon, dropping more than 150 tons of bombs.

The war bulletin reported night harassing attacks on Formosa, followed by day raids. Long range patrol planes continued night flights along the Asiatic coast, bombing an airdrome at Canton, sinking two small vessels near Hong Kong and harassing communications at Liuchow and French Indo-China.

Jap-British Naval Clash

LONDON, May 17 [Thursday]—(AP)—A Tokyo broadcast recorded by Reuters reported today that a clash between British and Japanese naval units had taken place in Malacca strait, the narrow stretch of water separating Sumatra from the Malay peninsula.

JAPS' FEAR OF REDS SCUTTLED NAZI TREATIES

San Francisco, Cal., May 16 (AP)—A "sincere" effort to "maintain neutral relations" with Russia prompted Japan to abrogate all treaties with Germany, Tokyo radio asserted today.

The Domei news agency said that collapse of Germany prevented realization of Japan's "sincere wish" for a new order in Europe and resulted in the decision "to maintain for the time being an attitude of indifference toward European problems."

Also prompting the decision, the agency added, was "the reality of Japan's neutral relations with the soviet union."

Area of Nebraska

United States bombers, stepping up the air war in the Pacific, are pounding a target smaller, more exposed, and with population and industries more concentrated than was the case in Germany.

Japan proper has an area of 148,756 square miles, compared with Germany's area of 225,256 square miles, but Japan actually is a much smaller target, comparatively, than the figures would indicate, because most of her industrial centers and concentrations of population are south of the Tokyo area.

By far the greater part of her industry is grouped in the three areas of Tokyo, Kobe-Osaka, and Nagoya. Of her total estimated population of 72,875,000, more than 14,000,000 is concentrated in the six cities of Kobe, Osaka, Kyoto, Nagoya, Yokohama, and Tokyo. Her vital industries are packed into an area less than that of Nebraska, and one-third the size of Germany.

Moreover, Germany was a continental power, with direct and repairable connections overland with the industries and material of Europe. Japan is an island, dependent on shipping for food, raw material, and supplies.

When Okinawa can be operated as a major air base, air officials estimate that more bombs can be dropped on Japan in a month than the 8th air force dropped on Germany in a year.

CHICAGO YANK'S PENKNIFE ENDS FIGHT WITH JAP

BY WALTER SIMMONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MINTAL, Mindanao, May 13 [Delayed]—Caked with mud and obviously exhausted, Pvt. Raymond Skrobuton, 10721 S. Albany av., Chicago, sat cleaning his penknife.

Pvt. R. Skrobuton

"Hand to hand fighting," he said, "is mostly the imagination of correspondents who sit around headquarters and rewrite the communique. But the fighting around here is different. I went all thru the Leyte campaign and never saw anything like this."

He snapped the penknife shut. "For instance," he said, "I killed a Jap last night with this."

Pvt. Harry Pope of Blackfoot, Idaho, another 24th division infantry man, nodded confirmation. Skrobuton slipped the knife into his pocket.

Japs Attack Foxholes

"Twelve of us—six to a foxhole—were guarding a bridge," he said. "Each foxhole had a .30 caliber machine gun. But the rain came down in sheets all night and the guns became useless. We couldn't hear a thing but the drumming of the rain and occasionally one of our perimeter booby traps going off.

"Around 1 o'clock, when Pope and I were looking out toward a stream, three Japs suddenly jumped into our foxhole from the rear. I looked around and it seemed all our men were gone, so I took off into the darkness. About 20 feet away in the stream I lay down in the water with my head on a log.

"After a while two Japs walked upstream, felt my head and then my body. Then two went toward the foxhole, apparently thinking I was dead.

"Another came along and I held my head under water. But he stood there so long I was forced to come up for air. I jumped up, knocked the rifle out of his hand, and grabbed it to bayonet him with.

Wrestles Jap for Bayonet

"The Jap grabbed the rifle as I lunged and thrust it aside. I pulled back sharply but in the meantime he released the bayonet and charged me with it, slashing like a crazy man. I jumped in close and grabbed him. We fought for that bayonet. I finally took it way from him but in the confusion he bit my finger.

"I was slashing away at him when I heard a grenade thrown at us from the foxhole. We both fell in the water but were blown out by the concussion of the grenade. I slashed him a couple of more times and he bit my hand again and hung on. I kicked him in the stomach till he let loose.

"Another grenade went off and we went into the water again. We fought our way out—we were both weak and he was bleeding all over me. The Jap had my shoulders pinned and was hitting me. With my free hand I took my knife out of my pocket and opened it with my teeth. I slashed his face again and again. He weakened and I slit his throat. Then I pushed his head under water with my foot and drowned him."

Find Eight Dead Japs

Pvt. Skrobuton stood up wearily and his boots squished as he walked. "I crawled over by that banana tree," he said, pointing, "and lay there. Flashes of lightning showed a Jap lying beside me. I was too weak to move or try to get him. Daylight finally came and I saw he was dead. We counted noses and found everybody was there. Then we looked around and found eight dead Japs in our perimeter."

There have been many instances of hand to hand fighting in bloody Mintal area. The night earlier, also caught unarmed in his foxhole, Pvt. Eugene Russell of Oroville, Cal., beat a marauding Jap to death with his helmet when no other weapon was available.

DOENITZ REGIME ONLY STOP GAP, SHAEF ASSERTS

Germany to Be Kept Under Military Control

PARIS, May 16 (AP)—A program of sweat and discipline under which Germany will have to earn her way back into the community of nations under strict military control was laid down by the allies today.

The so-called German government of Adm. Doenitz was declared officially to be only a temporary stopgap, "fully controled" by the allies while it fulfills a useful purpose.

A supreme headquarters statement said Doenitz "and certain other selected German officers" were being used only temporarily as an instrument for facilitating the surrender and disarmament of German forces and were acting under complete allied control.

Government Will Be Military

The formal statement made clear that there was no thought of recognizing Doenitz and his "Flensburg group" as a German government. So far as the allies are concerned, Count Ludwig Schwerin von Krosigk "does not exist" as Doenitz' foreign minister.

This was underscored by Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Gen. Eisenhower's deputy for the occupation of Germany. "The allied government of Germany is going to be military, and the Germans are going to know it is military," Clay said.

Asked whether Doenitz and Goering were prisoners of war, Clay replied "they are." He did not specify what had been done with Doenitz—if anything, yet—but he said a special place or places of confinement for prisoners of this sort—had been prepared and indicated some prisoners already had been taken there.

Clay declared that all that is left of Germany's potential to make war would be smashed. Clay also declared that all vestiges of nazism would be destroyed; all war criminals caught and punished.

Germans Carry Out Orders

In a formal announcement designed to set at rest any fears that the "Flensburg" group had received some sort of recognition, allied headquarters said:

"Adm. Doenitz and certain other elected Germans are being used temporarily to carry out duties in connection with the feeding, disarmament and medical care of German armed forces.'

Clay, the main speaker at a long and detailed press conference mapping out the treatment in store for Germany, said German civilian machinery will be established, only on a very low civil servi· level, just sufficient to keep essential services functioning. The only industries being reëstablished are those essential for relief problems and transport needed by the occupying forces.

In Germany for Long Time

He said American forces had stepped into Germany to stay "in all probability for a long time." It seemed likely that the realistic program he outlined for his zone would apply as well to those of the Russians, British, and French. He said the decision on the actual boundaries of the occupation zones could be expected soon.

In response to a specific question whether Poles or other eastern Europeans who might not wish to be left in the Russian occupation zone of Germany could be transferred to the American or British zone, he replied: "No, they would have to be left where they are."

Clay said that supreme allied headquarters still was operative in Germany and that he was speaking for the United States group council, which would take over after SHAEF disbanded. The change-over will not occur until the forces of each nation are settled in their appointed zones.

Churchill Tells Plans

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, after a conference with Gen. Eisenhower, told the house of commons today that the allies intended to permit the Germans to administer their own country "in obedience to allied directions."

There was no official disclosure of the subject of the Churchill-Eisenhower conference which also was attended by Field Marshal Montgomery and Gen. Bradley.

The conference between Churchill and Eisenhower came as major long range issues piled up for consideration at the meeting expected soon between Churchill, Marshal Stalin and President Truman.

An attempt to reach an agreement on Poland has definitely been laid aside until the next meeting of the heads of the big powers.

PARIS, May 16 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Gen. Eisenhower's deputy military governor for Germany, today announced these key officials who will help carry out the United States' control policies in Germany:

Assistant deputy military governor, Brig. Gen. Cornelius W. Wickershaw, who has been acting deputy of the United States group control council.

Naval division, Vice Adm. Robert L. Ghormley, who was commander of United States naval forces in the South Pacific from June, 1942, to March, 1943.

Air division, Maj. Gen. Robert W. Harper, former assistant chief of the air staff for operations and training.

Political division, Ambassador Robert Murphy, who has been Eisenhower's diplomatic and political adviser since before the invasion of North Africa.

Internal affairs communications division, Maj. Gen. Oliver P. Echols, former assistant chief of air staff materiel and service.

Transport division, Brig. Gen. John A. Appleton, Eisenhower's adviser on operation of military railway services.

Economics division, Brig. Gen. William H. Draper, chief of the army services forces contract termination branch, readjustment division.

Clay also announced appointment of Joseph B. Keenan, Washington, D. C., deputy chief of the war production board, as deputy director of the man power division, and John Nicholas Brown, Providence, R. I., member of the advisory committee of the federal works project, as special adviser to Clay on monuments and fine arts.

CALLS HIMMLER 'LENIENT' AS END OF NAZIS NEARED

One of the last persons who saw and talked with Heinrich Himmler, the Nazi Gestapo chief, told the story of this rendezvous in a short wave broadcast yesterday from Stockholm over W-G-N-Mutual. The man was Norbert Masur, a representative of the World Jewish congress.

During a two and one-half hour meeting with Himmler, Masur, who had lost a sister in German concentration camps, pleaded for the release of thousands of Jewish women, mostly from Poland, to the Swedish Red Cross. The two met the night of April 20 near Berlin.

Since the horrors of Buchenwald already were known, Masur questioned Himmler regarding the atrocities. Himmler would not admit that the Nazis had used gas chambers to kill slave labor, but readily confessed that furnaces had been used to dispose of bodies of "epidemic" victims.

Masur said that subsequently some 6,000 women prisoners, about half of them Jewish, reached Sweden. He stated that he had visited some of these freed prisoners and described their experiences. They had passed thru six years of hell and terror from the ghettos of Warsaw thru one prison camp after another.

Policy on German Jews Must Wait, Briton Says

LONDON, May 16 [Reuters]—Following Prime Minister Churchill's statement in the house of commons yesterday that Jewish refugees in Britain would not be repatriated for the present, George Hall, undersecretary for foreign affairs, told members of parliament today that it was as yet too early to announce a policy with regard to the repatriation of German Jews in Britain.

MEET IN LONDON FOR WAR CRIMES STUDY ON MAY 31

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—The allied nations war crimes commission announced today that an international conference on German war crimes would begin in London on June 1.

Willi Messerschmitt

The commission also announced that it had arranged for "certain governments" to send investigating officers into Germany to help military authorities gather evidence of war crimes there.

In Paris supreme headquarters said 10 man teams from the war crimes branch of the European theater judge advocate section were conducting widespread investigation of crimes committed by the Nazis against allied military personnel, as well as civilians.

In Operation for a Month

The teams, supreme headquarters said, went into operation more than a month ago under the direction of Brig. Gen. E. Betts, and evidence of atrocities and violations of the Geneva convention which they are gathering will be used in the trials of indicted German war criminals.

The commission said that "new opportunities for detecting war crimes and identifying their perpetrators" had been provided by "the liberation of occupied countries, establishment of military control in Germany, the overrunning of concentration camps, and repatriation of allied workers."

The conference, the commission announcement said, "will enable the commission to discuss with the national offices the best methods for promoting mutual aid between the offices and closer contact between them and the commission."

Himmler in Next World?

In commons today Prime Minister Churchill said he had no information as to the whereabouts of Gestapo Chieftain Henrich Himmler, but said "I expect he will turn up somewhere in this world or the next and will be dealt with by appropriate local authorities."

Clamor against the allied treatment of German war criminals continued in the British press with the News Chronicle asserting that Gen. Eisenhower's rebuke to officers treating the Germans as "friendly enemies" had not ended the tolerance shown to the defeated Nazis.

Denying published reports that Willi Messerschmitt, ace German plane designer, is living a "life of luxury" in a London flat, the air ministry said that his living scale is that of an ordinary nonworking prisoner of war.

The British radio said Field Marshal Gen. Edhard Milch, former deputy commander in chief of the German air force, and Gen. Von Manteuffel, former commander of the German 3d army, are British prisoners in the camp at Lueneburg.

O. K. OVERSEAS EDITIONS FOR MAILING TO NAVY

Washington, D. C., May 16 (AP)—Miniature overseas editions of newspapers and periodicals still may be mailed to navy personnel overseas by individual friends or relatives, the navy said today.

The navy said its recent order restricting mailing of periodicals and newspapers to overseas personnel does not apply to mailings of such miniature publications, which may continue to be sent without a request from the man himself.

The restriction, effective July 1, applies only to mailings direct from the publisher. It prohibits publishers from mailing newspapers or periodicals except to fill a written request from a service man for a subscription or a renewal.

STIMSON IGNORES OFFICER BOARD TO ELEVATE LASH

Mrs. F. D. R.'s Protege to Get Commission

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 16—Overriding the adverse recommendation of examining officers at Camp Lee, Va., War Secretary Stimson plans to commission Joseph Lash, protege of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, whose association with the American Student union were investigated by the house committee on un-American activities, it was learned today.

Joseph Lash

Stimson wrote Mrs. Roosevelt denouncing the recommendation of the board of the officer candidate school at Camp Lee against commissioning Lash. In the letter the secretary wrote that to deny a commission to Lash would be an insult to the memory of "your sainted husband," referring to President Roosevelt.

Drafted in 1942

It was learned, by members of congress, that the late President had not espoused the commissioning of his wife's protege, but had, in fact, issued definite instructions that the case be settled strictly on its merits. Stimson set aside this decision and ordered the commissioning. At the war department it was said the commission may already be in Lash's hands and if it is not, it soon will be.

Lash, who is 35 years old, made a livelihood for many years out of his paid association with various youth movements. His long service in such groups earned him the sobriquet of "the perennial youth."

Mrs. F. D. R. Helped

Early in 1942, as the draft was reaching toward Lash, Mrs. Roosevelt interested herself in his effort to secure a commission in naval intelligence. He was turned down as unqualified.

On being drafted in April, 1942, he went to Fort Dix, N. J. Less than a month later he turned up at Bolling field in Washington. During his tour of duty at Bolling field Lash was a frequent guest of the White House.

In 1943 Lash was sent to the Pacific with the 13th air force. During her visit to the Southwest Pacific Mrs. Roosevelt ordered her plane and its convoying craft to make an unscheduled stop at the Pacific island where Lash was stationed. There she visited with him aboard a naval vessel.

Lash, who was made a sergeant, was sent to officer candidate school some months ago. Since he was drafted Lash married Mrs. Eliot Pratt, who took over his duties as secretary general of the American Student union. After the marriage Mrs. Lash became a companion of Mrs. Roosevelt.

HOW HITLER'S GIRL AGREED TO DIE WITH HIM

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, May 16 (AP)—Hitler's sweetheart, Eva Braun, virtually entered a suicide pact with the Fuehrer when she elected to stay with him at Berlin during its final siege, Gerhardt Herrgesell, chief of the Nazi leader's secretarial staff, said today.

The Hitler aide asserted that both Eva and Hitler knew they would die in a bunker shelter under the reichschancellery.

Hitler, resigned to his fate for several days beforehand, Herrgesell said, became dreamy and impatient of suggestions that all defense against the Americans be pulled back and hurled against the Russians. Eva, he said, wept and wrote a long letter in which she enclosed her favorite piece of jewelry and sent it back to Hitler's castle here. The letter and the jewel have not been found.

Herrgesell told how Hitler and his aides held a series of meetings April 20-22 during which Hitler decided that he would stay in Berlin to meet death. The secretary said he was convinced that Hitler was dead and that the death story had not been staged nor a double used in place of the Fuehrer.

"Last Days" of Hitler

He filled in some chapters of the last days before Hitler was reported to have died. But he made it plain that he left Berlin April 22 and did not personally see the "last stand" in the chancellery. Herrgesell said he left Berlin on Hitler's orders at 10 p. m. April 22 and flew to Berchtesgaden.

Among those who stayed with Hitler, Herrgesell said, were Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel—who was under orders to leave Berlin; Martin Bormann, Eva Braun, a Mrs. Christian, a Mrs. Junge, Propaganda Minister Goebbels and his family, and a Gen. Krebs.

Eva Braun, he said, gave him her farewell letter just before he left, but with instructions only to deliver it to Hitler's castle. The address was on an envelope inside a wrapper in which he carried it. He said he gave it to a Maj. Mueller at the Berghof.

All personnel had been ordered by Hitler to leave Berlin April 20 unless they were indispensable, and Hitler reached his decision to remain there on April 22.

Describes Decisive Parley

The secretary said four men sat in on the last decisive parley at 5:30 p. m. April 22. They were Hitler, Keitel, Bormann, and Gen. Jodl.

"I now make the final decision that I stay and die," Herrgesell quoted Hitler as saying.

Keitel and Bormann both protested, he said, quoting Bormann as saying: "My Fuehrer, this is contrary to what we taught. We wanted to fight to the last to defend the last corner of Germany."

Only Jodl obeyed the command to leave, he said, going to Nauen, near Berlin, where he was still in contact with his army.

During the early talks, Herrgesell said Jodl was "icy cold," and commented: "I am not going to stay and get killed in this mousetrap."

Jodl said, however, the secretary added, that he would be willing to turn the German army against the Russians, pulling them back from the American and British fronts. Bormann and Keitel kept arguing with Hitler that he still had sizable forces and could continue to fight.

Refuses to See Himmler

"Himmler wanted to see the Fuehrer," Herrgesell said. "The Fuehrer said he did not want to see him."

When Hitler made his final decision to stay and die he was absolutely certain that he would meet his end in from two to seven days, Herrgesell said. The chancellery was then under artillery fire.

Heinz Buchholz, another member of Hitler's secretarial staff, said he was within seven to nine feet of Hitler last July 20 when the assassination bomb went off at a conference. Buchholz said he suffered temporary deafness and bruises about the body while Hitler suffered impaired hearing and contusions.

Debarkation Port

Where Yanks debarked (arrow)

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—The once small port of Gourock, Scotland, was transformed into one of Britain's busiest war time harbors with 1,317,089 American soldiers debarked there in two and a half years, headquarters of the United Kingdom base disclosed today.

Before the war Gourock was a quiet little haven for fishing vessels and colliers. It is an inlet of the Firth of Clyde. Its location on the comparatively safe northern route to Britain and its natural harbor defenses made it a strategic harbor for American and British troopships.

Its approaches were mined and netted against submarines and surrounding waters were patroled by planes. Troop debarkations began there May 11, 1942.

Between that date and the end of 1944, 339 troopships and luxury liners unloaded huge armies at Gourock. Municipally owned ferries transported the troops from vessels to the shore. The peak was in July, 1944, when 35 ships arrived with 97,373 soldiers.

ESCORT VESSEL SUNK BY U-BOAT; LOSS 'HEAVY'

Washington, D. C., May 16 (AP)—The recent sinking of the destroyer escort Frederick C. Davis by an enemy submarine in the Atlantic was announced by the navy today. A spokesman said the sinking took place "some days" before Germany's surrender.

Casualties among the ship's complement of about 200 were "heavy" he said. The vessel's skipper, Lt. James E. Crosby, Seattle, Wash., was reported missing.

The Frederick C. Davis operated from April to September, 1944, in the Mediterranean area, and took part in the Anzio and southern France invasion operations She was named for Ensign Frederick C. Davis of Rock county, Wis., who was killed in the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

BRITISH EFFORTS TO DEFEAT JAPAN STILL UP IN AIR

Size of Army to Be Used Being Discussed

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 16—The extent to which the British will participate in the war against Japan awaits a decision by the combined chiefs of staff in Washington, it was stated authoritatively here today.

Altho plans for the defeat of Japan have been going forward steadily, it is understood that discussions still are going on among the war planners to determine the man power and equipment the British will be expected to provide or the areas they are to wrest from the Japanese.

The British assert that at present they have approximately a million men in Adm. Mountbatten's southeast Asia command, exclusive of Americans and Chinese. A number of other divisions, including Indian and United Kingdom troops, will be sent to the orient from the European and central Mediterranean theaters.

Ban Release of Details

War office public relations officers are willing to give further details of Britain's potential for the orient, but have been overruled at a higher level on the ground that military security does not permit publication of such information.

The British express a willingness to send troops to the orient, but their contribution depends upon shipping and what the combined chiefs of staff say should be the size of their army of occupation in Germany and other commitments.

It has been reported that the Americans intend to maintain an army of occupation of 400,000. On the basis of the same ratio as during the war the British will maintain an army of about 135,000.

Deteriorating relations with Russia also may have some bearing on the size of the army this country sends to fight the Japs.

Boundaries Not Freed

The boundaries between Mountbatten's southeast east Asia command and Adm. Nimitz' and Gen. MacArthur's Pacific command also await exact definitions by the combined chiefs of staff, it is said here.

However it has been reported previously that Mountbatten's command extends to meridian 110 degrees east, which is a line drawn south from Hainan Island, just touching Borneo and bisecting Java. This would give the British Burma, Siam, Malaya, Singapore, and part of the Dutch East Indies to account for, as well as Indo-China. The Australians recently landed on Borneo, but these troops are under MacArthur's command.

Full details of Mountbatten's command are not publishable, but it is permitted to say that he has at least nine Indian divisions, one third of which consist of men from the United Kingdom, three Chinese divisions, two British, two West African, one East African, and half a division of American Marauders.

Combat air powers probably are divided fairly equally between the British and United States forces, with air transport largely American.

ALLIES CONFER WITH SLAVS ON TRIESTE CLAIMS

Try to Settle Dispute Over Control of Port

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—In an attempt to settle the Italian-Yugoslav dispute over the Adriatic port of Trieste the British and American governments are now conferring with Yugoslav representatives, Foreign Affairs Under Secretary George HaH told commons today.

[The American broadcasting station in Europe said last night that Marshal Tito had ordered all his Yugoslav troops to withdraw from Trieste and Goritza. The Tito order, the radio said, provides that his troops are to retire east of the Isonza river. Trieste and Goritza are west of the Isonza.]

Hall, in reply to a question, declined to go into details of the negotiations between the British and Americans and the Yugoslavs on the ground he did not "wish to prejudice these discussions."

Earlier Parleys Fail

Hall said earlier discussions between the chiefs of staff of Field Marshal Alexander and Marshal Tito had "failed to reach a satisfactory result."

In Rome the allied naval command in an official statement said British and American naval units were operating in the Trieste area "in the course of their normal duties." The composition or strength of the units were not given.

The statement was issued following published reports in Rome newspapers that allied warships had been rushed to the Adriatic port because of the tense situation which arose after the Yugoslavs announced their intention to take control of the city and adjacent areas of the Venezia-Giulia province, and hold them.

Warn Against Discord

ROME, May 16 [Reuters]—The leaders of the Italian Communist and Socialist parties, Palmiro Togliatti, and Pietro Nenni, broke their silence on the Trieste issue today.

In articles printed in Rome both issued warnings against the tone of the Italian press which, they claimed was likely to create discord between the allies.

CEYLON TO SEEK REPRESENTATION AT PEACE TABLE

COLOMBO, Ceylon, May 16 [Reuters]—A resolution directing the board of ministers to take steps to see that Ceylon is represented as an independent state at the forthcoming peace conferences was adopted by the Ceylon state council today.

The minister for local administration, S. W. R. D. Bandaranaike, told the board of ministers that he had protested to the British secretary of state for colonies against the noninclusion of a representative of Ceylon at the San Francisco conference.

D. S. Senanayake, leader of the council, will go to Britain soon for discussions with Col. Oliver Stanley, colonial secretary, on reform of the Ceylonese constitution, it was reported here today.

Smash Jap Drive

CHUNGKING, China, May 16 (AP)—The high command announced tonight that the Japanese drive on the United States 14th air force base at Chihkiang in Hunan province had been completely smashed in one of the most important Chinese victories of the war. It said a considerable force of the enemy had been trapped.

A large force of enemy troops cut off from their main base at Paoching from which the abortive Hunan offensive started April 9 was reported by the Chinese combat command to be attempting to escape thru the Chinese lines.

Heavy street fighting was continuing in the east coast treaty port of Foochow with severe casualties on both sides. The Chinese broke into the town last Friday and fighting has raged since.

PERSHING TANK'S SHELL RIPS THRU EIGHT HOUSES

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, May 16 (AP)—A partial test of the new Gen. Pershing tanks in the closing stages of the war apparently showed the latest American armored heavyweight was capable of dealing with German Tigers and Panthers.

By the time the 45 ton Pershings entered the battle in any quantity German armor had been so badly mauled by air and ground forces it was unable to put up any great resistance to the wave of allied power and there were no large scale tank battles.

But in small engagements, and in road tests, and in gun power, the Pershing showed it was the best tank the United States or Britain has put in battle.

Scoff at Jap Tanks

Most allied and many German military men express contempt for Japanese armored vehicles and do not expect the Japanese to produce anything capable of matching the older Sherman, let alone the Pershing.

It is unlikely, however, that the American heavyweight will go into action in the Pacific on any large scale until there is plenty of land room on something larger than the islands now being fought upon. The Pershing's weight offers problems in amphibious landings.

Two of the most pleasing features of the Pershing, according to American tankmen, have been road performance and the hitting power of its new 90 mm. gun.

Shell Pierces Eight Houses

The 90 mm. gun in one engagement near the Ruhr ripped off the turret of a 60 ton King Tiger in one shot. Near Wollersheim, a shell ripped thru eight houses.

The Pershing's turret action is faster than that of the German Tiger and it is almost as maneuverable as the somewhat lighter German Panther.

The new wide tracks helped in muddy terrain, altho there was not a full chance to test the Pershing on this score, as large numbers were used only after winter weather had passed. Tankmen also like the high speed in reverse, which enables it to move out of a bad position quickly.

The only major criticism tankmen had of the Pershing was directed at the powder rather than the tank itself. They said there was too much flash and smoke from the 90 mm., which blinded them and pointed out their position to the enemy.

PATTON FLIES TO LONDON; HE'S HERO OF HOUR

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—Gen. Patton of the United States 3d army flew to London from southwestern Germany today for a little delayed victory celebration of his own.

"Back to my friends," he grinned as London crowds recognized him on West End streets and gave him a welcome similar to that shouted at Gen. Eisenhower last night.

Patton went to see "Love in Idleness," the Alfred Lunt-Lynn Fontanne play at the Lyric theater. Lunt congratulated the general on his healthy appearance and Patton replied, "Yes, war seems to agree with me." Several hundred persons cheered Patton as he left the stage door.

Medal from Moscow

MOSCOW, May 16 (AP)—The soviet government has awarded Gen. Patton the order of Kutuzov first class. Marshal Tolbukhin, commander of the Ukrainian 3d army, pinned the award on the commander of the United States 3d army at a spontaneous ceremony near Linz, Austria. A dispatch from Tolbukhin's front said today that awards also were given to Gen. Eisenhower's representatives, Maj. Gen. Everett S. Hughes; Maj. Gen. H. R. Gay, chief of staff of the 3d army, and others. Corp. James J. Bekker [no home town given] was given the order of Glory third class for heroic actions.

His Closest Call

WITH THE UNITED STATES 3D ARMY, May 16 (AP)—Gen. Patton's closest call of the war came in April when a tiny liaison plane in which he was flying near Regensburg was pounced upon by a German Messerschmitt. Patton's pilot dived and the German crashed. Patton made a rough but safe landing.

Russell McDonald, 24, a bombardier taken prisoner June 28, 1943, when his plane was forced down off the French coast, was liberated April 28 from a prison camp at Moosburg, near Munich, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDonald, 3330 N. Central Park av., learned yesterday in a cablegram. Russell was freed by his brother, Lt. Charles Jr., 26, of the army engineers.

"My brother found me and took me out of prison camp," the cablegram from Russell said. "Having gay time in Paris. Home soon."

DICKSTEIN ASKS REFUGEES IN U.S. HAVEN TO STAY

Rankin Would Prohibit More Immigration

Washington, D. C., May 16 [Special]—A sharp division of opinion on America's postwar immigration policies was revealed in the house today with the raising by Rep. Dickstein [D. N. Y.], chairman of the immigration committee, of the question of what to do with the 940 European war refugees at Fort Oswego, N. Y.

Dickstein suggested that these refugees could, with the permission of congress, be permitted to remain in this country and charged against unfilled legal immigration quotas.

Rep. Rankin [D. Miss.] said the refugees should be returned to Europe in accordance with the promise given by the late President Roosevelt when the refugees were brought here for shelter last August.

Wants Tighter Laws

Rankin asserted that all of our immigration laws should be tightened and "perhaps the door should be completely closed for a few years." He added that other aliens, "including those who have government jobs," should return so that ex-service men could replace them.

Dickstein said "the humane thing to do is permit those 940 human beings at Oswego to keep the taste of freedom's way we have given them." He said he will take a subcommittee to the Oswego refugee camp on June 11 to interview those held there.

The refugees at Oswego are the only persons brought to this country from Europe under a Presidential proclamation of last June which established the Oswego refugee shelter and provided that those admitted there be sent back to their homes after the war. They have been housed in barracks and dormitories, fed from central kitchens and paid $8.50 a month for adults and $4.50 for children.

913 at Camp Are Jewish

Joseph H. Smart, director of the camp for the war relocation authority, said last September that since 913 of the group are of Jewish extraction, it was understandable that those from Germany and Poland are anxious to remain in this country. He added, however, that most of the Yugoslavs of the group would willingly return to their homeland. Before embarking for this country all the refugees signed statements agreeing their American visit would end with the war.

Dickstein told the house that only 28,000 immigrants have entered the country under quota regulations in the last two years and that immigration quotas are "more than a million" behind schedule as a result of war time interruption of immigration movement.

Inhuman, He Says

Referring to the refugees at Oswego, Dickstein said some have close ties here and some of their daughters are wives of American soldiers.

"I would favor barring the Nazis for another generation," he said, "but it seems cruel and inhuman to throw out these people."

Immigration service figures from the department's headquarters in Philadelphia revealed that in 1944 Poland topped the list of immigrants with 1,420, followed by Germany with 1,360 and England with 1,135. For Poland and Germany this was an abrupt increase over 1943 when the figure for Poland was 434 and Germany 498.

"Jews" No Longer Tallied

A possible explanation for this increase was seen, however, in a listing in 1943 of the arrival of 4,705 Jews and an omission of any figure for Jews in 1944. A spokesman for the immigration service explained that the department has discontinued use of the word "Hebrew" or "Jew" in designating races for immigration purposes.

An order to this effect was issued by the commissioner of immigration Nov. 8, 1943, it was said, and was based on an opinion from the attorney general. It is now the department's policy, it was said, to record Jewish aliens entering this country as belonging to the race of the country of their origin, or simply as members of the white race.

A study of immigration figures showed that Jewish immigrants topped all others in 1937 and led by a substantial margin in the following years thru 1943. Germans led in 1929, English in 1930 and Italians from 1931 thru 1936.

PRAGUE ASKS U. S., BRITAIN FOR SPEEDY AID TO PRISON CAMP

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The Prague radio broadcast an urgent appeal to the United States and Britain yesterday for immediate and large scale help for American and British prisoners and 25,000 other inmates of a Nazi concentration camp at Terezin, northeast of Prague.

The inmates were said to need food urgently, as well as bandages and other medical supplies. Some 5,000 were reported ill. The broadcast said there were 700 cases of typhus and 3,000 cases of dysentery. From 80 to 100 were reported dying daily.

Terezin is in the territory overrun by the Russian armies. The Prague radio said last Saturday that the Germans had converted the entire town into a huge prison and ghetto and that the international Red Cross even then was fighting an outbreak of typhus.

BRITISH PLANES FLY TO AMERICA 4 TIMES A WEEK

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—British Overseas Airways corporation announced today it had begun a summer service of four flights weekly between England and the United States. It is using 40 ton flying boats described as the largest in the world in commercial service. The American terminus of the 3,724 mile, 30 hour trip will be Baltimore, with a refueling stop at Newfoundland.

Soon joining Britain's race to win her share of the rich trans-Atlantic air traffic will be a 58 ton, 70 passenger air cruiser with two decks, a promenade, and a cocktail bar.

The flying boat has a 110 foot hull and was described as "not quite so big but faster" than the American air Goliath, the Martin Mars, now in war transport service. Overnight service is planned between Britain and New York.

15 'MISSING' U. S. SAILORS TURN UP IN PRISON CAMP

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 16 (AP)—Fifteen United States navy sailors, who for months were reported missing from sea actions, have been freed from a German prison camp in the Channel islands and are en route home. This announcement was made today by United States navy advanced base headquarters in Southampton.

All the men are survivors of hitherto undisclosed actions in which small American patrol craft fought it out with larger German vessels based on the Channel Islands. The islands were liberated last week.

Fourteen are from one patrol craft which engaged three German flak barges in an attempt to break up a daring German raid on the French mainland port of Granville March 9.

The 15th man is believed to be the sole survivor of a torpedo boat which rammed a German minesweeper after failing to sink her by torpedoes last August. He is Radioman 3d Class John L Page of North Dartmouth, Mass.

Midwest Survivors

The other survivors included Seaman 1st Class Arivine L. Anderson, Indianapolis, Ind.; Electrician's Mate 3d Class Edward J. Thomas, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Seaman 2d Class Chester R. Ferguson, French Lick, Ind., and Fireman 1st Class Michael J. Hujer, 3854 N. Sacramento av., Chicago.

In the battle of Granville the patrol craft, with a crew of 66 aboard, was pinned in between flak barges. It fought gallantly but in vain, the survivors reported. The first hit scored by the Nazis fell on the pilot house and killed all its occupants.

"Three orders were given to abandon ship," said Radioman 1st Class James Harrell of Winnfield, La. "Nobody left the first time. A few left with the second order and this gang scrambled off at the third order, splitting up on three life rafts."

Thirteen members of the crew were killed and eight others wounded.

Picked Up By Fishermen

A skeleton crew, staying aboard after the others had been ordered over the side, managed to work the craft into the rocky French coast, where they were picked up by friendly fishermen.

Each of the freed sailors averaged about 10 pounds underweight. Their chief complaint was the shortage of food in the prison camp. Cabbage soup and dark bread were the main dishes, they said.

Civilians on the island were not allowed near the camp but the sailors said British girls managed to get close enough occasionally to drop notes over the stockade fence containing the latest war news.

MANY CHICAGO GI'S FLY HOME, THEIR WAR OVER

More Starting Today; Ex-Captives First

BY ANNE BRUYERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 16—Many Chicago soldiers who were prisoners in Germany are on the way home by plane. Those who were wounded and have more than the 85 points needed for a discharge also are eligible for a ticket home. They will be catching a plane within a few days.

Dark eyed Alfred Rios, 2604 E. 106th st., Chicago, formerly a nazi prisoner, is among hundreds of Illinois Yanks who will leave France by air tomorrow.

Walked 50 Miles a Day

"I thought I'd never see my folks again," Rios sighed, "nor walk down State st., nor spend an evening in the Loop when the Jerries made me a prisoner along with my outfit. They forced us to walk 50 miles daily without food or drink. In the evening they'd repeat questions which we refused to answer. Then they'd beat us and lock us up in barns without allowing us to clean up.

"We were supposed to be headed for Berlin but our guards fled when they learned Germany had lost the war. Stories reached us to the effect that the Russians ill treated allied prisoners, but we decided to take a chance getting back to our lines. We were picked up by British pilots, who helped us reach the Yanks."

Trapped in Forest

Another Chicagoan, Anthony J. Giacalone, 1238 N. Clark st., was trapped by the Nazis in a forest for more than a week. He lived on wild roots, leaves, and water. He managed to hold on until Gen. Patton's 3d army attacked.

"I wouldn't give myself up and I wouldn't die," he declared earnestly. "I've a wife and children I promised to get back to. I have 112 points. I was told today I could pack. Tell my wife I'm on my way."

Nazis Reported Hiding in Spanish Consulates

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 16.—Charges that Nazis disguised as Spaniards are employed in Spanish consulates in France and Algeria, including that in Paris, were made today by the Communist evening newspaper Ce Soir. The newspaper printed a dispatch from Hendaye reporting that Fascist spies in the consulates furnished the information on which Generalissimo Franco arrested 1,500 patriots. Some of the 1,500 were executed.

U. S. RETENTION OF PACIFIC ISLES GETS SUPPORT

Four Nations Agree to It; Wait on Russia

Feared Charter Violation

The war and navy departments have been at loggerheads with the internationalists of the state department who contended that the islands should be placed under a league trusteeship because outright annexation would violate the Atlantic Charter's renunciation of territorial aggrandizement.

Under the Anglo-American compromise plan, possession of the islands, which are now held by the United States, would constitute ownership and it would be up to congress to decide whether such possession is in accord with international obligations assumed by the United States.

The islands in question are the Marshall, Caroline, and Marianas archipelagoes, which Japan held under mandate from the first league of nations; Iwo in the Volcano group, and Okinawa and others in the Ryukyus which are now in process of American conquest.

Draft of Compromise

The right of the United States to retain the islands in outright possession unless or until surrendered voluntarily to a trusteeship would be derived from this provision of the tentative trusteeship draft:

"The trusteeship system should apply only to such territories in the following categories as may be placed thereunder by means of trusteeship arrangements: [a] territories now held under mandate; [b] territories which may be detached from enemy states as a result of this war; and [c] territories voluntarily placed under the system by states responsible for their administration. It would be a matter for subsequent agreement as to which territories would be brought under a trusteeship system and upon what terms."

Independence Not Provided

Under this provision the islands would be placed in a trusteeship only by the "subsequent agreement" of the United States.

The compromise adopts the British declarations of high altruistic motives in the government of dependent peoples and trusteed territories. It avoids any commitment to give independence to dependent peoples, as advocated by the Russians, but declares for their "progressive development toward self-government in forms appropriate to the varying circumstances of each territory."

Evidently influenced by the criticism that they intended to conscript native populations for war the British modified the provision of their proposal to call for the use of "volunteer forces" for defense.

Open Door Modified

The social, economic, and commercial open door sought by the Americans in the trusteed territories would be modified to suit the views of the British. There would be an open door so long as it did not infringe the measures taken for security and promotion of self-government and did not alter the rights of the trustee or the trusteed people. In this manner the British would seek to retain exclusive trade and other privileges they now exercise in the former German colonies they hold under mandate.

If the United States should place any of the Pacific islands under a trusteeship, the strategic areas therein in which naval bases would be located would be subject to regulation by the league's security council and to a big nation veto of our control and administration.

Latin Americans Pacified

There was a deal of discussion in conference lobbies during the day in appraisal of the agreement reached by the chief delegates of the big five powers—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, China, and France—and the Latin American countries subordinating the Monroe doctrine and the act of Chapultepec to the peace league in actions to repel aggression in this hemisphere.

The Latin Americans are satisfied with the agreement representing a compromise between the nationalists fighting any impairment of the Monroe doctrine and the internationalists who would subordinate the doctrine to the new peace league's security council as the prime enforcer of peace thruout the world. The Latin Americans abandoned their opposition when they were promised that the act of Chapultepec would be mentioned in another place in the peace league charter as a regional agency for pacific settlement of international disputes and when State Secretary Stettinius got President Truman's pledge to initiate an inter-American treaty embodying permanently the provisions of the act of Chapultepec.

The act of Chapultepec was adopted at the inter-American conference at Mexico City last February and has been signed by the United States and the other 20 American republics.

There was speculation here on the attitude of the United States senate toward the subordination of the Monroe doctrine. It is recognized that this may be one of the grounds on which nationalists will fight ratification of the peace league charter when it gets to the senate a few months hence. Upon this and other grounds the senate might reject the charter or vote a reservation of the supremacy of the Monroe doctrine in peace enforcement in this hemisphere.

In any consideration of the operation of the compromise plan the big nation veto power figures prominently. If, for example, Russia should undertake to extend the Soviet system to any country in this hemisphere, as it is now doing in eastern Europe, the United States would be debarred from taking action against the aggressor until an actual attack should occur.

THE QUESTION

What amusing or interesting experiences have you had trying to converse with a foreigner?

WHERE ASKED

Chicago Service Center No. 2, Congress st. and Michigan av.

THE ANSWERS

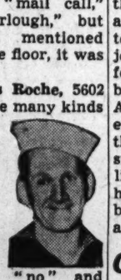
Radioman 2/C Edgar W. Cox, Indianapolis, Ind.—In Oran I went into a little French shop which sold tickets and dolls. I wanted my change in French money and tried to convey that idea in very bad French. After many motions on my part the clerk said, "I don't understand you. Perhaps you'd better speak English."

Coxswain Bill Williams, Weatherford, Okla.—I went on shore on Leyte with a combat photographer. Before we landed, our guns gave the beach a terrific shelling. All the natives hid in the hills except one man, his wife, and their child. They said they'd braved the shellfire to be the first to welcome the liberators.

Corp. Harley Miller, Kansas City, Kas.—While in France I was trying to find a cathedral. I pointed and asked a Frenchman, "Is the cathedral this way?" He said, "Yes." Then I asked other questions. He always said "Yes." I finally became aware it was the only English word he knew.

Corp. Norman Olnick, Brooklyn, N. Y. — We had just arrived in a French town and I was anxious to show my fellow GIs my knowledge of French. I conducted them to a near-by dance. I tapped several persons on the shoulder and spoke to them in French. They stared back with blank faces. We discovered they were Russian.

Pvt. Joe Keating, Sharon, Mass.—I was sent to a camp in Texas where some Puerto Rican soldiers were in training. The Puerto Ricans understood the meaning of such words as "three day pass," "chow," "mail call," and "furlough," but when I mentioned "K. P." or sweeping the floor, it was "No savvy."



Seaman 1/C Thomas Roche, 5602 Aberdeen st.—There are many kinds of wild fruit growing in the islands in the South Pacific. Some of them are not edible. On one island I picked up a piece of fruit and asked a native in sign language if it was all right to eat. He shook his head "no" and motioned me to throw it away.

SENATE STIRRED BY F.D.R.-STALIN DEAL ON KOREA

BY WILLARD EDWARDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 16 — Sizzling debate over the reported secret agreement at Yalta turning Korea over to soviet domination may break on the United States senate floor soon, according to advices received here today by the Korean delegation.

Sen. George [D., Ga.] acting chairman of the foreign relations committee while Sen. Connally, [D., Tex.] is appearing as an American delegate here, was reported as "highly perturbed" over the alleged deal made by Dictator Stalin and the late President Roosevelt which canceled out a previous public announcement at the Cairo conference by Roosevelt, Churchill, and Chiang Kai-Shek in favor of a free and independent Korea.

Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] recently sent a telegram to State Secretary Stettinius demanding the seating of Korea be put to a vote at the world security conference. No official answer has been received but Durward V. Sandifer, secretary general of the American delegation, yesterday stated that recognition of a Korean government would be "premature."

Truman Checks Facts

President Truman, meanwhile, is reported to have checked reports of the secret agreement with former War Mobilization Director Byrnes who attended the Yalta conference and to have received assurances of its authenticity. He has been urged by Dr. Syngman Rhee, head of the Korean provisional government to repudiate the deal. Unless he acts soon, according to reports, the whole matter may be aired in the senate.

Dr. Rhee sent a reply to Sandifer today noting that the recognition of the Korean provisional government has nothing whatever to do with the request for representation at the world conference. All the Koreans ask, he emphasized, is a vote in the conference on Korea's qualifications as one of the nations which should have a voice in the new international organization.

Defends Nation's Unity

Concerning the American delegation's stand that "complete unity" must be attained between Korean groups before recognition is accorded, Dr. Rhee declared that "the only group that has caused a division or disunity among the Koreans are the few Korean communist agitators."

"We will highly appreciate it if the United States delegation should advise us whether it is their desire to have the Korean government join with the Korean communist few," he wrote. "So far we have been following the principles of the American democratic form of government and we desire to know if this is contrary to the policy of the state department. We know of no liberated nation anywhere which has established an absolute unity between the nationalist majority and the communist minority."

CABLE-AIR LINE TIE TO RED HELD DANISH ISLE CUT

BY EINAR CHRISTIANSEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 16—Copenhagen was flooded with rumors today over the situation on the Danish Baltic island of Bornholm, which has been occupied by Red army troops. No official government statement has been issued.

Cable connections with Bornholm have been stopped and all air traffic has been canceled. Ships were refused entry to Bornholm ports. The last plane from Bornholm arrived this afternoon, bringing an important message to the home office. The government was said to be discussing the situation tonight.

The Bornholm correspondent of a Copenhagen newspaper telephoned his story in English. He started his conversation with the words: "I must use English. Don't ask questions."

Greenland Defense Pact Is Ratified by Denmark

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 16 (AP)—The Danish parliament today ratified a treaty of defense with Greenland. The treaty was agreed upon during the war, with the Danish minister to Washington, D. C., Henrik Kauffman, acting for Denmark.

Bar Children from Sunday Movies in British County

LONDON, May 16—The Middlesex county council today barred children under 16 from Sunday movies unless accompanied by a parent or some other adult.

BRITAIN BLAMED FOR BAN ON JEWS AT CONFERENCE

Zionist Leader Rips Imperialistic Policy

San Francisco, Cal., May 16 (AP)—The British government was blamed today by the World New Zionist organization for preventing Jewish representation at the world security conference.

Speaking for the organization, Maj. William R. Friedman told a news conference:

"Responsibility for the fact that the Jews are not represented at the San Francisco conference must be laid entirely at the door of the British government, and is part of a deliberate and calculated policy to prevent the Jewish people from developing positions which would strengthen their claims to Palestine.

Blames It on Policy

"It is Britain's imperialistic policy with regard to Palestine and the entire middle east that stands in the way of Jewish national rehabilitation and the solution of the Jewish problem."

Friedman said his organization had suggested these proposals to the conference:

The British mandate over Palestine should be abolished and the country placed under the control of the allied nations.

5 Year Trusteeship

For a period of no more than five years—during which the transfer of all homeless Jews to Palestine should be effected—Palestine should be placed under international guardianship of trustees appointed by the allied nations assembly, with the consent of the Jewish people.

Not later than the end of this five year period, Palestine should be declared an independent Jewish state to be governed "on the basis of a democratic constitution guaranteeing equal rights to all citizens."

The organization, claiming more than a million Jewish members in all parts of the world, has headquarters in London and New York. It was founded in 1935. The president, Maurice I. Mendelsohn, is in New York. The London political director is Abraham Abrahams. Political director in Palestine is Dr. Ab Altman.

Even in the City of Peace There Are a Few Discords

San Francisco, Cal., May 16 (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko was attending a cocktail party when an enthusiastic woman dashed up to him and exclaimed: "O, so you're the new Argentine ambassador to the United States!" Gromyko, who helped Russian Commissar Molotov fight letting Argentina into the allied nations conference here, withdrew into diplomatic silence.

LEAGUE REVIVED IN PATTERN OF GENEVA FOLLIES

Delegates Hope to Erase Human Errors

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 16—The unborn and unchristened body which this conference will create to preserve peace and safeguard security, against future aggression and administer certain conditions of the peace treaties imposed on Germany and Japan, will, in essence, be a resurrection of the league of nations.

Reluctance of the powers to admit the relationship is due to their realization that the Geneva organization fell into decided disrepute by its failure to carry out its mission—identical with the purposes of the embryo unnamed institution — during the years between World War I. and World War II. and is also a legacy of the late President Roosevelt who insisted on a brand new body totally unrelated to the creature of Woodrow Wilson in 1919.

Failures Are Numerous

Failures of the old league were numerous and devastating. It failed to achieve disarmament or even reduction of armaments, it refused to consider any revision of the treaty of Versailles, it declined to permit spokesmen of racial minorities in amputated territory to voice their grievances, it admitted impotence to control and supervise the administration of mandated areas, and permitted Japan, for instance, to fortify islands she had pledged herself not to.

The league failed dismally in its primary objective of preventing aggression and conflict by sitting supine when Mussolini seized Corfu, by its timidity when Japan seized Manchuria, by its inability to cope with the fascist rape of Ethiopia, by its own interference with the "anschluss" of Germany and Austria, by its vacillation concerning intrusion of Germany and Italy in the Spanish revolution, by its impotence when the nazi reich seized Sudetenland, and by its incapacity to deal with Hitler's demand to Warsaw for changes in the Polish corridor status and a change in the sovereignty of Danzig.

Still Have Hopes

But despite this staggering list of failures, most European and Latin American diplomats and political personages here believe that the mistakes were due to the human element, to the delegates who sat in the league council and assembly, and not to the mechanical framework, and the covenant or constitution of the organization.

Machinery and procedure were set down in detail for the handling of all the problems and incidents which arose during the two decades between the two wars. But the measures prepared to deal with these matters and episodes were not applied because of the timidity of the members of the league, or in most of the flagrant cases of aggression and violation of the covenant, because of secret or open alignment with the offending states.

Thus realistic statesmen refuse to charge the failures of the league to the Geneva institution, but incline to the view that any organization in its academic sense is entirely the vehicle and the apparatus for the men who comprise it.

Recall Pleasant Vacations

This point of view, prevalent among the veteran foreign delegations here, many of whom participated in the pleasant vacations offered by the Swiss organization on Lake Leman, with winter sports and mountain climbing at hand, with de luxe hotels and daily cocktail parties and banquets, is what actuates their refusal to condemn the league because, as they logically point out, the institution which will emerge from this conference will still face the human equation and condone the same infractions of its charter if the delegates lack integrity and resolution as their predecessors did.

Members of the American delegation on the contrary, without experience in the Woodrow Wilson scheme which the United States rejected, and being generally far more misty eyed and idealistic than their practical, factual foreign colleagues, see only the written words which will express the aims of the security council, and fail to take into account that it will require the wholehearted personal action of the representatives of the governments concerned, to achieve success.

It's Still a League

Thus the spirit of the organization is subjugated to terminology. No matter what it may be called it will still be a league, or as the French called it, a "society of nations." with the term "mandate" rejected and "trusteeship" substituted.

Nothing could be simpler than the transfer of the obligations of the old league to the new organization if it were merely a matter of such transfer. Colonies and possessions of Germany were taken over by the old league under the terms of the Versailles treaty to be allocated to certain claiming powers as mandates. This rigamarole was adopted to placate that public opinion which objected to "land grabbing" and "cutting up the spoils," and to justify the highfaluting speeches of allied leaders during the struggle that they were fighting a "holy war" for lofty principles, and not for their own aggrandizement, and for material gain.

But a clause in the instrument deeding ex-German territory to Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand and Japan, [islands in the Pacific with the exception of a couple of chunks of Africa], provided that these areas be not fortified or turned into military bases, but be used primarily for the good of the native inhabitants there.

Intervention by Britain

Britain, already possessing girdles of naval bases around the globe, caused the insertion of this stipulation to prevent France and Japan from strengthening their coaling stations and dry dock sites and naval repair shops for squadrons roaming far eastern waters.

In the 1919 division of the spoils the United States received exactly nothing, not even the tiny island of Yap, where an American cable station was located.

Even the American delegates understand that when the league comes to the handling of trusteeships the American people will be dissatisfied if this county is refused the right to use islands wrested from the Japanese as airplanes and naval bases.

Despite the fact the league is in the doghouse at present, a majority of the foreign delegates believe that after a suitable period the new organization will slip quietly into the old kennel at Geneva and resume work at the original stand.

Percentage Champ

Miss Jeanne Murray being crowned champion percentage war bond selling minute man by Don McKiernan of the treasury department at bond rally, State and Madison sts., yesterday. Miss Murray sold 1,500% of her quota.

Bond sales in Cook county at the close of business Monday night, the first day of the 7th war loan drive, totaled $53,876,000, or 16.5 per cent of the county's $327,474,000 quota, Lawrence Stern, campaign chairman, said last night. The figure, the first made public for the Chicago and Cook county drive, covered all sales cleared thru the federal reserve bank since April 9, including pay roll deductions.

Stern urged renewed effort, pointing out that Cook county's quota is the highest fixed for any county in the country.

Renslow P. Sherer, chairman of the Illinois war finance committee, said the total for the state in the same period was $85,300,000, or 17.4 per cent of the state's quota of 490 millions.

Sales to individuals thruout the nation totaled $1,264,000,000, or about 18 per cent of the individuals' goal of 7 billions, Ted R. Gamble, national war finance director, said in Washington, D. C. The national quota is 14 billions. The campaign ends June 30.

BANK AID STARTS A DAD-GI CLUB; SON ON IWO ISLE

Chester L. Price, 7735 Colfax av., yesterday became the initial member of the Dad to GI Joe club which is to be formed among employes and officers of the City National Bank & Trust company, where he is advertising manager. Price purchased a war bond for his son, Chester Jr., a member of the Jascos—5th Joint Assault Signal corps of the marine corps—the organization to which belonged the six heroic marines who raised the flag on Mount Suribachi, Iwo Island, on the day of the invasion, Feb. 19.

Pvt. C. L. Price Jr.

Young Price, a private, wrote his father, "I helped get the pole together that raised that flag and one of my buddies took it to the top with the others who then raised it. It was only a matter of orders that I wasn't among those who raised Old Glory up there."

CHANGE IN OLD AGE PENSION LAW OPPOSED

The social welfare committee of the City Club of Chicago yesterday registered its disapproval of any change in state laws which would relieve sons and daughters of financial responsibility for the support of needy parents.

R. Patrick O'Reilly, chairman, said the committee believed the present law had resulted in improved care of old age pensioners and that the present program contemplates better care than would be possible if children were relieved of any responsibility for the financial support of their parents.

Experience in other states has demonstrated that where children are relieved of such responsibility old age pension grants are reduced and are inadequate to meet the needs of recipients, he said. Any change in the law also would add unfair and unnecessary tax burdens, the committee said.

Just like a 4-leaf clover!

Hard to find, sometimes — but what a thrill! Seems like weeks (1945) since I set my ♡ on some brand new clothes. And I thought my heart would bust (!) when I didn't find what I wanted, right off the bat, at Bond's. 'Cause I know Bond's grand looking things are real (STERLING) quality. You know, I was tempted (devil) by some duds I saw with oodles of eye-appeal. But—without that expert Bond needlework (thread) they're not for me! After all, Bond's get new things (sofa) right along. Bond-priced just right for a gal with champagne tastes (glass) and a yen to stretch (ruler) her budget! And today, they had just what I wanted. It's like finding that four-leaf (clover) clover under my very nose → (nose)! Now—is that just luck, or am I a very smart cooky? You'll see—when you shop at Bond's.

CORNELIA DE HAAS, FAMOUS PSYCHIC

CO-ED SLAYER IS DESCRIBED AS 'COLD AS ICE'

Los Angeles, Cal., May 16 [Special]—Described in testimony at a coroner's inquest as a "conceited little snob" and "cold as ice," Barbara Adams, 17 year old co-ed, looked placidly out a window as a coroner's jury named her the slayer of her mother, Mrs. Maude Elizabeth Adams, 54, and recommended she be prosecuted.

Only once did she reveal any interest in the proceedings. That was when she signed papers directing that her mother be buried at Forest Lawn Memorial park, Glendale. As she put down the pen, she said: "That's that."

Reads Bible in Cell

Whether Barbara, a geology major at Stout City college, will be treated as a juvenile or prosecuted on a murder charge depends on the findings of psychiatrists. She is held in a county jail cell, where she spends much of her time reading the Bible.

Mrs. Anthony Dunne, the Adams' landlady, pictured Mrs. Adams as a devoted mother, who toiled for her daughter's welfare, working long hours in a hospital and then going home to do the girl's washing.

"What is your opinion of Barbara?" inquired Deputy Coroner Frank Monfort.

"I think she is a conceited little snob, just as cold as ice," Mrs. Dunne snapped.

Planned a Long Time

Police Radio Officer C. O. Peterson, who first questioned the girl, quoted her as saying: "I've been planning to do this a long time. We just couldn't get along. I'd planned to take my own life, too, but didn't have the guts to do it. Now it's up to you to take over."

Peterson said the girl told him she bought the butcher knife with which she slew her mother, but "she wouldn't say why she did it."

"She said it was about 2 a. m. last Saturday when she stabbed her," the officer testified. "Then she told me she read a Bible for a time, then went to bed. When she awoke, she cleaned the house, then called Mrs. Dunne."

Juvenile Officer L. M. Simmons said Barbara told him she once had tried to commit suicide. He said she showed him several gashes on her wrist.

The girl's father disappeared shortly after his marriage to Mrs. Adams, police said.

Barbara was called to testify, but on the advice of Deputy Public Defender William B. Neeley she gave only her name, age, and address.

VETS RETURNED TO U. S. 4 DAYS AFTER WOUNDING

Long Beach, Cal., May 16 (AP)—Twenty-one wounded American war veterans, who four days ago were battling the Japanese on Okinawa, the Philippines, and in other far Pacific fronts, arrived here today in a hospital plane.

They were taken to the group hospital until they can be retransferred to hospitals near their homes.

Berry, Milwaukee, Wis., former University of Wisconsin football and hockey player, who lost his right hand and received other severe injuries when two grenades exploded beside him; Staff Sgt. Joseph Carrier, Monmouth, Ill.; Sgt. Leo Campbell, Neola, Ia., and Privates Robert D. Lee, Olds, Ia.; Donald Garlock, Whitewater, Wis.; Ernest I. Gast, Chicago, from Luzon, and Pvt. James E. More than 900 Florists in Chicagoland are participating members of this Association—all of them committed to serving you with integrity and fair dealing.

P. S. Many thousands of Mothers' Day flower orders were received from Servicemen abroad, at sea and at American camps. Our flower stocks and facilities were taxed to extremes. And, because bad weather before Mothers' Day reduced our supplies of certain flower varieties, it was impossible to send all the roses, carnations and orchids which were ordered. To those Chicago mothers who graciously accepted other varieties of equal or better value, we extend our sincere thanks.

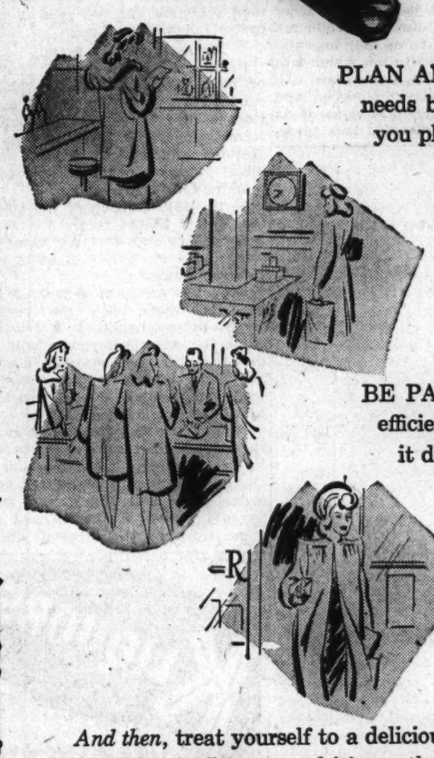
This dealer's doubling now!

Yes, your ice cream dealer is doubling for the men who are serving Uncle Sam on other fronts now . . . for the women who have stepped out from behind his counters into factories and war plants. He has to lead a "double life" . . . but it doesn't give him any more than one pair of hands!

Whether your Swift's Ice Cream dealer is a druggist . . . a grocer . . . a confectionery dealer . . . or a restaurant manager, you can help him to help you by doing the simple things suggested below!



PLAN AHEAD, but make your plan flexible. Make a list of your needs before you shop, but keep alternates in mind in case what you planned to buy is not available.

SHOP EARLY when stores are less crowded, if you can. Avoid the Friday and Saturday peaks when your dealer may be too busy to give you the prompt service he'd like to.

BE PATIENT. Your dealer is doing his level best to serve you efficiently, but shortages of help and merchandise sometimes make it difficult. Your understanding is appreciated.

CARRY YOUR OWN PARCELS. Bring your own shopping bag. The paper shortage is still acute and you'll be doing a real service if you cooperate cheerfully.

And then, treat yourself to a delicious sundae or a frosty soda made with Swift's Ice Cream . . . you'll love it! It's so good it's worth waiting for—even if you can't get it every time! Remember, it's refreshingly yours!

Refreshingly Yours...

HOUSE, SENATE OK EXPENDITURE OF 56 MILLIONS

Lower Chamber Approves Pay Measures

BY GEORGE TAGGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 16—The house and senate today passed and sent to Gov. Green 17 bills to spend $56,228,034 in state funds. The house also gave final approval to measures to raise salaries of state pay rollers, county and probate judges downstate, and probation officers in Chicago.

The Kelly-Green combination was working perfectly, an irate G. O. P. downstater commented. When acting on the appropriation bills, the Cook county Democrats behaved as if they were members of the Green administration.

Sponsors of the bills contented themselves with single sentence explanations on the floor, such as: "This is a bill for the state revenue department appropriation." Even this could hardly be heard in the house because of the hubbub. It was the same in both house and senate, with the clerks proceeding to call the roll as rapidly as possible.

10 Per Cent Pay Boost

One observer said that if the legislators had been paid on a piece work basis today they would be getting far more pay than what they seek—$6,500 a biennium instead of $5,000.

The "same roll call" device was used on the bill authorizing pay increases for state employes. It provides a 15 per cent boost for those getting under $225 a month, and 10 per cent for those receiving higher salaries. There are about 18,000 regular employes.

Rep. Granata [R., Chicago] moved that the roll call just recorded on a bill concerning a sewage treatment plant at the Kankakee state hospital be applied to the pay increase bill. Leave was granted, altho three more members scrambled onto the roll call to make the vote 117 to 0.

Hike Judges' Pay 35%

Downstate county and probate judges won raises of about 35 per cent. Classified according to county population, they will get between $8,000 to $2,400 a year, instead of between $6,000 to $1,800.

Another bill passed will permit the Chicago city council to raise salaries of Municipal court probation officers. Top bracket is to be $8,000 instead of $6,000, and the next is to range from $3,000 to $4,000 instead of $2,000 to $3,000. Lowest will be $2,600 to $3,500 instead of $2,400 to $2,600.

"I would like to know how long these 'probate' judges work," said Rep. Schuler [R., Aurora].

"Work in Their Sleep"

"They work in their sleep," Rep. Euzzino [D., Chicago] replied.

A bill was introduced by Rep. James J. Ryan [D., Chicago] to authorize the Chicago city council to increase wages of laborers, workmen, and mechanics above those fixed in the appropriation ordinance. The city could go into debt for this purpose and sell bonds to raise the money under his bill.

The senate also passed and sent to the house appropriations committee bills totaling $60,877,420. And it approved the bill providing for an increase in the state highway police force from 350 to 500 men.

CEMETERY BILL HEARING IS SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Stelle, Doyle Lobby Against Measure

Springfield, Ill., May 16—A special hearing will be held in the house next Wednesday on bills designed to stop chiseling practices by some privately owned cemeteries.

John Stelle, former governor, and Howard L. Doyle, United States district attorney here, are leading a lobby against the bills.

The hearing, in which the house will sit as a committee of the whole, was scheduled as Rep. Reed F. Cutler [R., Lewistown] who introduced the series of four bills, submitted amendments to exempt religious and fraternal cemeteries from the regulatory plan. Municipal cemeteries and family burial plots previously were exempted.

Buttonhole Lawmakers

As Cutler arranged for a full hearing, Stelle and Doyle buttonholed Democratic legislators in the corridors adjoining the house chamber. It was Doyle's first appearance as a lobbyist. Doyle, a Decatur Democrat, served as a house member before he was named federal prosecutor for the southern Illinois district.

Stelle was Democratic governor for the 100 day regime following the death of Gov. Horner in 1939.

"There have been complaints that a comparatively few cemeteries have stooped to misapply funds paid by bereaved persons who in their hour of sorrow contracted for perpetual care of graves," Cutler said.

"All decent cemetery officials want the practice stopped."

Protect Lot Owners

Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett, who drafted the bills, said:

"These bills eliminate the chiseling practices of racketeering cemetery operators and protect the public and lot owners. They insure perpetual care as far as we can. Legitimate cemetery operators can have no objection to regulation of dishonest and racketeering cemetery operators."

Cutler's new amendments, drafted after consultation with cemetery officials, would remove fraternal cemeteries, including those owned by Masonic, Moose and other lodges, from the scope of the act. All religious denominations would be exempted also.

From the sidelines, Stelle indicated he and Doyle would continue their lobbying, which so far has been conducted in the name of fraternal burying grounds. On the desks of all representatives this morning were photostatic copies of telegrams, said to have been solicited by Stelle, in which state officials of the Masons and Odd Fellows opposed the bill.

Stelle dictated this statement: "I am an attorney representing the Downstate Cemeteries association which includes Odd Felows and Masonic cemeteries, and we are opposed to the bills for the simple reason that we do not believe that the attorney general's office should have the right to audit and control this type of business."

"Should Be Consistent"

"He should be consistent. He was against the New Deal trying to control business. Now he is out-dealing the New Deal. Our constitution says the auditor should do the auditing for the state. I am as consistent now as I was when I was in public office when I fought all attempts to put auditing in the hands of other officials than the state auditor, where it constitutionally belongs."

Doyle said he didn't consider it improper to lobby, so long as his clients' interests "do not conflict with those of the United States government and so long as they do not conflict with my official duties."

STEAL SAFE HOLDING $225

Burglars who broke into the Diane Infant and Lingerie shop, 2712 North av., removed a small safe containing $225, Mrs. Josephine Kozicki, 1501 N. Mozart st., owner, told police yesterday.

BORIN MARITAL TIFF BEFORE COURT AGAIN IN ALIMONY ACTION

Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday referred to Special Commissioner Alvin Kayner a plea by Mrs. Claire Borin, 32, of 4300 Lake Shore dr., for alimony, support of a child, Bonny Joy, and attorney's fees in connection with her divorce suit against Nathan Borin, 52, wealthy president of the Borin Art Products corporation, 666 Lake Shore dr.

Yesterday's action marked the fourth legal tiff of the Borins since their marriage in 1933. The first occurred a few months after the wedding when Mrs. Borin filed suit for separate maintenance, but the couple patched up their differences.

The second round opened when Borin filed a $400,000 alienation of affections suit naming the late E. M. Asher, motion picture producer. Mrs. Borin, who was in Los Angeles, flew to Chicago to deny the charges and filed another suit for separate maintenance. This, too, was patched up. Again in 1937 Mrs. Borin sued for divorce, but a reconciliation was effected.

Commissioner Kayner will hear evidence on Mrs. Borin's motion and report his findings to Judge Sabath. No date was set.

ILLINOIS SYNOD O. K.S SEMINARY SHIFT TO U. OF C.

Another step toward removal of Chicago Lutheran Theological seminary from Maywood to the University of Chicago campus was taken yesterday when the Illinois synod of the United Lutheran church adopted a resolution approving the proposal. The synod's 26th convention is being held in North Austin church, Mason av. and Le Moyne st.

The resolution calls for accepting the university's offer of a 99 year lease on four buildings at $1 a year with physical control of the buildings remaining in the hands of the university. "Complete independence and control of the seminary as to curricula and evangelical position shall remain inviolate with the seminary board," the resolution stated. The university would afford to the seminary all privileges, such as physical equipment, faculty, library, and courses.

The Indiana and Michigan synods previously approved the plan. The Pittsburgh [Pa.], Wartburg [Ill.], and Iowa synods have yet to act.

Waukegan Boy, 14, Jailed; Confesses Four Burglaries

Melvin Prickett, 14, and his brother Charles, 16, of Townline rd., northwest of Waukegan, were arrested yesterday and is in the Lake county jail. Melvin was charged with burglary and his brother with receiving stolen property. Deputy sheriffs said that Melvin admitted four burglaries in which approximately $500 in loot was taken. They said Charles admitted receiving some of the loot. The brothers will be arraigned May 23 before Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt in Waukegan.

Expect Bill Will Die in Subcommittee

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 16—A bill to set up a fair employment practices commission was sent to a subcommittee today by the senate judiciary committee with little expectation that it would reach the senate floor. The committee voted, 10 to 8, against the bill.

The measure, which was sponsored by Senators Schwartz [D., Chicago], Mills [R., Chicago], and Wimbish [D., Chicago] was designed to eliminate consideration of race, creed, color, or national origin in employment.

None of the 1,000 other bills introduced this session brought such an avalanche of telegrams, letters, and telephone calls to the legislators.

"Might Intensify Prejudice"

Opponents of the measure contended it would intensify rather than ameliorate prejudice. They charged that it would keep employers on tenterhooks in attempting to avoid the appearance of violation.

It also was asserted that the legislation would lead to the creation of an all-powerful government employment agency that would become the greatest political instrumentality in the state.

Opponents who testified before the committee today included E. D. Stoetzel, secretary of the Peoria Manufacturers association; the Rev. Mason Grey, Granite City, president of the Tri-City Ministerial Alliance; Clifford Bowler, speaking for the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Granite City; Joseph Springman, lumber dealer of Alton, and G. W. Noelscher, secretary of the East Side Manufacturers Association, Granite City.

Aronson Favors Bill

Arnold Aronson of the Chicago Council Against Racial and Religious Discrimination, spoke for the bill.

"I know that you can't legislate prejudice out of existence," he said, "but we want to outlaw the excesses of prejudice. This bill provides for hiring on qualification, without regard to race or color."

Sen. Barr [R., Joliet] agreed with the sponsors that a motion to send the bill to subcommittee was for the purpose of preventing its passage.

Barr said under the bill a commission virtually would take over the reins of industry. This he said he opposes.

Wimbish declared that enforced social equality is the bugaboo of America. He said the Negro race, of which he is a member, does not attempt to get social equality by legislation since this does not exist in any group, "even your family."

C. A. C. IS TOLD CITY TERMINAL AUTHORITY PLAN

Chicago must have a publicly owned terminal authority because private capital is not available to undertake coördination of steam and motor transportation and warehousing within the city, guests at a Chicago Association of Commerce luncheon in Hotel Sherman were told yesterday by Joshua D'Esposito, government engineer.

He explained some of the details of the authority plan, which is embodied in a bill awaiting passage in the state legislature. It would not be granted taxing powers and would have to borrow money for its needs on the sole security of its potential earnings from rents and fees. New York's port authority, on which the Chicago plan is based, has been operating successfully for 25 years, D'Esposito said.

He hazarded the opinion that Chicago and Illinois could do a better job than New York has done.

No Reconciliation

MRS. WALTER KIRK

An attempt by Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court to effect a reconciliation between Walter R. Kirk, retired soap manufacturer, and his estranged wife, Mrs. Louisa Nevins Kirk, 46, of the Drake hotel, was unsuccessful yesterday, the court said after a hearing in chambers.

Judge Sabath called Kirk and his attorneys, Robert E. Cantwell Jr. and Christopher E. Jones, and Mrs. Kirk, with her attorneys, Benjamin B. Davis and William C. Boyden Jr., into chambers in an effort to reconcile the couple. He said Kirk termed such a move impossible.

Kirk filed suit for divorce March 20 on grounds of constructive desertion and his suit alleged that he had repeatedly remonstrated with his wife about her extravagance. In a counter-suit filed a few days later Mrs. Kirk denied that she had been extravagant and asked for separate maintenance. Her bill asked further that Kirk be enjoined from disposing of a trust estate of $100,000 and other assets on which she placed a like evaluation. Judge Sabath yesterday continued the hearing until Monday when the matter of property settlement in case of a divorce will be heard.

GLORE TO HEAD CANCER DRIVE FOR $560,000

Charles F. Glore, president of Glore, Forgan & Co., investment banking firm, 135 S. La Salle st., yesterday was named general chairman of the Illinois division of the American Cancer society, to head a drive that organization will launch May 29 to raise $560,000 for cancer control and research.

This quota set for Illinois is part of a 5 million dollar fund the society is seeking nationally to organize what Dr. John A. Wolfer, chairman of the group's local medical advisory committee, said will be the first comprehensive attack "on the nation's No. 2 killer."

On the basis of present knowledge, Dr. Wolfer asserted, one-third of the 17 million Americans destined to die of cancer could be saved thru early detection and treatment.

KEEPS 100 MEN OFF WAR JOB IN UNION CAMPAIGN

Approximately 100 employes of the Athletic Shoe company, 918 N. Marshfield av., which makes athletic footwear for the army and navy, were prevented from going to work yesterday by Jack Spiegel, organizer for the United Shoe Workers' union, CIO, and a score of unionists, police said.

Spiegel, an alleged communist sympathizer, and his aids are allegedly trying to force the company workers to join the union. The company is challenging Spiegel on the ground no election has been held to enable the employes to voice a preference.

Capt. George Barnes of the police labor detail warned Spiegel that if attempts are made to interfere with workers today he will arrest those responsible.

HUTCHINS SEES DRAFT AS GREAT PEACE OBSTACLE

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, expressed opposition to peace time conscription for military service last night in an address to the political action committee of the Labor Rights society, a student organization, in Mandel hall.

"Peace time military conscription would be the greatest obstacle to enduring peace," he said. "The United States should give convincing proof of its nonaggressive intent. There is no evidence that peace time conscription wins wars."

W. G. Kult of Kenosha, Wis., international representative of the war policy division of the United Automobile Workers [CIO], also expressed opposition to peace time compulsory military training.

George M. Fisher, chairman of the Republican county committee, yesterday issued a call for a meeting of the committee at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the La Salle hotel.

Shock Kills Driver; Live Wire Falls Across Truck

W. Stanley Freeman, 58, was killed yesterday by an electric shock when he touched the door handle of his truck across which a charged wire had been knocked by a tree limb as the vehicle stood in front of his home in Braceville, Grundy county. Freeman's daughter, Mrs. Adair Zanaglia, was burned severely on the hands and feet when she attempted to aid her father. She was taken to the Silver Cross hospital in Joliet.

TAMPERING WITH THE MONROE DOCTRINE

The Latin American countries at San Francisco have agreed to give up some of the protections which the Monroe Doctrine conferred upon them. They have been most reluctant to approve any such change in their relations to the world and to Europe in particular. It would be remarkable, indeed, if they felt differently about it.

For nearly a century and a quarter now the United States has been pledged to fight any nation of the old world which threatened the independence of a nation in the new world. We have repeatedly shown that we meant business, with the result that during a period when the imperial powers were busy picking up real estate all over the world they didn't meddle much in the countries to the south of us, and when they did they didn't get away with anything for long.

The Monroe Doctrine didn't prevent all wars in the Americas, but it did prevent big wars from starting over the division of Latin American spoils, because there haven't been any to divide. The policy has proved itself to be one of the more useful devices for averting major conflicts. It is hardly to be wondered at, then, that the Latin American diplomats have been unable to see why this admirable system should be upset in any particular by a conference whose primary purpose is to organize the world for the prevention of war. Why modify a system that works to the desired end in favor of an untried one?

The Latin American nations have been particularly puzzled because only a few weeks ago they took an action at the Pan-American conference at Chapultepec that must be almost unprecedented in diplomatic history. Until then the Monroe Doctrine had been what the diplomatists called unilateral; the United States on its own motion had declared that it wasn't going to allow any monkey business in our hemisphere. At Chapultepec the Latin American nations said unequivocally for the first time that this arrangement was satisfactory to them and they claimed for themselves the right to stand beside us in any controversy that might arise over the application of the doctrine. They didn't have to do that but they chose to do it of their own accord, and it was not without significance that Chapultepec happens to be the site of a bloody engagement in our war with Mexico. Obviously they were eager to let the world know that tho the United States today is vastly stronger than any of them or than all of them together, they no longer fear the colossus of the north.

The record in this matter raises the question why the other powers, and Britain in particular, are trying to upset the existing arrangement. It is impossible to avoid the suspicion that some aggressions are contemplated. What they may be is anybody's guess, but the Latin Americans would be forgetful, indeed, if they didn't remember that the colonial powers have given repeated evidences of their desire to do imperial business to the south of us.

During our Civil war the Spanish tried to establish themselves in Peru and San Domingo in the belief that we were too preoccupied with the rebellion to interfere. Likewise, the French, not without support from Britain, took Mexico with a view to establishing a satellite empire there. A generation later, in 1895, Lord Salisbury, the British foreign minister, declared during the Venezuela crisis that "the government of the United States is not entitled to affirm as a universal proposition with reference to a number of independent states for whose conduct it assumes no responsibility, that its interests are necessarily concerned in whatever may befall those states simply because they are situated in the western hemisphere."

Americans on both sides of the Rio Grande didn't agree at the time and don't agree now with the Salisbury doctrine. We in this hemisphere regard the maintenance of peace in our area as our business exclusively. We have not forgotten the protesting round robin from the European powers at the time the United States was preparing to help the Cubans gain their independence. We have noticed of late a disposition on the part of Russia to look across Bering strait.

What intentions the colonial powers may now have in mind isn't revealed, but their eagerness to break down the Monroe Doctrine and the Chapultepec accord cannot be viewed without alarm. They can't be doing these things in the interest of peace, because the Monroe Doctrine has kept the peace far more effectively than they have ever been able to do it. It may safely be assumed that any Americans who are advocating this plan are working consciously or unconsciously in the interest of American high finance, which sees in the breakdown of the Monroe Doctrine a chance to do things under a new arrangement that can't be done under American law and tradition.

TOWARD TAX RELIEF

Sen. George, whose views on tax matters probably carry more weight than those of any other man in the house or senate, has indicated the changes he thinks ought to be made in existing taxes. He has declared that the normal tax on corporations should be reduced from 40 per cent "as near as possible to the 18 per cent which existed before the war," and he favors the abolition of the excess profits tax. The objective in individual income tax revision, he said, should be a cut of the maximum to 50 per cent.

Sen. George's program is essential if private industry is to be able to provide full employment, not only right after the war, but also in the following years. The reduction of the treasury's levies upon income is the first step in preparing for peace time prosperity.

Sen. George thinks that the cuts can safely be staggered over a five year period. We feel that the change should be made in one bite, or, at most, in two. Taxes which hold down peace time employment should go, and there is no merit in giving the relief piecemeal.

In reply to a question at his Tuesday press conference, President Truman said that a tax cut should not be made until after the Jap war is over, but congress need not wait until then to act. The immediate enactment of a tax relief measure, to be effective when peace is restored, would go far toward encouraging business concerns to make advance preparations for the post-war period. That would be especially true if the President would announce now that when the war is over the government will relinquish its control over prices, priorities, allocations, and requisitioning.

Of course taxes cannot be reduced to the extent Sen. George proposes unless every proposal for more peace time spending is resisted. Sen. Taft pointed this out on Monday in opposing a bill providing 200 million dollars for rural electrification. This 200 million is part of a larger program, totaling more than 3 billion dollars.

Unless congress takes its stand against the REA measure and others like it, adequate tax relief for post-war prosperity is impossible. Any appropriations of the sort included in the program Sen. Taft condemned will require the raising of funds collected from people getting low incomes. If every dollar of income were taken from everybody getting $5,000 and above it would not be enough to meet the interest on the debt, care for veterans, and for national defense of peace time proportions.

WAR CRIMINALS

The Spanish government is going to turn Pierre Laval over to the French, who will try him as a traitor. The decision is a disappointment to Laval, who had pleaded that he be turned over to the United States for trial as a so-called war criminal.

Laval has landed where he belongs, and the fact that he was not delivered into our hands, where he presumably thought he stood a better chance for his life, has saved the American government embarrassment. It is a fact that American law knows no such thing as a war criminal in the loose fashion in which the term has been used recently. It is an equal fact that our constitutional prohibition against ex post facto laws would prevent us from establishing any such crime and punishing any one for acts committed before the statute was passed.

These facts, however, should not prevent the imposition of proper punishment on a single member of the Nazi gang or any of the collaborators who played the Nazi game thruout Europe. There is sufficient law in existence to bring every one of them to justice, without disgracing our own legal traditions by participating in the creation and execution of ex post facto laws.

The United States army in Europe has the right under international law and the rules of warfare to bring before an American court martial every German who killed or tortured, or starved or otherwise mistreated an American prisoner of war. If, as it has been alleged, Adm. Doenitz, the self-nominated heir of Hitler, instructed his submarine crews to kill survivors of sunken ships, our navy has the legal right to bring him to trial for piracy. Likewise we have a right to try the Japanese officials and officers responsible for the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor and the other Japs guilty of mistreating prisoners.

The Belgians, Dutch, Danes, and Norwegians have the right to try by court martial and execute for violation of the laws of war the Nazi generals who invaded their countries without a declaration of war, and with them any Nazi officials implicated in ordering these invasions.

The case of Heinrich Himmler is in point. He has been indicted on the complaint of at least five nations as a war criminal. It is indicated that he will be turned over to the Czechs and tried for the massacre of the people of Lidice.

Murder is a crime in every country. The Dutch leader of the Gestapo in Holland, who is alleged to have sent a hundred thousand Dutch Jews to torture and death in slave labor camps is in the prison which he once ruled, and the Dutch courts can deal with him.

The killers and torturers who vented their cruelty on Jews and other German citizens within Germany are not beyond punishment under existing laws. The savage German legal code that Hitler promulgated still exists and the men who used it as an instrument of their obscene brutality have no just complaint if they are subjected to its provisions. The international war crimes commission is a necessary and useful agency in gathering evidence of Nazi crimes, apprehending the criminals, and turning them over to the proper authorities for punishment. In those activities the United States can coöperate wholeheartedly.

But this country can have no part in the setting up of special courts or the promulgation of special laws to punish acts committed in the past. Such courts and laws are not necessary and such a system of jurisprudence is foreign to all the traditions of American justice.

NEWS FROM ZIPANGU

The first reporter to give European civilization an account of Japan was the much mentioned Marco Polo, who passed on what he had heard at the court of Kublai Khan, Tartar conqueror of China. Marco, nicknamed Millions by his fellow Venetians and also by Eugene O'Neill in a play staged by the Theater Guild in 1924, wrote or dictated his book [probably aided by a "ghost"] in the late years of the 13th century. He called the country, which he thought was one large island, Zipangu. When you blend that with the name used by the early Chinese, Ge-pen, you will understand why the occident has always called it Japan instead of Nippon.

* * *

Polo lived up to his nickname in describing Japan; he said that it was full of gold. [Whenever a European of that era heard of an undiscovered country he always imagined that it was rich with precious metals and stones.] Listen to Marco, an excellent reporter for his time, smack his lips over the gold of Japan:

* * *

"They have gold in the greatest abundance, its sources being inexhaustible, but as the king does not allow of its being exported, few merchants visit that country. To this circumstance we are to attribute the extraordinary richness of the sovereign's palace. The entire roof is covered with a plating of gold. The ceilings of the halls are of the same precious metal; many of the apartments have small tables of pure gold, of considerable thickness; and the windows also have golden ornaments. . . .

* * *

"In this island there are pearls also, in large quantities, of a pink color, round in shape, and of great size, equal in value to or even exceeding that of the white pearls. . . . There are also found a number of precious stones."

* * *

Polo closes his good tidings from Zipangu—a fairly brief passage—with a charge of cannibalism against the inhabitants. If a captured enemy could not pay ransom, they cooked and ate him at a family feast.

Springtime Pain in the Neck

"Is house cleaning ever a pain in the neck!" I murmured to Ferdinand, my silver tabby cat.

"Also the back and points south," he agreed. "These highly waxed floors are going to be the death of me some day. What I need is a pair of spurs to prevent skidding."

"The floors do look lovely," I said admiringly. "One could almost eat off of them."

"Eat what?" he asked. "Planked fish?"

"And did you notice how the crystals on the light fixtures are sparkling again?"

"The flies will take care of that any day now. It can't rain forever."

"And the venetian blinds—they gleam with cleanliness."

He began to chuckle. "When I think of the kid writing 'dust me' with his finger on the blinds—and so you dusted him."

"Thanks for reminding me. Because the next time I catch you coming in out of the mud and taking a bath on my fresh bedspread, I shall clean up on you."

"The day can't come too soon," he announced. "What day? When the polished furniture is covered with fingerprints, and somebody draws pictures on a steamy window, and the kitchen linoleum is covered with black rubber heel marks, and here and there is a smattering of dust. Then, my girl, I shall know things are back to normal again and you may expect to hear me singing, 'Home, sweet home'."

SCHOOLHOUSE SURRENDER

They came in cringing deference to yield
The victory to men, cold-eyed and stern,
And tho their careful humbleness concealed
Their erstwhile arrogance, one might discern
A puzzled wonderment that troops like these,
Untaught in war, had somehow found the might
In lands sunbright in peace beyond the seas
To rout the lightning of their evil night.
They worshiped steel, and iron was their god;
They mocked at learning as a weakling's tool;
Now, in a schoolroom's calm, they feel the rod
Of retribution from an ancient rule!
They burned the books, nor knew that living flame
Tempered the sword we raised in freedom's name!

Mrs. S. V. writes: "Is it true that boys who are wounded in action and receive blood plasma are charged for it?"

Here is the official response from Basil O'Connor, chairman of the American National Red Cross: "It has been called to our attention that rumors alleging that Red Cross blood plasma is being sold to soldiers and sailors are being circulated thruout the United States. These rumors are vicious lies and apparently are circulated by persons who wish to deprive our fighting men of life-saving plasma. The blood which each week more than 100,000 patriotic Americans have given to the Red Cross is turned over to the army and navy and processed by them into blood plasma, or flown as refrigerated whole blood to Europe and the Pacific. Full possession and control of the blood passes into the hands of the army and navy when the Red Cross ships it from its centers to processing laboratories. The army and navy, as is well known, administer this blood or plasma to wounded soldiers and sailors without any charge."

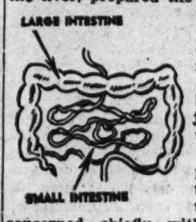
A JOB FOR THE SMALL INTESTINE

OUR last discussion on digestion described the breakdown of food in the duodenum. Secretions from the intestine, as well as from the pancreas and the liver, prepared the gastric contents for the work to be done by the remainder of the small bowel—the jejunum and the ileum.



The upper portion of the small intestine is concerned chiefly with secreting the juices which alter our edibles chemically to complete the job of digestion. The material is now ready for absorption and this is the main function of the lower part of the structure. Its mucous lining is as wrinkled as a prune. If it were stretched out, its length would be increased considerably. This is the reason why the absorbing surface is so great.

But how does the body take up the finished product? In the wall of the small bowel there are millions of tiny projections termed "villi." These hairlike channels contain blood and lymphatic vessels which carry all the nutritive elements into the blood stream, whence they are distributed to cells and tissues everywhere for immediate use or storage, as the case may be.

Proteins and starches reach the circulation directly thru the capillaries in the intestinal wall. Fats take a more roundabout route, preferring transportation via the lymphatic system. Eventually, of course, these channels empty into the blood.

Food sojourns in this area three to eight hours. Water, and whatever particles have not been used pass thru the ileocecal valve into the first segment of the colon, or large intestine.

The process of digestion does not always proceed in an orderly fashion. There are so many related factors that each of us has encountered, at some time or other, at least a mild upset. On the whole, these episodes are relieved by the correction of eating habits and more suitable menus.

Irritation of the wall [enteritis] may result from several disorders. Food or chemical poisoning, the consumption of indigestible articles, or overeating are but a few. Allergy must not be overlooked as a "starter" and the condition may accompany certain systemic diseases. Intestinal parasites should always be thought of. Bacterial invasion is a common cause and scrupulous cleanliness will save many a bout, especially in nurseries where enteritis may spread so rapidly.

Acute attacks must be well managed because, if neglected, the ailment may become chronic. When inflammation persists the patient may complain of loss of weight, fatigue, cramping, and intermittent diarrhea. At times the discharges may be firm, dry, and shiny—only to resume a watery character.

We may well investigate a change in bowel habits, especially those which come on in later years. The average individual does not have the training necessary to determine whether or not certain manifestations may be forgotten safely.

SQUEEZED VALVE

C. R. writes: Will you please describe symptoms of a cardiospasm?

REPLY

Occasionally the valve at the entrance of the stomach tightens up. As a result the victim has some difficulty in swallowing food—chiefly solids. Regurgitation of this material often follows. The individual is conscious of the fact that whatever he eats fails to enter the gastric pouch promptly. This may be associated with slight discomfort or actual pain.

FEVER IN TEETHING

A. D. R. writes: Is it true that a child will sometimes run a temperature of 103 degrees F. rectally and be sick in general when cutting teeth?

REPLY

This is a normal process and no scientific proof is available that it can induce fever. Look elsewhere for the cause.

PREMATURE BABIES

Mrs. R. writes: How many weeks or months premature may a baby be and live?

REPLY

Survival is possible after 6½ months [28 weeks]. The closer these "mites" come to term, the better the chances.

AGITATED

B. J. B. writes: What causes twitching of muscles all over the body?

REPLY

If you are otherwise healthy, it may be due to lack of calcium or too much smoking.

Thirty-Three Days That Shook the World

This is being written on Tuesday, May 15, when for the first time in 33 days the American 'is is flown at full staff thruout the world. Looking back over that period, beginning late on April 12 with the death of President Roosevelt, it is doubtful whether in any period of modern history more transpired in shorter time. The 40 days of Musa Dagh, once, and especially when translated into literature, considered tremendous, could have been swallowed and forgotten in any one of these recent days.

On that Thursday of mid-April American forces had just crossed the Elbe. No hope of sudden victory was entertained, but there was, nonetheless, a current of jubilance in line with the victorious onslaught of the allied armies. This changed to shock, mourning, and, in many quarters, foreboding when the American flag everywhere was lowered to half-staff. What would happen now?

So much has happened, so rapidly, that the stanchest mind can barely keep pace with it. Truman, the man nobody knew, became President, and in Europe the tottering fortresses continued to fall—Vienna and Leipzig and medieval Nuernberg, the latter on the 56th birthday of the man who made it the shrine of his evil; the concentration camps of Buchenwald, Belsen, and Dachau with their buried and walking dead.

Tons of gold bullion were found in a salt mine. The aged hero of Verdun, who became a latter day opportunist, surrendered to the Swiss. The house at Berchtesgaden that thought itself an eagle's nest crumbled beneath six ton bombs. A subterranean battle more bloody and mechanized than a Wellsian thriller took place in the miles of steel and concrete of Berlin's subways. Goering, the dope addict with a medal-omania complex, fled. Duesseldorf, Bremen, and La Spezia fell, as the allied armies met at the Elbe. Milan was liberated, and the allied nations [and Argentina] met 7,000 miles away to establish the security of the world for all time.

Then, as allied tanks charged on to Munich, news of a false armistice swept the world.

This neither stopped nor affected the swift flow of events. The fat strutter known as Il Duce came to an ignominious end, together with his mistress and 17 of his counselors. The Red flag flew over the ruins of the reichstag, and Hitler, the man who eight months ago declared "we shall leave you nothing but rats, ruins, and epidemic," was heralded as dead. The ruins were there, but the rats were fleeing and epidemic had not come.

Whole armies began to surrender. Half a million here, a million there. The bodies of Goebbels, the ranter, and all his family were found, poisoned. Four bodies of Hitler were found. A young lieutenant, in combat for the first time, captured the great strategist, Von Rundstedt. The Danes sprang to arms after six years' abstinence. The American flag flew at halfstaff, over Berchtesgaden.

Then, not at all suddenly, came the unofficial peace of Europe, as guns still sounded in Czechoslovakia. It was denied, accepted, denied, accepted. "If we had fought the war as poorly as we are admitting the peace, we never would have won it," was the comment.

Peace was official, and the lights went back on in Europe, but the aftermath was intricate. In Norway the man whose name became a synonym for traitor surrendered; in Austria, fat Goering. In Germany Konrad Henlein, unidentified at first and penned with ordinary prisoners, committed suicide. Iron fish began to rise out of the sea in surrender, exiled kings to retrace the paths to their thrones, boundaries and trusteeships to be fought over, the security conference at San Francisco to rumble with discord, Russia to reconvert its industries to peace, and the United States to drop 3,500 tons of fire bombs on a city of Japan, open its seventh war loan drive, ship its weary soldiers 9,000 miles to another ocean and another enemy, and fly its flag once more at the top of the staff.

And in Chicago almost as much rain fell as prompted Noah to take to his ark.

OVERSIZE TRUCKS

Chicago, May 1—According to published reports, owners of highway trucking companies are about to petition lawmakers of various states to permit wider and longer trucks to operate over public highways.

The only reason for this is a heavier pay load. Heavier loads mean more ruined pavements, for which we, the public, paid. Any one that was compelled to follow one of these highway box cars up a hill at 5 to 8 miles an hour, or tried to pass them on a level road, will raise his voice in protest. Even more annoying is being compelled to follow them in wet weather, with windshield plastered from top to bottom and visibility zero.

To top the matter, they are asking for wider roads. Are they going to pay for them? Not much. We, the common motorists, will have to dig. I have a suggestion for the trucking companies. Let them build and maintain the roads for which they ask the public to pay. We, the motoring public, will be glad to stay off their private roads.

Those of us, who look forward to pleasure driving after gas rationing has been suspended do not want our trips to be impeded by these highway box cars. Let's put a stop to them before they get started. F. J. BOLLING

FLOODED VIADUCTS

Chicago, May 9—Rain! A blessing, to be sure—but O, the apprehension if it still goes strong after 4 o'clock. Why? Some of us must hurdle the flooded railroad viaducts.

And are the department stores really complete in their seasonal wardrobing without considering the needs of the viaduct hurdler? A pair of rubber boots, alpenstock, brogans, preferably with spikes, for climbing, skis, perhaps, for the oozy mud and, lastly, by way of morale, a tin whistle. Doesn't a hen cackle when her egg is laid? This is exactly how a successful viaduct hurdler feels on reaching the top of the railroad tracks, after slipping, sliding, crawling, climbing thru box cars, and over tracks to begin the doubtful descent on the other side. BONNIE L. BOWDEN

RUBBER FOR THE ARGENTINE

Portage, Wis., May 4—The New Deal has pulled plenty of fool stunts, but this last is about the "foolest"—sending rubber to Argentina! Dissipating our already desperately deficient supply to curry possible favor with a country of very questionable connections. Why not let them buy or "lend-lease" first-hand, from their rubber producing neighbor, Brazil? We must walk so foreigners may ride.

WANTS A REAL PARADE

Chicago, May 12—As a small boy I attended and, with patriotic pride, watched the veterans of our wars march in the Memorial day parades, and as a veteran of World War I, I have never missed an opportunity to parade on this day.

Years ago when the veterans of the Civil and Spanish American wars marched, the day had a very significant and sacred meaning, demonstrated by the number of veterans in the parade, and by the exhibition of the American flag by every household in the city. It seemed as if this was truly a day of sacred remembrance for the dead of all our wars.

In recent years our Memorial day parade has consisted for the most part of drum and bugle corps exhibitions and a very small percentage of war veterans. I often wondered why the small number of veterans marched in the parade and, upon questioning a number of veterans, I sadly realized that our great and sacred Memorial day was a day for playing golf, opening up summer cottages, and various other nonessential chores. Some even expressed themselves by saying, "Do you think I am silly enough to walk two miles? Let the chumps do the parading."

From the large posts of the American Legion in Chicago with a membership of 500 to 900, the representation often consists of only 12 to 15 members. The past commanders of these posts, if they marched, would make up a greater number.

If ever there was a time to demonstrate sincere patriotism, it is this coming Memorial day, when all veterans' organizations should turn out in large numbers and march in the parade like orderly soldiers, with pride and dignity in commemoration of the dead of all our wars and as a good example to our comrades of World War II., and also that our Memorial day shall live forever. SALES TAX

Chicago, May 15—Is a dealer in second-hand merchandise subject to the Illinois sales tax? H. M.

The fact that goods are second-hand, or even that they have previously been the subject of taxable sales, does not exempt a dealer from the sales tax. Under rule 15, as applied to sales made before Dec. 1, 1938, goods acquired by the dealer as "trade-ins" were exempt on resale, but under revised rule 15, effective after Dec. 1, 1938, the sale of the trade-in property carries the same tax liability as the sale of any other new or second-hand property.

G.O.P. BEATEN IN COMMITTEE TARIFF FIGHT

Charge Democrats Vote for Unemployment

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 16—Tentative approval of legislation granting the administration power to make new tariff reductions up to 50 per cent without ratification by congress was given today by the house ways and means committee.

Rep. Knutson

The committee, voting to extend the reciprocal trade agreements program for three years from June 12, defeated an attempt by Republican members to outlaw tariff slashes of more than 50 per cent below the 1930 level. The vote was 14 to 11, with one Democrat, Rep. West [Tex.], siding with the 10 Republicans.

The measure, as tentatively approved, authorizes additional reductions under agreements now in force of up to 50 per cent, or a total of 75 per cent below rates fixed in the 1930 Smoot-Hawley act. Where no agreements now are in force the reduction is limited to 50 per cent.

G. O. P. to Continue Fight

Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.], ranking minority member of the group, told reporters the Republicans will continue to fight the additional duty-cutting power when the measure reaches the house floor, probably Tuesday. He foresaw a sizzling battle.

"The committee majority unfortunately cast its vote in favor of creating unemployment after the war," Knutson declared. "We cannot have jobs and prosperity if the American market is to be thrown open to foreign cheap labor goods on which tariffs will be cut to rock bottom by a bunch of global-minded burocrats."

The committee today added several minor amendments to the bill and plans to meet later this week to report on the measure as revised.

One change requires that tariff cuts negotiated under reciprocal agreements must apply to base rates in effect before the war. This means that lower duties, fixed by executive authority as a war measure, as on strategic metals, cannot be used as a base for reductions.

Can't Reinstate Canceled Pacts

Another revision outlaws the reinstatement of pre-war reciprocal trade pacts canceled during the war. This is directed at an agreement made with Czechoslovakia and abrogated after Germany invaded that nation. The clause does not preclude negotiation of an entirely new pact with Czechoslovakia.

Also inserted in the bill is a requirement that the war and navy departments must be consulted on proposed tariff agreements in the interest of national security. Present law requires consultation with the state, commerce, and agriculture departments.

Eight amendments proposed by Republican members, in addition to the elimination of the additional 50 per cent cut, were rejected, all by 14 to 11.

These included the proposed right of court review to any citizen or business claiming damage from a trade pact, and another proviso that no article could be imported where the price, including duty, is less than production cost as computed by the United States tariff commission.

Other Curbs Knocked Out

Other defeated proposals would have given congress the right to veto any trade pact within 90 days after it was negotiated, and would have stipulated that no tariff cut should be granted nations unfairly discriminating against American products.

The committee also rejected attempts to limit the extension of the law to two years, and to one year. Also defeated were a proposal to outlaw tariff cuts on handicraft articles, and one limiting imports of "national defense" materials to 40 per cent of the 1934-'38 average, where such items are largely produced in this country.

STRIKE TO ENFORCE SOCIAL REFORMS CALLED IN FRANCE

PARIS, May 16 (AP)—A general strike was called by the federation of labor unions today in the department of Rhone, affecting police and prison guards as well as factories, shops, and utilities.

Associated Press dispatches from Lyon and local representatives there of the Agence France Presse reported the strike was called to enforce demands for social reform.

Cafes, stores, movies, and shops closed in Lyon. Street cars halted. Employees of municipal electricity and water power works were called to leave their posts this evening. Police and prison guards "remained at their posts but aren't working," an AP representative said, and refused to open the doors to admit prisoners.

G. O. P. SENATORS BLAST DALEY ON HIDDEN FUND

BY ROBERT HOWARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 16—A new effort to get the senate to approve a $100,000 appropriation to help launch the Kelly-Green plan for a Chicago traction authority failed today after a heated debate during which Republican senators denounced Sen. Daley [D., Chicago], Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman.

Calls Daly Unfair

In an angry speceh, Sen. Giffin [R., Springfield] charged Daley with being "unfair" and warned that the controversy threatened defeat of the Kelly-Green bill for a Chicago terminal authority. Giffin is co-sponsor with Daley of the terminal bill.

The uproar started when Sen. Thompson [R., Galesburg] called attention to a previously unnoticed amendment in the appropriation bill for Director George B. McKibbin's finance department.

Several Republicans charged Daley with "bad faith" and said the $100,000 item had been eliminated from the original traction bill as the only way of getting downstate votes.

Hits Gov. Green

Sen. Downing [R., Macomb], appropriations chairman, said Daley would have to explain the appearance of the $100,000 for the traction authority in the finance department bill. Daley said it was the idea of the Green administration.

"Who is representing the administration in this senate?" asked Sen. Dick [R., Quincy]. "The next time they have an administration amendment I hope they will give it to a Republican and not to the leader of the minority Democrats."

Mother and 7 Children Die as Flames Destroy Home

Faribault, Minn., May 16 (AP)—Mrs. Edward Duchene, 35, and her seven children, ranging in age from 2 to 14, suffocated today in a fire which destroyed their two story frame house.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO SIMPLIFY CHARTERCHANGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 16—Final legislative action was taken today to submit to a referendum at the 1946 general election the proposal for a "gateway" amendment to the Illinois constitution.

On a 44 to 0 roll call, without debate, the senate concurred in a house joint resolution for the proposed constitutional amendment. The amendment received the requisite two-thirds majority in both houses and does not require the approval of Gov. Green.

If the amendment is to be adopted it must receive a majority of all votes cast in the 1946 general election.

The gateway amendment is so-called because it is designed to open the way for easier constitutional changes in the future. The procedure would be that, after two-thirds approval by both legislative houses, a future amendment would only need a two-thirds majority of those voting on the proposition at the election. Any three amendments could be submitted at an election.

REPORT TRUMAN PLANS SWEEPING BUREAU CHANGES

Washington, D. C., May 16 (AP).—President Truman plans a sweeping government reorganization to absorb independent agencies into regular departments. Senators, who asked to be anonymous, made this disclosure of the President's plans today.

The senators said Mr. Truman is moving slowly and that it may be weeks before the first steps become apparent. It was said the revisions will include cabinet changes, possibly in the labor, treasury, and justice departments.

One senator, especially acquainted with Mr. Truman, said "The President always has believed that government should operate on a vertical basis. He is an old army man accustomed to a logical chain of command. The government operated on that basis for many years and it was the most effective."

VETS MAKE GOOD IN CIVILIAN JOBS; WIN PREFERENCE

Chicago Factory Pleased by Success of Its Test

Veterans are preferred over all other classes of job applicants at the United Precision Products company, 3524 Belmont av., not solely for patriotic motives but because they make better workmen, and more readily fit into the company's plans for a post-war organization.

N. W. Redemer, founder and president of the company, said yesterday that 19 out of 62 men employed are veterans and that this number will be gradually increased. William S. Bunnell, general manager, has an application with the United States employment service for nine men, eight of whom must be veterans and the ninth may be a veteran if he has the necessary experience.

Close Accuracy Needed

The work in which the veterans have made good is the manufacture of precision plug gauges, which requires extreme accuracy. The company is the world's largest manufacturer of such gauges, which measure the diameter of holes and must be accurate to within one twenty-millionth of an inch.

The company's preference for veterans is the result of a program of veteran placement in operation less than six months.

Veterans as workers are preferred for many reasons, Bunnell said. They have a general frame of mind totally lacking in the average civilian worker, interest in their work that virtually eliminates absenteeism, and a purpose that looks more to post-war security than immediate overtime pay.

"These men realize more than ever what a great country they live in," said Bunnell, a wounded veteran of World War I. "They don't have the typical 4-F attitude that we've got to hire them no matter how poor a job they do. They are anxious to do good work and have learned much from military discipline."

Vets Rise to Key Jobs

Several of the 19 veterans already occupy key jobs. Albert Moss, five months after leaving clerical work in the air force in Italy, is office manager and purchasing agent. Dick Chaiser, 20, former air force meteorologist, is head of the blueprint department.

"We have found the veterans biggest difficulty is anxiety," Bunnell said. "We try to hold them back during their training period. It takes some of them a month, some three or four months."

Redemer described the veterans as his "post-war projects." Head of a business built from a basement shop and a capital of $260, he said he expects it will continue to grow long after the war.

GIRL, 17, OFFERS TO HELP MOTHER PAY BACK $16,155

Lois Reynolds, 17, a tall, attractive girl, told Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court yesterday that she will obtain a job as soon as she is graduated in June from Oak Park-River Forest High school so she can help repay $16,155 which her mother is accused of embezzling.

Her mother, Mrs. Dolores Reynolds, 44, 120 N. Oak Park av., Oak Park, a widow, stood weeping while the girl testified. Mrs. Reynolds pleaded guilty to the charge of embezzlement, but said it was "unbelievable and fantastic" that the sum was as large as charged.

She said she took the money to defray expenses for her and her daughter while she was employed for four and one-half years as bookkeeper and cashier for Riley and Kerr, Inc., 715 Lake st., Oak Park, a real estate firm, at $125 a month. She said the money had been spent, but that she would try to repay it. Judge Ward will rule May 25 on an application for probation.

LOOT WORTH $6,000 STOLEN

Antique jewelry and two oriental rugs, with a total value of $6,000, were stolen by burglars, Mrs. Michalena Witz, 56, of 6332 N. Fairfield av., reported to police yesterday. Her husband, Harry, owns the Continental Construction company.

Ordered to Court

Mrs. Elinore Cashman and her son, James, 2.

An attachment was issued yesterday by Judge Joseph Sabath for Mrs. Elinore Jean Cashman, 21, of 5728 Ridge av., when she failed to appear in Superior court to surrender her son, James, 2, to her divorced sailor husband, Benjamin H. Cashman, 25, who has been awarded custody of the child.

Mrs. Cashman won custody of the boy when she was granted a divorce March 8, 1944, on grounds of desertion. Custody was transferred to the father, however, when Cashman, a veteran of 18 months in the South Pacific, informed the court that his former wife was to have a child by a married man. The court ruled she was not a fit mother.

Cashman, who was represented in court by Atty. Harry X. Cole, accused his former wife of hiding with the child. He said he had maintained a yigil at her home for three days. He is being transferred to California this week and wants to take his son with him.

He was arrested in Toledo, O., while throwing water filled paper bags out of a seventh floor hotel window.

Robert A. Gardner, a partner in Mitchell Hutchins & Co., stock brokers at 231 S. La Salle st., was elected president of the Community Fund of Chicago, Inc., to succeed Edward L. Ryerson, at the annual meeting yesterday. Gardner's election returns him to the position he resigned to enter the army in 1942.

Ryerson, who has been president of the fund for nine of its 14 years of existence, said yesterday in his report that the fund had never before been in such favorable financial condition. The Community Fund received $4,289,500 for 1945 from the Community and War Fund of metropolitan Chicago, and the directors have approved recommendations for allocations totaling $4,210,733.

Officers reëlected are Charles C. Kerwin, Victor Olander, James L. Palmer, Lester N. Selig, Hermon Dunlap Smith, and R. E. Wood, vice presidents; Paul S. Russell, treasurer, and Linn Brandenburg, secretary.

A help to well-being these food-short days

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN GIVES 5 IMPORTANT BENEFITS

Famous breakfast cereal extra rich in protective food elements

IT'S wise these days, when many favorite foods are short, to be sure your family gets enough of the protective food elements it needs. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, economical and plentiful, helps provide these 5 food features:

1. IRON—to help maintain your blood's "iron level." One ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN provides over ½ of your daily minimum iron needs.

2. OTHER MINERALS—to help build bone and teeth. Weight for weight, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN provides 4 times as much phosphorus, nearly 3 times as much calcium, as whole wheat.

3. VITAMINS—to help guard against deficiencies. ALL-BRAN gives twice as much B_2, 4 times as much niacin, and just as much B_1, as whole wheat!

4. PROTEIN—to help build body tissues. Quality in protein is of great importance. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN provides high-quality protein.

5. GENTLE REGULATION. ALL-BRAN is a famous regulating cereal—helps prevent constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet. Satisfactory laxation usually results from eating one ounce of ALL-BRAN daily and drinking plenty of water. You get so many nutritive features in ALL-BRAN because—

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat

Nature makes a habit of concentrating important protective food elements in the outer layers—the skin—of many fruits, vegetables, and grains. Wheat's vital outer layers (from which KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is made) contain a concentration of protective food elements found in the whole, ripe grain.

While many foods are short, give your family the 5 great features of ALL-BRAN. Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

"ALL-BRAN Is Appetizing Many Ways!"

Toasty, nut-brown KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN tastes downright good as a cereal by itself. Every shred is carefully toasted to heighten its grand flavor, and it's triple-milled for golden softness. Grand, sprinkled over other cereals. Makes delightful muffins. Simple recipe on the package. Give your family restful variety by serving ALL-BRAN many different ways.

Give your family the 5 great benefits of this nutritious cereal!

More Than Half of City's Butcher Shops Shut

New York, May 16 [Special]—More than half of this city's 10,000 retail butcher shops were closed today and hotel and restaurant menus were cut more deeply than ever before as New York came into the grip of the war's worst food crisis here.

The situation in the public eating places was made more difficult by critical shortages of eggs and some other unrationed foods and by sharp curtailment of pastry baking because of the recent slash in commercial sugar rations.

300 Restaurants to Close

Three hundred, and possibly 400, of the 19,000 public eating places in New York will shut down in two weeks because of lack of adequate food to serve, according to Paul Henkel, president of the Society of Restaurateurs.

The hotel association also is "making a careful study" of the entire food situation, Martin Sweeny, president, declared.

City and trade officials agreed that the meat supply had never been as bad as before, and Mayor Fiorello La Guardia got part of the blame.

La Guardia "Complimented"

"The mayor drove the meat out of the city," said Joseph Eschelbacher, secretary of the State Retail Butchers association. Eschelbacher said that shipments of meat and poultry to this city slumped after city inspectors halted trucks entering New York on May 4 in a drive against uninspected meat.

"Everybody in the meat business is afraid to do business in New York City," said Eschelbacher.

Informed of Eschelbacher's statement, Mayor La Guardia said he felt complimented.

CANADIANS ASK BAN ON YANKS BUYING MEAT

WINDSOR, Ont., May 16 (AP)—The Windsor city council last night adopted a resolution urging federal government action to curb unrestricted purchases of meat and other food on this side of the border by residents of Detroit, Mich. "We have here a city of 120,000 provisioned for 120,000 people and we can't provide for a city of millions," said Ernest Davenport, alderman.

The Windsor meat supply situation is becoming increasingly serious as a result of the influx of shoppers from the United States, said Thomas Brannagan, also an alderman.

REX, A FREEDOM LOVING MONGREL, PINES IN PRISON

Rockford Split Over Bus Drivers' Mascot

Rockford, Ill., May 16 [Special]—This is the story of a hundred men and a dog.

It is the story of Rex, a brown and white mongrel who had happily barked Rockford's 100 bus drivers off on their runs at State and Wyman sts. for the last 12 years. In return, the drivers had taken him home at night, fed him, and bought him his annual license.

Wins and Loses Liberty

Until last Monday night Rex had been a familiar figure in Rockford's "loop," his joyous barks punctuating traffic noises. Other dogs were kept from running loose from May 1 to Oct. 1 by city statute because victory gardeners had complained, but Rex, by virtue of a resolution adopted by the council Feb. 4, 1944, had been protected from "molestation and kidnaping."

At Monday's council meeting Alderman Eric Anderson read a letter from Humane Officer Donald Tudor proposing that Rex's special dispensation be rescinded. "All dogs should be treated alike," Tudor said.

The council voted unanimously to take away Rex's liberty. When the bus drivers heard about it, they spirited Rex to their office, out of the humane officer's reach. They've confined him there since Tuesday, but they don't know how much longer Rex can stand it. He's getting old, they say, and he won't touch his food.

Town Split Into Factions

Meanwhile, the city of Rockford is split into two angry camps. One of them sides with Mayor C. Henry Bloom and his "treat all dogs alike" regime. The other, growing more numerous by the hour, sides with Rex and his 100 bus driver pals.

Humane Officer Tudor said today he has been deluged with telephone calls from citizens who want to help Rex. At least 25 have offered to give Rex a home. Others have demanded that Rex be permitted to take up his private traffic job without fear of the gas chamber.

At the bus barns, Rex whimpers every time a bus leaves, or flings himself against the doors of his jail. As the drivers return, Rex's brown eyes seem to hold a question.

MORE CIGARETS SEEN WITHIN 2 TO 3 MONTHS

Army, Navy Rationing to Begin June 3

New York, May 16 (AP)—Cigaret manufacturers said today an improvement in the civilian supply could be expected within two to three months.

The most optimistic comment came from the National Association of Tobacco Distributors: "The situation will ease during the rest of 1945, but civilians still will have to stand in line."

Service Rationing Starts June 3

In Washington the army and navy announced that the fighting forces will ration cigarets, cigars, and smoking tobacco at military and naval establishments and prisoner of war camps in the United States, starting June 3.

Ration cards will enable military personnel, their dependents and authorized civilian employes to receive six packages of cigarets or 24 cigars or four ounces of smoking tobacco weekly. War prisoners will get only tobacco.

Cigaret makers and other trade circles outlined the current supply situation like this:

Normally it takes three weeks for cigarets to travel from the manufacturer thru the distribution network to the customer.

But for the fighting services in Europe this "pipeline" extended to from five to seven months—about three months' stocks in the United States, a month in transit and one to three months' inventories overseas.

V-E Cuts Supply Needs

In the wake of V-E day the supply line is expected to be reduced considerably. A similar stream of cigarets to the Pacific will be expanded, but this one already is established. The net effect is to change from two pipelines to one only.

The most recent burley crop set a new record and the 1944 flue-cured tobacco yield was the second highest in history after the government authorized a 20 per cent increase in acreage.

Altho this tobacco must age two to four years, it will permit a slight increase in withdrawals of aged stocks now for making smokes.

A shortage of man power recently has been a big factor in curtailing supplies for civilians. Now that cutbacks are showing up and the army has announced that 2,000,000 men will be demobilized in the next year, cigaret output may be advanced by more help.

'ARMY REJECTS 15% MORE THAN IN WORLD WAR I.

Altho different standards of physical fitness were employed, draft rejections of World War II. were 15 per cent greater than those of World War I., Dr. Reginald M. Atwater, executive secretary of the American Public Health association, declared last night in the La Salle hotel at the third restricted war conference of the Illinois Public Health association.

Dr. Atwater said 2,700,000 young men were placed in 4-F between November, 1940, and January, 1944, totaling 45 per cent rejection as compared with a 30 per cent draft rejection in World War I.

Rejection of the 2,700,000 draftees, Dr. Atwater reported, was because of the following: Mental diseases, 18 per cent; syphilis, 10.7 per cent; muscoloskeletal [muscular and bone] defects, 9.6; cardio-vascular, 8.3; hernia, 7.6; neurological, 7; eyes, 6.8; ears, 5; mental deficiency, 4.3; tuberculosis, 3.4; all other diseases, 18.4 per cent.

parts, thus helping to keep many old cars on the road until the output of new ones reaches the mass production stage.

George Romney, managing director of the Automotive War council, told reporters the new cars "are going to be different from the 1942 models."

Controls were taken off production of 1,200 of the commonest civilian items by the other WPB announcement today. The juke box control revocation also released pinball machines, coin operated amusement devices, and slot machines.

The order dropped from the books forbade the use of iron and steel on 400 types of goods embracing the 1,200 individual products. It covered coat hangers, bath tubs, compacts, flashlight tubes, laundry trays, ice cream freezers, house numbers, parking meters, automatic pencils, match boxes, mop wringers, pie plates, shower stalls, ice and roller skates, and many other familiar items.

Must Use Unwanted Material

The rescinded order was known thruout industry by its official designation "M-126." It was originally issued by former WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson.

The revocation will not affect industry materially until the WPB creates its proposed uncontroled pool of steel, copper, and aluminum for civilian use next July 1. Until then manufacturers must get along with such idle, surplus, or used steel as they can find.

The publishing industry will benefit from two other revocations, one lifting restrictions on the manufacture of new printing machinery, and the other removing limits on the amount of copper and zinc that may be used in producing printing plates. WPB estimated that eight or nine months will be required to provide printing equipment whose production has been discontinued.

Other Orders Revoked

Warnings that improved production cannot be expected immediately, in most cases not until after materials restrictions are removed July 1, accompanied other revocations. They included:

1. Removal of the ban that prohibited the manufacture of golf clubs, except for the army, navy, and the veterans' administration.

2. Revocation of controls on the production and sale of house trailers.

3. Cancellation of rules regulating the manufacture of jacks, whether operated mechanically, electrically, hydraulically, or by air.

Controls on stainless steel, which formerly were included in "M-126," are continued, having been incorporated in another regulation.

FRIEND, FAMILY GET ESTATE OF THOMAS HOWELL

The will of Thomas Montgomery Howell, 63, once known as "the Wizard of the Grain Pit," disposing of an estate estimated at one million dollars, was filed in Probate court yesterday. Letters of administration were issued to the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

Under terms of the will of the veteran grain broker, who died in New York May 10, the bulk of the estate is left to members of the family and to Mrs. Jane Hughes Davies of New York, identified only as "a friend."

She was bequeathed Howell's personal effects. Howell's estranged wife, Pauline, was left $5,000 outright and one-third of the residue of the estate. The remaining two-thirds was placed in a trust fund, one-half of the income of which is to go to Mrs. Davies for her lifetime, then to revert to the family.

Howell, a grain broker here since 1907, was a member of the Board of Trade and of the New York stock, cotton, and produce exchanges.

RAIN THREATENS GARDEN CROPS, FLOODS CELLARS

City and Suburbs Suffer from Steady Downfall

Flooded basements and streets were reported in Chicago and some suburbs yesterday as a steady rain inundated low lying farm lands and caused fear among truck farmers that their crops might rot in the ground.

Rich gardening areas in southern Cook county, particularly near South Holland, were under water in many places and farmers were working in rubber boots to save some of their asparagus. Carl Bourmet, farm bureau member, said he feared other crops already planted would suffer considerable damage.

May Heads for Record

I. W. Brunk, weather forecaster, said in the Chicago area May was well on its way to a record as the wettest May in history. So far this month 6.11 inches of rain has fallen, compared with a normal of 1.70 inches. In May, 1883, 7.32 inches of rain fell.

As Addison creek flood waters began to recede, the 700 residents of Stone Park were able to reach their homes without the aid of hip boots, but villagers said that if the rain continued most of the homes would be virtually isolated. The weather bureau extended no hope of early cessation of the rain today.

Foot Deep in Melrose Park

Traffic was diverted around North av. from 17th to 20th avs. in Melrose Park because water a foot deep covered the highway. Police reported that no homes were affected by that local flood. They said this was caused by a stoppage in culverts that the state department of highways had neglected to clean.

Crestwood and MacArthurville, southwestern suburbs, reported that prairies and vacant lots were under water and roadside ditches were filled. The Calumet river is out of its banks in some places, but there is no serious threat of a major flood, it was reported.

Try to Save Tomatoes

Large canning companies that have received hundreds of thousands of tomato plants for farmers to set out under contract were fearful that the seedlings might rot before the ground is dry and warm enough for planting; farmers stacked the plants in boxes of sand and dirt wherever they could find some shelter.

With general farming work at a standstill, farmers were drawing on their hay supplies to feed live stock, because the animals could not be placed on pasture. Oats fields and wheat fields were reported suffering deterioration.

Report Basements Flooded

In urban Chicago, Thomas D. Garry, superintendent of the sewer department, reported he had received 20 calls on flooded basements and about 50 calls on clogged sewer inlets. The rain had caused his department little trouble, however, because it is a slow, steady fall, Garry said.

Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, said the rain virtually had halted street repair work and slowed down garbage collection to such a point that he ordered the department to work Saturday.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

★ The GARDEN ★

No sweet corn or field corn has yet been planted in the Wheaton farm fields and gardens, but already the men are devising methods of increasing the late summer and autumn yield of these crops.

The gardener has his sweet corn seeds ready to go into the ground as soon as the topsoil dries, and when we were on the farm one rainy afternoon early this week the farmers were repairing and oiling the corn planter, which soon will be started on its rounds. After the planting chores are completed, the yield will depend, primarily, upon summer weather conditions; secondly, on the amount of sabotage done by crows and squirrels.

Warning to Pests

There's nothing the farmers can do about the weather, so their main efforts toward peak production this season concern control of the crows and squirrels. Shortage of shotgun ammunition during the war years has prevented the shooting of crows, so the number of these birds in the farm woodlots is noticeably larger than in past years.

Last spring, hordes of crows consumed entire rows of corn just as it was starting to germinate. If the shell shortage is eased this season, the men plan some concentrated hunting forays to reduce the farm's crow population.

Squirrels Take Big Toll

Squirrels destroyed about 1,000 row feet of sweet corn in the main farm garden last summer; every hiker thru the farm woodlots finds hundreds of field corn cobs, evidence of corn stolen from the fields by gray squirrels and fox squirrels.

All hunting has been discouraged on the farms for many years, with the result that the squirrels have multiplied to become a major nuisance. Dr. Lee Yeager, who observed the farm's squirrel population this spring as a member of the Illinois natural history survey, recently accompanied us on a sanctioned hunt over two of the farm woodlots, and a number of gray squirrels were eliminated. In addition, the farm residents will be encouraged to hunt squirrels in the open season this fall in a further effort to control the pests.

The farm folks also will trap some squirrels in the heaviest woodlots this season. Attempts to lure the bushtails into traps near the gardens have been unsuccessful in past seasons, so this year the squirrel traps will be placed near den trees in the woodlots, a measure recommended by Dr. Yeager.

WOMAN CHEWED BY PACK OF DOGS DIES OF WOUNDS

Miami, Fla., May 16 (AP).—A Miami woman, attacked tonight by a pack of dogs, died in a hospital shortly afterward. Constable W. M. Hudson of Dane county said the woman, Mrs. Micko Zinke, apparently was pulled to the ground by a half dozen pit bulldogs as she was walking near the city limits of Miami Springs.

Miami Springs Police Officer Fred Freeman said two soldiers heard Mrs. Zinke's screams and drove the dogs off.

Hospital authorities said flesh was torn from both the victim's arms and patches of her scalp were laid bare. She was still conscious when police arrived.

The fire started in five different places in the building. Rooms on the second and third floors were damaged seriously. Earl Downs, city fire attorney, is investigating.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Double
Pass	2 diamonds	2 spades	Pass
Pass	3 diamonds	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Two of clubs.

We continue today with our discussion of the tactics of maintaining communication between two hands and the counter-strategy of destroying the enemy's connections. It is self-evident that a declarer who cannot reach the dummy is fighting with only half his equipment, and similarly defenders who are unable to communicate with each other have no striking power.

The bidding is somewhat aggressive, but can be explained by the circumstances that the hand was played in a duplicate tournament in which battles for part scores are very keenly contested. Note that North refused to make a free raise to three diamonds because he had forced partner to speak and South might not have had anything. Holding a five card suit and a king, South put up a sporting, tho risky, fight by calling three diamonds.

The two of clubs was opened and won by the ace. The 10 of spades was returned and West played the queen. Declarer's play at this trick determines the success or failure of the hand. He concluded that West must have five spades only, because if he held six he probably would not have given up the fight so soon with a partner who had opened the bidding. He therefore ducked. The spade was continued and won with the jack.

The South hand was entered by ruffing a club and the jack of diamonds permitted to go to East's queen. East could do no better than get out with the ace and another trump. Declarer decided that East had shown so little for his opening bid that he probably held the queen of hearts and that the finesse would therefore fail. Hoping that West held the 10 of hearts he led the jack out of dummy, East covered with the queen and South won with the king and finessed dummy's nine on the return, making three diamonds.

Note the difference if the first spade trick had been won with the ace. When East got in with the ace of trumps, he would have had a spade to lead to his partner and would thus have obtained a ruff for the setting trick. Ducking the first spade destroyed the opposition's lines of communication.

Sensible Girl Pens Answer to GI Letter

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Some time ago this column printed a letter by a GI overseas who stated that: "Girls back home had better get on the ball . . . because girls over here are more appreciative, they aren't afraid of hard work, and they know how to say 'thank you' . . ." The soldier wrote that his conclusions came from his own experiences and the experiences of his buddies, all talked over in countless bull sessions. But the gals back home had something to say, too, and said it in letters of protest. Here's an explanation, sent in by a good hearted girl who has bull sessioned the problem over with her friends:

"This soldier says the GI's overseas prefer French and English girls to American girls because they are more appreciative and because they are harder workers than we are. In the first place, these girls have lived several years in deprived, bombed-out countries; no wonder their appreciation now is more acute. But before the war, the fellows in this country got the type of girl they asked for . . . namely, glamor girls. If they had looked around on date nights they would have seen fellows with high school Hedy Lamarrs and Veronica Lakes. Glamor was the by-word. The hard working, serious girl was left out. They just weren't 'smooth' enough. Now the boys are out fighting. They are working hard. No time now for a lot of play. And they want girls of the same type.

"Perhaps some of the boys overseas don't realize that a lot of our girls are working in war plants, as nurses' aids, and at other double time jobs. First the fellows spoiled us, and now they tell us we're no good. Contrary to many opinions, I think it is the men who set the standards of a country, and as our fellows have changed, we have changed. But there is nothing to argue about. We have all come thru a war together. Let the boys come home and look around; the type of girl they want is waiting for them."

Europe to Bow to Yank Dead Memorial Day

BY LARRY RUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 16—American soldiers who died to defend their country in Europe, Africa, and the United Kingdom will not be forgotten on Memorial day. Reverent and simple but impressive services have been arranged at all cemeteries where they are buried.

The chief quartermaster of the European theater of operations has issued orders for the beautification of 50 new cemeteries in which rest the dead of this war. The American Overseas Memorial Day association, in conjunction with the American Legion, has arranged for special services in memory of the 37,000 whose graves were in permanent American military cemeteries here before this war began.

Col. Thomas R. Howard, chief of graves registration, has obtained 180,000 American flags—there are not nearly that many graves—and they will be used to decorate the burial plots.

French children will bring wild flowers to the graves, as they have in the past. Indeed, even during the German occupation the children put flowers on the graves of the American soldiers, and in the Paris region services were organized during the occupation.

Henry W. Dunning, American director for relief for continental Europe, who was secretary of the American Overseas Memorial Day association, said arrangements had been completed for services and for the decoration of graves in the permanent American military cemeteries. The names of these cemeteries, their location, and the number of graves in each follows:

Suresnes in the Seine province, 1,541; the Meuse-Argonne, Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, 14,225; Oise-Seine, Seringes-et-Nesles, 6,012; St. Mihiel, Thiancourt, 4,152; Aisne-Marne, Belleau, 2,287; Somme, Bony, 1,832; Flanders Field, Waereghem, Belgium, 356; Brookwood, Brookwood, England, 453; the Escadrille Lafayette memorial at Villeneuve-l'Etange, 68; isolated graves, 358; World War I veterans buried in the American Legion cemetery at Neuilly, 43.

Thirty-eight veterans of the Tripolitan war are buried at Villefranche, four veterans of the Civil war at Cherbourg, and 12 at Paris. The Civil war dead buried here were members of the crews in the famous Alabama-Kearsage battle off Cherbourg.

For the fallen of World War II there will be not only the decoration of the graves but services by chaplains of the Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish faiths. A firing squad of eight men and a bugler will take part in the ceremonies at each of the cemeteries.

An officer will place a floral wreath on the grave of an unidentified soldier. The chaplains will offer prayers at 10:30 a. m., then the officer placing the floral wreath will speak.

In Paris services will be held at the American church on George V. av., with the Rev. Frederick W. Beekman in charge. This is the church where Gen. Pershing attended services for our European dead on Memorial day in 1918.

The American ambassador and his staff will be present, as will representatives of the French government. At noon the ambassador will place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at the Arc d' Triomph. A guard of honor furnished by Gen. De Gaulle will be present.

Three afternoon services will be held at Suresnes. These will be presided over by Gen. Bentley S. Mott, chief of the battle monuments commission.

The Overseas Memorial Day association was organized immediately after the last war. It has had charge of services commemorating our dead in Europe ever since, with the American Legion sharing expenses.

Sports Outfit

This pattern illustrates the 1945 fashion truism that shorts and tops combinations need not be strictly tailored. The design puts ruffling around the round neckline, and either puffs the sleeves or is content with "wings" of the fabric over the arms. The shorts have skirt lines. Style No. 2875 is designed for sizes 9 to 17. Size 15 requires 4⅞ yards of 35 inch fabric.

Spirited Child Needs Wise Management

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Everybody admired the fine, upstanding, little lad with the sunny smile and terrific enthusiasm for and interest in everything that came within his orbit, but his mother said:

"Yes, he is a splendid boy, but he is so active he wears me out, and I wish I knew how to manage him so that he won't wear himself out, too. After Sue who is so gentle and quiet he's a veritable cyclone of energy. . . ."

There are many children, quiet, affectionate, calm, amenable, who are a comfort to their parents and never present a problem in handling.

But there are others who require most thoughtful guiding, and among the most interesting of these is the spirited child. When I say spirited, I mean the child who has great physical energy and great joy of life.

The beautiful spontaneity, the physical expression of well being, the "positive" quality that is an inherent part of the spirited child is something well worth preserving. But the doing of it requires a deep sympathy with, as well as an understanding of, his temperament, a respect for his caliber, a light touch but a firm one, a handling flexible enough to adjust itself to him and his varying needs.

This type of child often is noisy because he is so active, and he often is ebullient in his fun, so he ought not to have a mother who is a victim of nerves, or often tired. And happy is the spirited child if he has a mother or father who possesses some of the same joy of life.

He must not be allowed to follow too much his own impulses, or he may be wild. He must not be too "sat upon" or his light and liveness will dim. He must be saved a little from himself or his very enthusiasm for joy and movement will fatigue him.

His intensity sometimes is a form of excitement or emotion, and this takes its toll from the body. So a watchful eye must not only be kept on the degree to which he is allowed to spend his energy, but also on that which replaces it, namely, his food and his rest. He requires plenty of both of these.

Saddle and Cycle Club Marks 50th Year with Party May 26

BY JUDITH CASS

A DINNER-DANCE Saturday night, May 26, to celebrate the Saddle and Cycle club's 50th anniversary will not be a costume party, but some gowns of the 1890s which appeared at club functions in its early years will reappear on this occasion. Mrs. Paget K. Cady has saved some of the gowns worn by her mother, the late Mrs. Arthur Bissell, 50 years ago, and will wear one of the most becoming ones to the Saddle party. Mrs. Louis C. Sudler is another planning to wear an authentic dress of that era.

Lending extra atmosphere of the gay '90s will be derby hats, false mustaches, and checked vests, which will be available at the club for the men guests, and lace fans for the women. The clubhouse itself will be looking more as it did when it first was built, for the porches have been painted white, as they were originally, and the beams and woodwork in the main lounge have been scraped down to the original wood. New slip covers, lamps, and other decorating have the club dressed up.

As the curfew has been lifted, the midnight time limit set on the party invitations will not be regarded, and the songs, dances, skits, and other entertainment reminiscent of the '90s will continue until Willie has waltzed his girl around for the last time. Mrs. E. Cummings Parker heads the club's entertainment committee. Mrs. Henry R. Gross is in charge of the anniversary dance.

Tennis Notes

Tennis balls and sneakers may be as scarce as ever on the shelves of sporting goods stores, but their absence is not preventing the growth of the sport's popularity. Warren Wheary, president of the Chicago Tennis association, has announced that the Onwentsia club again will join the North Shore Tennis association in interclub competitions this season, after an absence of many years from the league. Since the Knollwood club also has been reinstated, the league now has grown to include six clubs. The other four are the Indian Hill, the Skokie, the Evanston, and the Exmoor.

Already the scramble for courts after business hours is on at the Exmoor club, whose tennis enthusiasts started to come out last month and played on thru the current cold spell. For the second year young players at the club will be guided by George O'Connell, for 10 years professional at the Town and Tennis club. Some of the players who are looking forward to the club's spring tournament for men and juniors, starting Decoration day, are Lt. and Mrs. Hamil Reidy, the Harold Hixsons, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bennett Jr., Miss Betty Bennett, Richard D. Williams Jr., the Edward Cooleys, Miss Jennifer Turner, Miss Nancy Newman, and the Louis Sterlings.

A high point in the amateur season in this district is the annual north shore invitational mixed doubles tournament each August, with participants representing the Onwentsia, the Indian Hill, the Saddle and Cycle, the Knollwood, the Evanston, the Skokie, and the Glen View clubs. Last year the tournament was won by Mrs. Franklin G. Clement and Hoyt Smith, who succeeded Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III. to the title.

Today's Events

The Chicago Drama league's annual business meeting at 11:30 a. m. today in the large French room of the Blackstone hotel will be run off with clockwork precision so that the group may go on to the Crystal ballroom for a guest breakfast for Louis Calhern, Oscar Karlweis, Marianne Stewart, Harold Vermilyea, Loney Lewis, and other members of the cast of 'Jacobowsky and the Colonel."

Husbands of members of the Kenilworth center of the Infant Welfare society will pitch in to make the evening opening of a two day rummage sale the success that it has been in the past. The sale will be held from 6:30 to 9 p. m. today and from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. tomorrow at 1967 Howard st. Mrs. Frank W. Fletsch, a member of the committee, will run a "nursery school" for the benefit of mothers on the committee who can't find "sitters" for their young children.

Medics Protest Assignment to Vet Hospitals

Numerous medical officers scheduled for release from active service overseas are protesting the possibility that they may be forced to accept assignments in this country with the veterans administration, the Journal of the American Medical association reported yesterday.

In support of such protests, the publication reports that, at a meeting in Chicago May 12, the committee on post-war medical service urged the war and navy departments as well as the house and senate committees on military affairs to "recognize the righteousness" of the doctors' complaints.

The committee on post-war medical service is composed of representatives of the AMA, the American College of Surgeons, the American College of Physicians, American Hospital association, the Federation of State Medical Licensing boards, the Catholic Hospital association, the Advisory Board for Medical Specialties, and other groups.

Referring to the transfer last November of some 300 medical corps officers to hospitals operated by the veterans administration, the Journal quotes the committee in its resolution sent to Washington, D. C., as having said:

"Many of those thus assigned have protested and others are now protesting bitterly against these assignments on the ground that their enlistment was distinctly for military service and that assignment to the veterans administration cannot thus be characterized."

Unwillingness of the released medical officers to serve with the veterans administration, the committee is quoted as asserting, "is based not only on their belief that this cannot be considered military service but also on the point of view that competent, scientific medical care is difficult under the conditions that prevail in the veterans' hospitals."

Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general of the army, the Journal says, has declared it will be army policy to bring back to the United States medical officers relieved from overseas duty and assign them for as long as needed, to service in their specialties in hospitals and other installations.

Commenting editorially, the Journal said: "Unfortunately, steps have not yet been taken by the selective service system for a continuing supply of physicians for the future." . . . The time may yet come, the publication declared, "when those with the authority and the responsibility will have to answer to the people of the United States for a critical situation in the supply of medical service."

It's Too Cool, Now, but Soon We'll See These Fashions on the Beach

Two versions of smart swim suits for this summer. At left: A red dotted white jersey two-piecer. Its gathered skirt covers the shorts, and the narrow bra ties with red cord. Thru the Looking Glass

Two new shades of nail polish have come to this desk recently, and it seems to us they make a nice team, adequate to meet the color harmony demands of the average woman's wardrobe.

The first of the new shades is a vivid, true red, clear and with just a faint hint of yellow to keep it on the bright side. It's a perfect color to play up sun browned hands and to wear with summer pastels. You'll find that it will blend perfectly with yellows, greens, and whites, bringing out all their sparkle. The only shades it is not compatible with are those in the pink tones.

The other nail polish tint is a rich, rather darkish red with a definitely blue undertone. For all its depth of color it is not offensively dark but is flattering and pretty to wear. This is the shade to be worn with any of the pink, fuchsia, or lilac tones and is a lovely accompaniment to pastel blues.

Either of the colors is smart with navy, black, or white, and you won't have any difficulty in deciding which shade to wear with the high fashion colors in dresses or accessories.

These new colors are proud additions to a line of nail polishes held in high esteem for their quality. Easy to apply, they slip on readily so that even an amateur can do a satisfactory job. The polishes have a fine, brilliant finish which adds to the beauty of the colors, and the coating is durable and long lasting. If you're just a little careful of the nails, the polish will give good service and help keep the hands looking lovely and well groomed.

Swim Suits Are Brief as Ever, and Eye Filling

BY REA SEEGER

You'll probably shop for waterworthy swim suits with a certain air of bravado, because this season's models are very brief. But actually checking current supplies is something to arouse new interest. Jersey is still the favorite material. And you'll find suits in solid colors and in many interestingly feminine prints.

Two piecers are going strong. The brief skirts are neatly branded, and the narrow width bras are fitted with ingenious skill as to darts and seams. Between the two pieces is the exposed area, left open for an added bit of sun tan. One of the cleverest new ideas is the new inner bra attached to the shoulder straps of the outer jersey bra. This accomplishes magic for comely control where control is important. Most of the back interest is straps, shoulder straps, and bra tie straps converging in a small bow.

Brand new fashion colors are the trio of white, black, and steel gray. The seal-sleek one piece models, cut and made very much like baby rompers, fit skin smooth, and tho they button down the side with dozens of small buttons, they look as tho they're plastered to the figure—hence the need of a flawlessly streamlined body.

But if you crave frou-frou with your sea going dips, try the taffetas and the cottons. For these two materials have all the law allows of yardage plus a good eye filling amount of ruffles and trim. Whatever you want for your summer at the beach, this is the time to shop.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Tribute from Her Teacher

I find that the girl who wears a white collar,
Altho she is not a professional scholar,
Is grateful and apt and eager for learning
If given the chance to study while earning.

Her attitude makes it a pleasure to teach her,
And this, I might add, is the very best feature:
Whenever I help her she's really so thankful
I feel I've been paid as much as a bankful.

—MARCELLOPHANE

Hold That Job

In these difficult war years the white collar girls have learned some valuable lessons. One, not quickly forgotten, is the truth of the old saying that no one stands still: we move forward or backward.

A discerning employer knows this. He can pick out, blindfolded, the workers who have improved, learned new skills, adapted themselves to war time conditions, and made themselves an asset to the company.

Likewise he can pick out the white collar girls who have lowered their standards, have been affected by the influx of new, untrained employes, and have permitted themselves to slump.

By this time, if we're honest, we know into which group we fall. We'd better move forward if we want to hold that job.

Business Etiquet

My answer is, when you don't know what to say or do in answer to a greeting, just smile. This can be done over the telephone by a cordial voice. We all meet the person who inquires, "How are you?" and does not wait for a reply—it is merely a passing courtesy, to be met with a smile.

—E. P.

Honorable Mention

Ten white collar girls will be guests of Warner Brothers today at a luncheon and preview of the new picture, "Roughly Speaking," which shows the struggles of the first lionhearted women who entered the business world against masculine protest.

All the honor guests at the luncheon have been chosen by individual companies as, "roughly speaking," having spoken roughly to the idea, of failure. For instance, there is Lillian S. Curtis, selected by the Commonwealth Edison company. For a number of years she was a housewife with no business experience, but with native writing and dramatic ability. . . . Nine years ago she went to work for the company where now she is employed . . . as a lighting adviser she started out canvassing along the Northwest highway.

After a year of this the company took her indoors, where she began to write, produce, and act in playlets for women's groups, demonstrating that kitchens can be beautiful—an imaginative lady who put drama into the kitchen sink.

INVEST IN VICTORY . . . BUY BONDS

ON THE RECORD

By Claudia Cassidy

Ormandy's Brahms and a Batch of Broadway Shows Line Up for the Record Collector

If you own either the Weingartner or Koussevitzky recording of Brahms' Fourth Symphony, hang on to it, but in case you are in the market for what is to be had, Eugene Ormandy's new album with the Philadelphia orchestra [Victor M-567, five 12 inch records] is worth investigating. In all except the slow movement it is a clear, strong performance, never sentimentalized, but rather brushed with a touch of the brusque, almost inimical quality that is the backbone of Brahms. The brass of the passacaglia is exceptionally true, and the entrance of the trombones creates its usual reinforced sense of pleasure—providing Brahms gives you pleasure. But the andante lacks the felicitous warmth of memorable performance, perhaps in part because records and the opaque sound of the horn are rarely compatible. The concert hall magic of wind instruments is still a secret to most mechanical reproduction.

Three Broadway shows have found their way into new Victor albums. They are "On the Town" [M-995, four 10 inch records]; "Up in Central Park" [M-991, three 10 inch records], and "Oklahoma!" [M-988, three 10 inch records].

"On the Town" is Leonard Bernstein's first Broadway show, and as much a hit as his ballet, "Fancy Free." Recorded by the show's own orchestra and the Victor Chorale, with the composer conducting the ballet music and Robert Shaw directing the choral numbers, it is lively, compact, and expertly put together. Mr. Bernstein has little that is original to say, but he has a talent for plausible expression. The ballet music dreams in the subway to the lonely sound of saxophone and mirrors the nervous vivacity of the rush hour in Times square. The songs are "Lonely Town," "Lucky to Be Me," and "Some Other Time," and while they aren't the whistling kind of hits, they probably fit smoothly into the fabric of the show. That show is so successful its creators are working on another one for fall.

"Up In Central Park" is far from Sigmund Romberg's most memorable score, but it is melodious enough under the direction of that expert arranger, Russell Bennett. Jeanette MacDonald's voice sounds surprisingly frail, considering her recent improvement as a singer, and "The Fireman's Bride" really isn't her song. Robert Merrill's baritone is better suited to the score. Besides the hook and ladder heroine, the album hymns "Carrousel in the Park," "It Doesn't Cost Anything to Dream," "Close as Faces in a Book," "The Big Back Yard," and "When You Walk in the Room."

What's this business of getting opera singers for "Oklahoma!"? Eleanor Steber, James Melton, and John Charles Thomas work with a chorus and orchestra under the direction of Al Goodman, but I wouldn't trade for our own company that had the tang, the flavor, and the sparkle of the beloved Rodgers-Hammerstein show. And why monkey with some of the best songs of the decade, sticking in high notes Richard Rodgers never dreamed of? I want my "Oklahoma!" the way it was written, straight, pungent, and irresistible.

Pianist Kogan Plays Well, Tho a Bit Too Long

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

Aveah Kogan, who gave a piano recital in Kimball hall last night, must be rated as one of the more gifted of the youngsters who have displayed their wares publicly this season.

If the total impression of her playing was mixed it was not because of any lack of talent, but rather because of deficient judgment in selecting a program that was only partly congenial to her particular abilities and that was of a length and strenuousness to tax the hardiest veteran.

Miss Kogan has an agreeable pianistic flare for music that exacts clarity in execution and delicacy of taste in interpretation. For that reason she was happiest in three ancient and very attractive fugues by Pachelbel, an Allegro in G minor by Mozart, and Ravel's Sonatine, the latter fitting her like the proverbial glove.

But Beethoven's "Appassionata" sonata is sterner stuff. Miss Kogan's playing was more of a personally conducted analytical tour thru its structural pattern and its wealth of detail than it was an interpretation of music wrung from Beethoven's very soul. The performer stood safe and dry on the banks and observed the turbid river flow by, but she never went in to swim. She told her audience that there was mystery, compassion and fury in this music, but she never made them participate in it.

Even less did she penetrate the romantic expression of Brahms and Chopin. Here not only did her musical discernment fall short, but an unhappy habit of thumping the piano produced a monotonous series of accents that thwarted the projection of even those passages that are within her present comprehension. Yet, paradoxically, a very real talent always gleamed thru the fog.

The things that happened to Albeniz' "Triana" may have been purely accidental or they may have been the result of fatigue. Next time, we suspect, this young pianist will know when to stop.

By George Rector

Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

Cold Cuts to the Rescue

Hamburger is as scarce these days as the proverbial hen's teeth, but dinner can still be good. Select your favorite cold cuts, grind and use in the place of ground beef. We did just that in making the meat porcupines shown below and they were very tasty as well as attractive.

Meat Porcupines . . . use hamburger or ground cold cuts

Wash ½ cup rice, drain and let dry.
Combine ¼ lb. Wilson's Certified Cold Cuts, ground, or hamburger
½ cup day-old bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten*
2 tbsp. minced onion
1 tsp. Wilson's B-V, dissolved in 1 tbsp. hot water
Mix thoroughly, shape into 8 balls. Roll each ball in the dry, uncooked rice, pressing rice firmly onto the meat. Place in skillet, pour over them a mixture made of 1 cup condensed tomato soup
2 cups water
1 cup diced celery
Cover and simmer 30 min., basting the porcupines carefully with the tomato mixture several times.
*If hamburger is used, omit the egg.

Clip Recipe Here

Complete the menu with baked potatoes, margarined carrots, cole slaw, hot biscuits and rhubarb up-side down cake.

Wilson's Certified Dutch Loaf, Plain Loaf, Luncheon Roll or Bologna are among the cold cuts which are especially good for making this dish.

Meat Loaf the Easy Way

Have you ever tried reheating the Dutch Loaf or Plain Loaf to serve as a meat loaf? For ease and speed, put the whole piece in the top of a double boiler and heat over boiling water. It will have a delicious baked meat flavor. If you prefer, you may bake it in the oven. And with Wilson's B-V on your kitchen shelf, you can make a grand gravy to serve with it.

You will find that every one of Wilson's Certified Cold Cuts are of the same high quality that they were in pre-war years. In fact all of Wilson's Certified products must live up to the ideal Thos. E. Wilson wrote over 25 years ago.

OUR IDEAL

"To make well and to trade fairly . . . To profit not alone in dollars but in the good will of those with whom we deal. . . To correct our errors . . . To improve our opportunities and to rear from the daily work a structure which shall be known for all that is best in business." Thos. E. Wilson

Hungry for a Beef Sandwich?

A real find in good beef flavor is Wilson's Certified Pot-Roasted Beef, a really super cold cut. For a special treat, place a slice of it between two slices of bread, spread the outer sides with Certified Margarine and brown lightly on both sides in a skillet over moderate heat. It's easy on the red points, too.

Sincerely,
George Rector

Why Learn The Hard Way? Let Mrs. T. tell you about germs

1 Worn to a frazzle by the end of the day! I was fighting a hand-to-hand battle with dirt. Yet my family seemed to pick up more germs than the neighbors did.

2 "But you can't see germs," the doctor said. "You've got to be on guard in your everyday cleaning. Add Lysol disinfectant to your cleaning water . . . every day."

3 Now look! My kitchen floor's like a new penny in no time. Lysol not only disinfects and deodorizes, it actually makes cleaning easier. It's "soapy". What a find!

4 MAKE THIS TEST: Add 2½ tablespoons of Lysol to each gallon of water. See how much less "elbow grease" cleaning takes! Try it on: Sinks • Tubs • Toilets • Tile Linoleum • Garbage Pail

DISINFECT • CLEAN DEODORIZE WITH Lysol

CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE: 20 ★★ Thursday, May 17, 1945

There Is Quite a Lot to Clutter Up This Movie

"SALOME, WHERE SHE DANCED"

By Mae Tinee

They didn't spare the horses, either literally or figuratively, in producing this lengthy number. Horses carry Gen. Lee home from the Civil war, plunge and rear in battle in the Austro-Prussian war, gallop madly about carrying a bandit gang on its raids, race thru the countryside harnessed to stage coaches carrying various people on numerous errands, until they finally carry the hero and his true love back to old Virginny.

In addition to bits of two wars, the film boasts a dancer who juggles state secrets in her pretty hands, a garrulous foreign correspondent for an American newspaper, a soldier turned bandit, a bloodthirsty Prussian seeking revenge, a fabulously wealthy Russian, a Chinese doctor who speaks with a Scotch accent, an elderly actress who smokes cigars and keeps her gun tucked in a sewing basket, Bismarck, a kidnaping, a duke, and a number of other items—all in technicolor.

Yvonne De Carlo, a new "find," is a pretty, buxom lass who photographs well and has been beautifully costumed for all her various performances as Anna Marie, the toast of Vienna, Drinkman's Wells, and all points east and west. Your first sight of her is on the half-shell, so to speak, in a ballet, but it's her routine as Salome which knocks audiences dead and makes the two-gun residents of a frontier town label their city "Salome, Where She Dances." [This incident is said to be based on fact, and an Arizona town is still laboring under that moniker, shortened for every day use.] As an actress she's rigid and amateurish, and the same applies to her dancing, as far as I'm concerned.

Every one makes speeches, starting out with the defeated Gen. Lee, who quotes from an old hymn. Rod Cameron delivers a monolog on the fourth estate; the bandit, David Bruce, and, incidentally, the lad who finally wins Anna Marie, frequently stares into space with drooping eyelids and relates his life story, telling how he always took the wrong path; Walter Slezak, as the slightly mad Russian, chants about his love for beauty, and the Chinese talks just like Charlie Chan only with a burr, which doesn't improve things a bit.

Maybe Producer Walter Wanger and Laurence Stallings, author of the screen play, are making jokes. If so, I'm a little obtuse; if not, I can't imagine how two such experienced men could turn out this big, lavish conglomeration with a disjointed and involved plot and florid, ridiculous dialog.

The best I can say for it is that the photography thruout is excellent and the colors are purty.

IN A JAM

French turned to a trooper who had been taking all this down on a pad. "Get a good description of Paradine from Miss Warburton and the others, and get it over the teletype and radio as fast as you can. And as for this woman, see if you can't locate her without publicity."

Jennesma asked again, "Is he guilty, lieutenant? Was it Eddie?"

"I'm sorry, I can't answer that yet. Stanton, you and Green start now and search this house from top to bottom. Look for Mrs. Paradine's last will."

"Her will?" Tessie gave a little scream. "That's it. That was what he burned in the bathroom. I found a little scrap of blue paper like they use for covering legal papers, behind the . . . well, it was there, anyway. I simply threw it into the . . . well, anyway, I disposed of it, never dreaming it would be valuable. I never thought of it till this minute."

"Come on," Sen. North whispered in Miss Warburton's ear. He hooked an arm thru hers and escaped into the hall.

Half an hour later, every police radio and every teletype from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico carried the same message:

Wanted—Edward Paradine, 38, 5 feet 10, 190, curly blonde hair, blue eyes, plump face, well known as radio singer a year ago. Probably wearing navy suit with red pin stripe. If found apprehend and notify Michigan state police. Authority same. That is all.

Winnie, listening to the call on the cottage radio, yawned and said, "That doesn't give a picture of Eddie at all. I'd say he was cute, in a repulsive sort of way."

"How would you describe me, if I were wanted?" Kim smiled.

Winnie giggled. "I'd say you . . ."

"Hullo! Winnie!" Dirk stood there, his hat in his hand. "I want to see you, at once, alone."

Kim began to gather himself together. "Just a second, old top. I'll take a dose of strychnine."

"Don't go."

Dirk gave her a singularly angry, icy stare.

"Can't you ever take life seriously? This is important to me. Of course, if you don't care . . ."

Kim rose and went lounging out. Dirk pulled a chair close to her.

"I'm in a bad jam, Winnie. You're my only hope."

"What were you and Dirk discussing so seriously, Winnie?" Miss Warburton asked as she came into the living room an hour later.

Winnie's usual happy, carefree expression was replaced by a troubled dismay. "O, well, I promised not to tell."

"It seems to me you do a lot of promising these days."

"I know. A very promising young thing. I'd like to ask some one else's advice, but Dirk always gets me tied up not to tell, somehow."

Miss Warburton gazed affectionately at Winnie's bright, bent head. She felt vaguely guilty. "Couldn't you talk about it in a general way, my dear? For instance, it seemed to me from the scrap I heard as he left, that you were being asked to do something you didn't want to."

"I know. I sort of wish I'd stuck to no. But I guess I have to, now. Dirk rushed me into it so fast. He nearly cried. He says he couldn't stand it if I went back on him."

"Couldn't stand what?"

"O . . . things."

"Winnie . . . you're not going to . . . marry him . . . I mean . . . at once? Was that what he . . ."

"No, no, no."

"Has anything worse happened to Dirk?"

"We-ell, no! But it might, if something weren't done."

"O, Winnie, I wish you'd go home. Please. Let's call your father."

"No. I'm not going. Dirk says he'd end it all if he lost my love."

"Baloney!"

"I know," Winnie said unhappily. "I wish he wouldn't say things like that."

The police finished searching the Paradine house by late afternoon. Mr. Jennesma asked if they had found his sister's reputed will and was told no.

Teresa Lindstra found a recipient for her resignation. She took herself off in a car which arrived at 5, driven by a dark young man who carried out a lot of suspiciously handsome and heavy luggage.

It was raining, and every one was otherwise engaged, so her impedimenta was not closely inspected.

With swift caution, Winnie began to dress, in the dark. Her small flashlight had showed it was 2:30. Dirk had said, "About 3." She stepped into black wool slacks and pulled a navy sweater over her head. She tied up her hair in a scarf.

Slowly she let herself out of her bedroom door, closed it and listened. Not a sound. She felt in her pocket and made sure the key Dirk had given her was there.

Step by step she descended the stairs, pausing on the landing to listen again. Then, down the last flight to the lower hall. She opened the front door. The moon was up, altho heavily underlaid with rain clouds. Her tiny flashlight was in her pocket, tho she could not very well use it. Even if their own guard was gone, there might be other troopers about.

The damp, moist air blew against her face. She wasn't terrifically brave and what had seemed so easy and simple when Dirk had suggested it, making light of its details, now looked dangerous and hard. But he was in such a panic.

She stepped out and closed the door. Not till it quietly clicked shut did she recall she had not adjusted the night latch so she could get in. And she hadn't a key to it!

She stepped off the porch in her rubber soled shoes and went quickly along the path thru the garden, then across the grass to the ravine. The ravine! She'd completely forgotten that black hollow with its two flights of steps and close-packed bushes behind which any one might lurk.

She went down the steps and across the bridge in a sort of stiff terror and then ran up the other flight in a breathless scramble. In a few seconds she emerged on the lawn that rolled grandly up to the dark Jennesma house.

Wedding News

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Satterlee Ullmann of River Forest were in Newport, R. I., last Saturday for the marriage of their son, Lt. [j. g.] Paul Elliott Ullmann of the naval reserve, and Miss Nancy Holcombe Hurt, daughter of Capt. Samuel Hansford Hurt, U. S. N., and Mrs. Hurt of Blackstone, Va., and Annapolis, Md. The ceremony took place in Trinity church, followed by a reception in the home of Capt. John H. Carson, U. S. N., and Mrs. Carson at the naval torpedo station, where Capt. Carson is commanding officer.

The bride attended the National Cathedral school in Washington, D. C., Punauho school in Hawaii, and Randolph-Macon college. Lt. Ullmann was graduated from Purdue university and received his commission from the reserve officers' school at the United States naval academy, Annapolis. He recently returned from the Pacific, and has taken his bride to San Francisco, Cal., where they will be at home.

WE CAME A LONG WAY ON THAT BUS··· IT'D BE PRETTY HARD TO TRACE US··· SHE COULDN'T EVEN KNOW WHICH WAY WE WENT···
'TISN'T AS IF WE'D DONE SOME CRIME AND HAD THE COPS AFTER US··· THEN, O' COURSE, WE WOULDN'T EVER BE SAFE ANYWHERE!
OINK!
BUT SHE'S TH' ONE WHO DID TH' CRIMES! SHE MAY WORRY, WONDERIN' WHERE I WENT AND IF I'LL TALK··· BUT SHE'LL KEEP QUIET ABOUT IT, I'LL BET!

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 16—Cole Porter finally did it—picked Alexis Smith to play his wife [also Cary Grant's wife] in "Night and Day." "That," said Alexis, "is the biggest thing that's ever happened to me." . . . "Congresswoman," Freddie Finklehoffe's new yarn [which, rumor hath it, is life of Clare Boothe Luce]' is being read by Darryl Zanuck. Tallulah Bankhead wants it. Warners would like it for Bette Davis. Now comes Roz Russell, thru R. K. O., with a bid. It won't be sold until it's published first in book form. It should make mighty tasty reading. One of the greatest lines was about Henry Wallace: "Yes, he's wonderful. He has both feet firmly planted in the clouds." . . . Enid Markey, Bill Hart's leading lady in the old Thomas Ince days, is returning after many years to play Auntie in "Snafu"—part she did on the stage. . . . Mae West's "Catherine Was Great" closes this week-end. She'll help produce Ray Bourbon's new show, which Lee Shubert has promised he'll house in the Bijou theater in New York come fall.

Don't You Believe It

The Judy Garland marriage, reported elsewhere for June 16, can't take place till the end of June or first of July. Bridegroom has to finish and cut "Yolanda and the Thief." He'll meet Judy in New York, where she'll be with her mother and sister. I still think this will be a retake. I have a hunch they were married when they were back there last spring. . . . When Clark Gable was leaving the A) Hall party with Jinx Falkenburg, a blonde [who shall be nameless] came over to him and said, "You can't leave! You just can't go!" Clark went. All this drooling going on over him is beginning to sicken him, so if you girls aren't careful he won't go anywhere. . . . Mrs. Porter Hall does "Murder by Appointment" at the Bliss Hayden with John Carlisle and Barbara Billingsley, both contractees of Metro. Mrs. Hall could no longer withstand the smell of her husband's grease paint, so is taking a whirl herself.

A Truly Cautious Scot

Walter McEwen signed with R. K. O. and the same day announced that his wife, after 17 years of marriage, will have a baby. . . . Humphrey Bogart and Barbara Stanwyck were out-acting each other in "The Two Mrs. Carrolls" when Barbara cracked, "To think I waited two years to do a picture with this guy. Gosh, I'm slow!" Well, I don't know whether she was slow or Baby [Bacall] was faster. . . . Even Gilbert and Sullivan would have liked Sylvia Fine's modern lyrics to their "Nightmare" song. Have you noticed how Gilbert and Sullivan are being used, and used, and used? Well, you couldn't find a better pattern. . . . Edmund Gwenn and Reggie Own, both at Metro but not in the same picture, had much to talk about. They started their careers 30 years ago in London. I must say they're two of the best character actors we've got on the American screen.

Again, and Again, and Again

Lionel Barrymore had a letter from Bournemouth hospital, England, four years ago, saying the hospital needed funds desperately. Would he please make a short in the best Dr. Gillespie manner; from that the hospital could raise money. It did—an enormous amount. Now he's had another letter. The hospital again needs money desperately—this time for peace. So Lionel and Carey Wilson are working on another short. . . . Can you imagine how much a short done with Lew Ayres around some of his experiences would bring in? That's one I'd stand in line hours to see. . . . Mary Brian, who looks so young, just finished another hospital tour. Says the most cheerful boys are those waiting for their new arms and legs at Temple, Tex. . . . Jimmy Cagney is boasting that his wife learned to play the piano in 10 easy lessons. And she made her debut at the San Francisco Press club. . . . Teachers of English are doing a rush business in Mexico City with the movie stars, who hope to get the same kind of deal Pedro Armendariz got here. . . . In a musical conversation with Jimmy McHugh, Ed Gardner proclaimed, "I like that warlike music they call a fugue. Tell me—Is it written when you composers are having a fugue with your neighbors?" Ouch!

VOISELLE AND GIANTS DEFEAT CUBS, 6 TO 0

VETERANS REAP TRIBUNE GOLF CLASS BENEFIT

Free School Closes Tomorrow Night

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Hospitalized service men from the European and Pacific war theaters will be direct beneficiaries of the 1945 free golf school being conducted by THE TRIBUNE and the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

The announcement is made today, the eve of the fourth and final lesson of the game's oldest and largest system of group teaching, which will be held tomorrow night on the four courses of the Chicago park district —Jackson, Columbus, Marquette, and Diversey-in-Lincoln. All classes will begin promptly at 7:15 p. m.

The veterans who fought at Anzio, in Normandy, Tarawa, Guadalcanal, the Aleutians and over other World War II courses will receive a considerable number of golf balls as a result of the school. The Great Lakes naval hospital will be the first recipient of these on Monday, when the members of the Illinois section of the P. G. A. will assemble at the nearby Shoreacres club for their first pro-pro tournament of the season. The event will be climaxed with a club making and teaching demonstration by the Illinois pros for the service men now stationed at Great Lakes.

Other Veterans to Benefit

The sailors and marines will not be the only veterans to receive the golf balls for which they have been clamoring these last few weeks. The boys at Vaughan General hospital, who already have received a pair of putting clocks and other golf equipment from the Women's Western Golf association, will have their share. So will the service veterans at Gardiner General hospital on the south side. These will be given their allotments from THE TRIBUNE school in special clinics which the Illinois P. G. A. will conduct at their respective locations.

When THE TRIBUNE's school was organized in 1933, the men, women and children who attended the school were offered special prizes—golf bags, clubs and balls. These were awarded to pupils who showed the best aptitude in taking the lessons and proving themselves out in a final judging contest. This practice continued until 1943, when officials of the school and the Illinois P. G. A. members asked their pupils if they wouldn't rather see their potential prizes go to service men. The students agreed heartily.

In 1943 and last year, therefore, several sets of clubs were turned over to the U.S.O. center at 131 S. Wabash av., for use by visiting service men and women who wished to take advantage of the golfing facilities offered by Chicago district clubs. Stuart McCutcheon, U.S.O. director, still is in need of clubs for the same purpose, notably putters, but he was the first to join in the thought of giving the free golf balls to the men who fought overseas, and are now able to take advantage of the game's acknowledged therapeutic values.

National P. G. A. Drive to Open

Thus, the students who have taken the lessons in the 1945 school and are foresaking for the third straight year their chance at prizes are outright contributors to the service men. So also are the members of the Illinois P. G. A. President Alex Cunningham, Tournament Chairman Bill Gordon, and Rehabilitation Chairman Harry Adams are only three of the professionals who plan to devote all of their activities this season to the rehabilitation program of the P. G. A., every effort in which is being directed toward provision of golf facilities for hospitalized service men.

The national P. G. A. drive will begin a week from Saturday. Chicago golfers will be able to contribute their side of it in a special match at Tam o' Shanter, sending Bing Crosby and Chick Evans against Bob Hope and Jimmy Hines. New Yorkers will witness a two-day, 72 hole battle between Byron Nelson and Sam Snead.

Rain Stops Qualifying Round for Evans Trophy

The New Members' day, scheduled for yesterday at the Edgewater Golf club, was postponed because of the weather. It will be held Saturday, with competition including the qualifying round for the annual Chick Evans trophy. The low 32 scorers in all classes will be bracketed at match play on the following Saturday. The winner will receive a trophy presented by the club and his choice of one of the veteran Evans' championship trophies.

Mort Cooper and Cardinals Part 3d Time

Boston, Mass., May 16 (AP)—Intimating that Mort Cooper had suspended himself by quitting the St. Louis Cardinals without warning, Manager Billy Southworth today indicated that the big righthand pitcher's salary dispute was entirely in the hands of Club President Sam Breadon. It is the third time this spring Cooper has left the team.

"This is a tough time to quit the club, with our pitching staff in its present condition," Southworth said. "Frankly, I don't know what's wrong, altho he did tell some of the players there was sickness in his family. I have not had any differences with Mort and have found him willing to do everything I asked of him."

Was to Have Pitched

Southworth, however, had assigned Cooper to work the first half of today's double header with the Braves, who pulled out a 5 to 4 victory in 14 innings against Blix Donnelly.

Southworth learned about Cooper's latest disappearance early this morning when Road Secretary Leo Ward notified him that the pitcher was taking a 5 a. m. [E. W. T.] plane to New York to join his wife before entraining for St. Louis.

Cooper and the Cardinals have been at odds on the salary question for several weeks, since he learned that Shortstop Marty Marion had been given a contract calling for $13,500.

Sought $3,000 Raise

Mort and his catching brother Walker, who has since been inducted into the navy at Great Lakes, demanded $15,000 and quit the club.

Breadon persuaded Mort to rejoin the Cardinals by offering him $13,500 but, shortly after, the pitcher failed to accompany the club to Cincinnati. The pitcher, however, was prevailed upon to return when he and his attorney conferred with Breadon.

Southworth said that Cooper's salary dispute is still pending but that in the meantime he has been paid on the $13,500 basis, rather than the $12,000 for which his contract called.

Uniform Will Prevent Louis Title Defense

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Any hopes of an early heavyweight championship fight with Joe Louis defending his title were cooled off today by the war department. There is no likelihood of Louis or Billy Conn, widely recognized as Louis' foremost challenger, or "any other specialist" being discharged soon by the army.

A war department officer said there are no plans for letting any specialists out of service unless they qualify for release under the army's point system.

Long Way from 85

Louis has been in for a long time and has one child, but no combat record, it was said. The absence of a combat record would make it difficult for him to meet discharge requirements.

The army requires a soldier to have 85 points to be eligible for discharge, and lack of a combat record is a distinct handicap since five points are allowed for each combat decoration.

Louis, who has appeared in many exhibitions before service groups overseas and in this country, recently was assigned to another morale group going to Alaska.

Army Establishes Policy

It is not likely that Louis will be allowed to defend his title while still in service. The army's central Pacific base command recently issued an order prohibiting soldiers from boxing in civilian professional programs.

The order set out this policy:

"Amateurism will govern the conduct of army athletics and will be encouraged and strictly adhered to. Professional athletes in the military service will be encouraged to participate as individuals and members of teams in all army athletic activities except in sports involving bodily contact engaged in by two contestants."

Lanier Leaves Cards; Takes Army Exam May 24

St. Louis, Mo., May 16 (AP)—Southpaw Max Lanier of the St. Louis Cardinals left today for his Denton, N. C., home to prepare for a pre-induction physical examination at Fort Bragg, N. C., May 24. The veteran who won 17 games and lost 12 for the world champions last year and who has a 2 and 2 record this season is 29 and joined the Cardinals late in the 1939 season.

Her funeral was not a pretentious one,
Just a few old friends and neighbors
Gathered to offer a prayer for her
At the end of her long life's labors.

Only a few shiny automobiles—

Followed her out the winding road
To her last, long, well earned rest.

A gentle woman, a kindly soul,
Ever a faithful friend,
But only a ripple in life's large pool
As she quietly came to her end.

But somewhere, I'm sure, she will find reward
Not measured by pomp or by show,
When the book of her life is audited,
She'll come into her own, I know!

SPORTSMAN'S BOND PROGRAM GATHERS SPEED

Maj. Williams Asks Fans' Support

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

The rain maker put the damper on activities at Sportman's Park yesterday for the third straight afternoon, but the National Jockey club's 7th war loan bond drive gathered momentum as bids began to come in for box seats for Saturday's bond day program.

Maj. Ednyfed H. Williams, chairman of the Illinois racing board, and Frank E. Mandel, a member, exhorted the 5,359 customers in the stands to get in the running for choice finish line seats already available. At the same time he urged other holders of boxes to put them up for the auction.

Bids $25,000 for Box

President John L. Keeshin and the racing board had started the campaign by placing their boxes on the block. Yesterday Vice President Charles Bidwill, Alderman James B. Bowler, Al Horan, Sam Ruby, and State Sen. William J. Connors added theirs to the list. The first bid of $25,000 for Keeshin's box came from Richard M. Lawless, secretary of the Bi-Lateral Fire Hose company. Bids will be received by Mandel at the Ambassador hotel until tomorrow noon.

Photo finishes highlighted both of the day's featured races, the $2,000 Sophie Tucker handicap, sixth on the card, and the $1,500 Oak Park purse, fifth on the program.

Mrs. Robert McGarvey's 5 year old mare, Night Shadow, ridden by Paul Glidewell, took the Sophie Tucker by a whisker from Mrs. J. Hoaglin's Amalka, a long shot as the Happy Hour farm's Happy Pilot saved third. Night Shadow was an even money choice and returned $4 for a $2 ticket.

H. H. Fausett's Grey Days, ridden by Andy LoTurco, accounted for the Oak Park, just nosing out Henry Tikulski's Holdall, the favorite, Mrs. F. M. Harris' Diderod was third. The winner paid $9.20.

Fetchings Bar Repeats

Fetchings Bar, the Happy Hour farm's 4 year old gelded son of Bargello-Fetching, became the first repeater of the meeting by winning the second race under a smart ride by J. W. Martin. Fetchings Bar, which scored the second victory of its career on opening day went to the post at 4 to 1 and won by a length and a half from Broadhead. Shasta Man took the show. The winner paid $10.60 and with Mrs. R. Freeman's Lucky Ann, victor in the first race, provided a $29.80 daily double return. Lucky Ann was ridden by Sylvester Haynes.

W. H. Bishop's Country Boy, with Apprentice Billy Nichols up, also hung up his second victory of the meeting taking the third race with a stretch drive that forced H. E. Jacoby's Westler into second place. Country Boy, a winner on Saturday, paid $3.20 and gave the Bishop stable its fourth triumph in four days.

The day's handle was $377,018.

Plan Lincoln Fields Meeting

Many of the larger stables which have participated in past Lincoln Fields meetings will be back this spring when the 28 day session opens next Wednesday at Hawthorne, Charles Bidwill, chairman of the board, said yesterday.

Tom Young, track superintendent at Lincoln Fields and Churchill Downs, is leaving Louisville this week-end and will have charge of the assignment of stalls. William R. Dahlstrom, racing secretary at Sportsman's Park, will serve in that capacity at the Lincoln Fields meeting.

ATHLETIC CHIEF AT DE LA SALLE RESIGNS POST

DODGERS DEFEAT PIRATES, 3-1, FOR 11TH STRAIGHT

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—Scoring one run at a time off Southpaw Al Gerheauser, the Brooklyn Dodgers gained their 11th straight victory, defeating the Pirates, 3 to 1, today.

Hal Gregg did all of the Dodgers' pitching for his fifth triumph and it was the seventh straight game in which a Brooklyn pitcher went the route. The Pirates' run, made in the first inning, was unearned, the result of errors by Augie Galan and Eddie Stanky. Gregg yielded only five hits.

The Dodgers tied the score in the fourth on singles by Luis Olmo, Bill Hart, a hit batsman, and Ed Basinski's short fly to left field, caught by Shortstop Vic Barnhart. Olmo scored after the catch. In the fifth a pass to Stanky, an error by Barnhart, and Olmo's single put the Dodgers in front. They scored their last run in the seventh on Galan's triple and Walker's fly. Olmo extended his hitting streak to 14 straight games.

Great Lakes Game with Louisville Is Postponed

Rain caused indefinite postponement of a baseball game between Great Lakes and the Louisville Colonels of the American association at Great Lakes yesterday. The weather also delayed the home debut of the 1945 Bluejacket nine until next Tuesday, when the Philadelphia Phillies will play on Constitution field at the naval training center.

Sox, Yanks to End 1st Place Debate Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The White Sox-Yankees series hasn't even started, but start or no start, it positively will be finished this afternoon. The Yanks are going to leave town and whether they play the first, last, and only game of the series today or whether they loaf for the fourth straight day in succession isn't going to change their travel schedule. They must be in St. Louis tomorrow and besides the Red Sox will take over Comiskey park.

Between the rain, the chill, and the mud, the Sox didn't have to wait more than a few minutes after arising yesterday morning to know that the third successive postponement of the series was definite. It was supposed to be a night affair, the season's first here, but today's final, if any, will be in daylight.

Extensive Unfinished Business

The Sox now face unfinished business made up of three postponements on the road and eight at home. The former are single games in St. Louis, Cleveland and Detroit. Six of the Comiskey park washouts are divided between the Yankees and Tigers, the latter having failed to get into uniform during their first trip here. The Browns and Athletics have one each to play-off locally.

The infield has been uncovered during the recent sprinkles so there is reason to suspect that a game today is only a remote possibility, but anyway both teams plan on showing up if necessary. James Dykes still figures he's going to pitch Joe Haynes and as Joe McCarthy doesn't like the idea of being below the Sox in the percentage column he's scheming to lead with his best bet—the five time winner and unbeaten Hank Borowy.

Close Home Stay Sunday

The Sox close their present fireside stay with Sunday's double header with Boston, the next portion of the schedule calling for an eastern appearance by the Dykes' surprise boys.

New York, May 16—The Cubs, in absorbing their first 1945 shut out tonight, 6 to 0, at the hands of the league leading New York Giants, became ensnarled in a maze of baseball superlatives—with not an episode serving to sweeten the Chicagoans' pennant dream turned nightmare.

It was the Cubs' first night game and one long to be remembered. Here are some of the superlatives.

Bill Voiselle held the once proud Cubs to six singles, no two in the same inning, to achieve his second victory of the series, his seventh of the year without a defeat. That made him the leading pitcher by an easy margin.

Giants Exhibit Hit Parade

In the sixth inning Manager Mel Ott opened with a homer, his seventh of the season. That made Mel the league's leading home run smacker. But not for long. In the same inning, Phil Weintraub knocked his No. 7. As soon as Weintraub had rounded the bases, Ernie Lombardi drove one into the left field upper deck. His total is one behind Ott's and Weintraub's. However, the homer and a single in the next inning which produced a run lifted Schnozz's league leading RBI total to 23. Ott and Weintraub have driven in only 21 each.

The Cubs, because they lost only one game, shook off their third place tie with the Cardinals, who lost two, but they found new bertamates in the Braves.

The loss was the fourth straight for the Chicagoans, their third here. They now have lost nine of their last dozen games. The Giants have won 11 or their last 12.

Wyse Yields 11 Hits

The Giants tonight hammered out 14 hits—11 off Hank Wyse, including those three homers in the sixth; one off Jorge Comellas, and two off Mack Stewart. The trimming would have been much more severe if the Chicago infield hadn't reeled off three double plays.

Of the 35,117 who saw the game, 30,763 paid, the others were service personnel.

The Giants didn't wait any longer than the first inning to score what proved to be the winning run. Johnny Rucker, first man at bat for New York, doubled and moved to third on George Hausmann's sacrifice. Ott's single sent Rucker across the plate.

Rucker Scores in Third, Too

The Giants added some insurance in the way of another run in the third inning. Rucker, who scored the first run of the game, singled and went to third on Hausmann's single. Ott's bat provided the medium for the second run when he sent a long fly to Bill Nicholson, allowing Rucker ample time to score.

After the three New York home runs made the score 5 to 0 in the sixth inning the Giants added their sixth tally at Stewart's expense. This was accomplished after two men were out, Joe Medwick, who had hit into a double play, scoring on Lombardi's single.

BRAVES WIN TWO FROM CARDS; 1ST GOES 14 INNINGS

Defeat Champions, 5-4, Then 4 to 1

Boston, Mass., May 16 (AP)—The Boston Braves jumped into the National league's fourth berth today by winning the second half of a double header from the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 1, after taking the first, 5 to 4, in 14 innings.

When Mort Cooper, assigned to work in the opener, quit the Cardinals, Manager Billy Southworth nominated Bud Byerly and that right hander was let down hard in the ninth when the Braves collected three runs on one hit, a walk, and two errors, to pull into a 4 to 4 tie.

In the 14th, when, with one out, Phil Masi doubled, Eddie Joost was passed purposely and Dick Culler, who had gone 0 for 6 previously, singled thru shortstop to drive in the winning run.

The Braves teed off against Al Jurisich for three of their four hits and all of their runs in the first inning of the second game. After Tommy Holmes, who saw his batting average shrink from .435 to .411 during the two games, walked, Butch Nieman and Chuck Workman singled and, with two out, Carden Gillenwater hit a three-run homer. Jack Creel then took over and held the Braves to one single.

Baltimore, Md., May 16 (AP)—Racing came back to Pimlico today, with Morris Wexler's 7 year old gelding, Quien Es, scoring a length and a quarter victory over Mrs. Roy Carruthers' Jimmie in the $5,000 Baltimore Spring handicap, inaugural day feature.

The crowd of 20,086, which included Larry MacPhail, president of the New York Yankees, and his bride of several hours, had perfect weather for the opening of the 10 day meeting, but saw H. Guy Bedwell's Sollure, favorite in the field of 10, wind up third, two lengths back of Jimmie. In a betting mood, the crowd wagered a total of $1,052,365 on eight races.

KEENELAND OPENS

Pot o' Luck, Calumet farm's Derby eligible, finished out of the money.

He was a tail gunner on a Liberator bomber.

Mrs. Dufelmeier said a friend in Champaign had received a letter from her son saying he had been liberated by British troops May 2 and had been moved to Brussels. She has received no official notice from the war department, she added.

Claude Passeau and Cubs Face Giants Today

New York, May 16—The Cubs will conclude their first series with the Giants this afternoon in a single game. Claude Passeau will pitch against Andy Hansen. Friday night the Cubs open against the rampant Dodgers, who, if they win from the Pirates tomorrow afternoon, will be seeking their 13th straight victory.

Everybody who desires to see the Cubs and Dodgers play without a cash investment, may do so by depositing 10 pounds of old clothes or bed clothing at the gate. It's for war sufferers, not the Dodgers, who no longer are in want.

TWO RAILROAD CHIEFS PREDICT BUSINESS GAIN

Industry Expands in L. C. Area

Two railroad presidents yesterday made optimistic predictions on post-war business on their lines. Wayne A. Johnston, president of the Illinois Central, told stockholders at their annual meeting that the outlook was favorable. Gustav Metzman, president of the New York Central, in his annual report said that with a high national income after the war "there is good reason to expect satisfactory earnings despite more intensive competition."

Gustav Metzman

Among Johnston's reasons for the better prospects were: Coal operations in the Illinois and Kentucky fields, especially in the latter, have expanded in recent years. Many industries that will conduct post-war activities have been established along Illinois Central lines. Those established in 1944 alone are expected to produce 36,000 carloads of traffic a year.

Expect More Oil Traffic

Oil developments in Mississippi promise added traffic. Depleted stocks and deferred construction and improvements mean increased industrial activity. Use of the port of New Orleans for both exports and imports should add traffic in both directions. It is believed traffic flow over the road's western lines will increase because of the better acquaintanceship with industrial facilities between Chicago and Omaha, Sioux City, Sioux Falls, and Albert Lea.

Concerning dividend possibilities Johnston said the road prefers a conservative course to reduce indebtedness and build up a reserve for future contingencies before making payments. Resumption of dividends depends on the following, whether business continues good, readjustments for post-war business conditions, reduction in excess profits taxes, and plans for refunding bond maturities.

Reduced 83 Million Since 1940

Johnston said the funded debt as of Dec. 31, 1944, was $282,110,025—a reduction of $101,168,647 from the 1927 peak. Since 1940 the debt has been reduced 83 million dollars—$23,429,193 in 1944—with savings in fixed charges of more than $3,500,000 a year.

The road is working on plans to refund 143 million dollars of bonds, of which 108 millions are noncallable, maturing from 1950 to 1955, inclusive.

Net income of the New York Central railroad last year dropped to $35,789,939, from $62,734,050 in 1943, Metzman reported. Operating revenues rose to $714,963,385, from $706,124,833.

Passenger revenues totaled $180,965,132, compared with $162,017,837, and freight revenues were $468,283,532, against $480,665,605. Mail, express, and other revenues accounted for the remainder.

Boost Motive Efficiency

Metzman said additional progress had been made by the road's research council, established in 1942. Further experiments have been made on the development of motive power of greater efficiency. An advanced design of a high capacity, coal fired steam locomotive for high speed passenger operation or heavy duty freight service is nearing completion.

The road took delivery of two 5,400 horse power diesel-electric freight locomotives last year and included in the equipment it has on order are four 6,000 horse power diesel-electric passenger locomotives and 300 lightweight streamlined passenger train cars.

Metzman said a gross reduction of $49,358,524 was effected in the New York Central debt during 1944. Partly offsetting this cut were the sale of $15,500,000 of equipment trust certificates and another minor adjustment, making the net reduction $33,786,774.

Asks Further Study of Floor Trading Rule

Philadelphia, Pa., May 16 (AP)—Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock exchange, told the securities and exchange commission today that further study of floor trading is "absolutely necessary" before steps are taken to abolish it.

Schram and Edwin Posner, chairman of the New York Curb exchange, were the principal speakers at a public conference held in response to requests by officials of the two exchanges after announcement on Jan. 14 that the SEC's trading and exchange division had recommended a rule prohibiting floor trading in stocks on the New York Stock and Curb exchanges.

Despairs of Regulation

Floor trading is defined by the division as buying and selling by a member for his own account while he is on the exchange floor. According to the SEC, floor trading leads to instability and market manipulation.

James A. Treanor Jr., director of the SEC division, told the commission of "scandalous" instances in which the market was manipulated by floor traders "in spite of the management" of the exchanges. The fact that these things can happen "makes one despair of means of regulation, he said.

Must Do "Unpleasant" Things

"This rule will have the effect of depriving a few persons of making a living," Treanor continued, "but the public service carries with it an obligation to do some things which are unpleasant."

The 30 to 40 floor traders on the stock exchange engaged in a 350 million dollar volume of trading in 1944.

Schram said he did not believe the trading and exchange division studies "support the drastic proposals which you are being urged to adopt." Posner said the "factor of liquidity" in floor trading helps in the maintenance of a stable market.

MEN, MATERIALS DIM OUTLOOK ON PHOTO SUPPLIES

The lifting of war time restrictions on the manufacture and distribution of cameras and photographic equipment by the war production board does not mean the public will be able to procure supplies in any substantial amount immediately, spokesmen for the industry said yesterday.

With war production continuing at a high rate, materials and man power form the chief bottleneck to quick resumption of volume manufacturing of civilian cameras. Aluminum is available, but not in suitable form. Steel, brass, and copper are short.

Because of stockpiles of partly finished products that several companies had when the war started, some of the older design cameras may be put on the market in 60 or 90 days, said J. H. McNabb, president of Bell & Howell company. He predicted that five or six months would elapse, however, before new models were available.

J. C. Schulz, regional manager for Eastman Kodak company, said the plant in Rochester, N. Y., was so fully occupied with war work that it scarcely could keep up with man power requirements for its military production.

PULLMAN NAMES STEPHEN EARLY VICE PRESIDENT

Stephen Early, who was press secretary to President Roosevelt, has been elected a vice president of Pullman, Inc., with headquarters in Washington, D. C., David A. Crawford, president, announced yesterday. Early will take his new post June 1.

His duties will be concerned with the "corporate and business functions" of Pullman, Inc., and of certain of its subsidiaries, including sales of their products, Crawford said.

PEACE SHARES LEAD GENERAL MARKET CLIMB

Dividends, Earnings Impart Strength

New York, May 16 (AP)—The stock market gathered a little momentum today after two listless sessions, and prices turned up fractions to more than 2 points in a general advance led by peace favorites.

Helping the advance were higher earnings and dividends for a number of companies, a government report that cutbacks in war output were slower than anticipated, and indications that substantial amounts of household appliances could be expected by September.

Such factors created buying which sent Westinghouse Electric up 2. Johns-Manville climbed 3⅞ and Allied Stores surged ahead 1½ to a new high on dividend increases.

Wall st. participation in the 7th war loan campaign tended to restrict dealings, but turnover was the largest this week at 1,210,000 shares.

Steels Weaken at Close

The Associated Press 60 stock composite gained 0.2 to 64.6. Of 944 stocks traded, 494 advanced, 230 declined, and 220 were unchanged.

Ahead most of the day, United States Steel and Bethlehem eased just before the close to end slightly lower. Other declines were negligible except in aircrafts, Douglas losing 1½.

Advances were made by General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Western Union "A," Kennecott, General Electric, J. C. Penney, United States Gypsum, Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, and Standard Oil [New Jersey].

RAILS LEAD BOND RALLY

New York, May 16 (AP)—The bond market recovered today as demand for rails broadened and higher priced loans attracted more interest from investment sources. Advances among the leaders ran major fractions to more than 2 points and the close was near the top despite some profit cashing in special issues in the final hour.

Late strength lifted Baltimore and Ohio issues ⅝ to 1¾ points with heavy turnover in the stamped convertibles of 1960 and the stamped "D" and "F" bonds. Boston and New York Air line 4s and Rock Island 4s made new peaks.

CHICAGO PRICES ADVANCE

Prices advanced yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in 50,000 share turnover. Volume leaders, all up fractions except Cherry-Burrell which gained a point, included Asbestos Manufacturing, Aviation corporation, Peabody Coal, and Miller and Hart. Eight new 1945 highs were established.

NEW ALTON PLAN OFFERED TO ICC BY SUBSIDIARY

Washington, D. C., May 16 (AP)—The Kansas City, St. Louis, and Chicago railroad today submitted to the interstate commerce commission a reorganization plan for the Alton railroad.

The capitalization of $66,963,380 suggested by the Alton subsidiary compared with $73,976,800 proposed by Henry A. Gardner, Alton trustee, and 87 million by the protective committee for holders of Chicago and Alton 3 per cent refunding mortgage bonds. Fixed charges would be $490,000, compared with Gardner's $700,000, and the committee's $1,500,000.

The Kansas City's capitalization proposal included 4 million dollars in equipment trust certificates, 12 million in first mortgage 3¼ per cent 20 year bonds, $21,117,000 in general mortgage 4½ per cent 50 year income bonds, and $29,846,380 in $100 par common stock.

Suit Charges Better Battery Denied to U.S.

New York, May 16 (AP)—Two of the country's largest storage battery manufacturers were charged by the department of justice today with conspiring with foreign firms to withhold from the American market a long life battery. The purported action, the government said, substantially affected operation of United States war equipment.

The charge was made in an anti-trust civil suit filed in federal court against the Electric Storage Battery company, Philadelphia, described by the government as the world's largest maker of electric storage batteries, and its wholly-owned subsidiary, the Willard Storage Battery company of Cleveland. The government did not elaborate on the reasons for the alleged withholding.

Gives 10 Year Service

The justice department said the two firms and alleged co-conspirators prevented manufacture in this country or the importation of the nickel cadmium battery used by German, French, and English fighting forces.

The battery, the government said, reportedly gives service for 10 years, seven years more than the best available American battery.

The complaint said: "Cadmium batteries have not been made, used, or sold in this country and have not been used by the armed forces of the United States.

"As a result of the conspiracy herein alleged the United States has had neither the commercial experience nor the manufacturing facilities necessary to determine the advantages of cadmium batteries over other batteries for commercial and military use."

Cartel Agreements Charged

The government charged that the two firms maintained international cartel agreements, dating back to 1891, to divide world markets and eliminate competition in the making and sale of electric storage batteries.

Named in the action as alleged co-conspirators were Chloride Electrcal Storage company of London, Accumulatoren-Fabrik Aktiengesellschaft of Berlin, and Exide Batteries of Canada, Toronto.

In Philadelphia R. C. Norberg, president of the Electric Storage firm, said that if there was the slightest doubt about the legality of his company's foreign agreements the firm was disposed to eliminate the provisions which create any such doubt.

PERMIT LARGER BUTTERFAT USE FOR ICE CREAM

The amount of butterfat which may be used in the manufacture of ice cream and other frozen dairy foods in June has been increased from 65 to 75 per cent of the total used in June, 1942, Frank E. Blood, chief of the war food administration midwest dairy and poultry branch, announced yesterday.

Manufacturers will be permitted to use all or part of the increase this month provided they make a corresponding deduction in June, but no carry over into July will be permitted.

The increase was granted because of a rise in milk production over last year's peak months of May and June.

ROCK ISLAND GENERAL 4S

Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific general mortgage 4 per cent bonds have risen from a 1945 low of 78⅛ to 100. How does the latter price compare with the quotations for the reorganization securities to be issued in exchange?—P. Y.

The new securities, plus cash, to be issued for each $1,000 general mortgage bond, under the interstate commerce commission's plan for reorganizing the Rock Island, had a market value of about $1,179 at recent "when issued" quotations. With the old bond quoted at par, the value of the new securities exceeded that of the bond by approximately $179.

The price relationships change from day to day, and in later transactions the old bonds have sold above par.

There is no way to realize immediately the arbitrage profit, if any, represented by the present price differentials. It is possible to sell the new securities on a when, as, and if issued basis, against purchases or holdings of the old bonds. But the reorganization terms have not yet passed all the legal hurdles, and the proposed new securities are not yet exchangeable for the old. When issued sales contracts lapse if the issue plans on which they are based are discarded.

Now that the reorganization plan has been confirmed by the federal court, the next step is its submission to the holders of the participating securities. A favorable vote of two-thirds of each class is required for approval.

If the plan becomes effective, there would be issued for each $1,000 general 4 per cent bond $189.14 cash, $143.73 new first mortgage 4 per cent bonds, 454.14 general income 4½s, 4.46 preferred shares, and 3.36 common shares.

SINCLAIR OIL'S EARNINGS NEAR YEAR AGO RATE

Sinclair Oil corporation earnings so far this year have been at about the same level as a year earlier, Sheldon Clark, chairman of the executive committee, told stockholders at the annual meeting in New York yesterday. Clark, who presided in the absence of H. C. Sinclair, president, said he had not heard of any change to be made in the dividend rate, that earnings are sufficient for the current rate.

Sinclair's production of crude oil in the first quarter increased about 3,000 barrels daily above the year ago level. Estimated reserves last year on new and old producing leases, including those from exploratory wells, approximated 150 million barrels. Of this about 100 million barrels resulted from wildcat drilling, Clark explained.

JOHNS-MANVILLE DIVIDEND OF 75 CENTS DECLARED

Johns-Manville corporation yesterday declared a dividend of 75 cents a share. It paid 50 cents earlier this year.

Allied Stores corporation will pay a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share, placing the common stock on a $1.60 annual basis, instead of the previous 25 cents quarterly rate.

MACHINE LACK TO MAKE CROP GOAL DIFFICULT

Manufacturers Put Below Schedule

Farm machinery will be more difficult to obtain this year than at any time during the war and, with diminishing man power and the wearing out of old equipment, will make it difficult for farmers to meet crop goals, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago said yesterday.

Schedules called for production of about the same amount of farm machinery in the 1944-'45 season as a year earlier, but government demands for added parts because of military reverses put a severe "squeeze" on farm implement schedules.

Run 20 to 25 Per Cent Behind

"During the first quarter of the production season manufacturers were reported to be about 25 per cent behind schedule," the bank said. "During the second quarter [October-December] the lag was about 22 per cent, and there was probably a 20 per cent lag during the third quarter just ended.

"Some important manufacturers are substantially up to schedule, while others have been forced by circumstances beyond their control to lag much more than the figures indicate."

The bank explained the most important factor in the lag had been an acute shortage of labor in most of the middle west areas where the bulk of farm machinery and equipment is produced.

The labor shortage has been the most pronounced in the manufacture of component parts, including malleable and gray castings, as well as engines. The supply of transmissions and forgings also has been restricted by military needs.

Demand to Remain Large

"The experience of farmers in the corn belt during the last two seasons has tended strongly to sharpen their interest in and reliance on machine power," said the bank. "If farmers had been forced to rely on animal power the last two wet springs the spring planting work could not have been done and the output of much of the nation's agriculture would have been much smaller than it was with machine power working two and three shifts to get crops sown."

On the whole scheduled production is substantially lower than the current demand for farm machinery and demand after the war is expected to remain heavy because of further mechanization of farms. The volume of unsatisfied demand for new equipment will be large, it said, and farmers will have the purchasing power to expand their stock of machinery plus unused credit facilities which could provide more purchasing power.

STEERS WEAKEN AGAIN DESPITE DIP IN RECEIPTS

Despite a further decrease in receipts of cattle from farms yesterday, most steers continued under pressure resulting from packers' attempts to bring their costs into line with price regulations for the various grades. Sales were steady to 25 cents lower with choice and prime steers lowest in six weeks.

Best steers brought $17.75 a hundred pounds, the lowest top price since April 3. Similar stock last week sold at $17.90. Heifers fell 25 to 50 cents to $17.60 for the best.

Lamb prices reached the highest levels in a week in strong to 25 cents higher trade. The top was $15.85. All hogs brought ceiling prices.

Chicago Auto Firm Planning 'New Trucks'

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

The Diamond T Motor Car company is working on a "sensational development" in the automotive field, Charles A. Tilt, president, disclosed yesterday. The company is a Chicago truck manufacturer whose equipment recently was praised for its part in the army's drive across Germany.

Charles A. Tilt

The statement was given significance as a result of reports published in Detroit and New York recently that a "group of Chicago millionaires" was planning to bring out a low priced car, with many new features, to be named "The Chicago."

Not a Passenger Car

Tilt said the development was not a passenger car of the type described in the reports, but concerned some entirely new types of trucks. Guesses made in automotive circles included one that it may be a small truck adaptable to passenger use, similar to the station wagon, which has been increasing in popularity.

Tilt commented, "All I care to say now is that we have a sensational new development which we have been working on, but the details of which we are not yet ready to disclose, other than to say we have plans for some entirely new trucks."

Report Engine at Rear

The Detroit stories were explicit in their description of the new Chicago car. They said it would weigh about 1,900 pounds, carry six passengers, and sell for about $850. The 70 horsepower engine was to be mounted at the rear on two rails so it could be slipped out and replaced quickly with another in the event of engine trouble. Top speed would be 70 miles an hour.

Power transmission would be thru a liquid clutch, with automatic gear shifting. There would be two controls for the driver—the brake pedal and the accelerator.

The Chicago Association of Commerce said that parts manufacturers are giving credence to the reports of a Chicago built car, a large Philadelphia battery manufacturer showing interest.

Detroit reports on the Chicago car said sales and servicing would be handled by a large petroleum company which would establish service stations in large cities equipped to change engines or make other repairs speedily. Spokesmen for the Standard Oil company [Indiana] and the Pure Oil company said they had heard no reports of the proposed car.

Mobile will receive none of the proceeds.

GRAIN FUTURES IRREGULAR; MAY CONTRACTS RISE

May deliveries of grain rose yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade altho May corn reacted from the ceiling to close ⅜ cent a bushel lower. May wheat advanced ½ cent to $1.77 and May rye was up 2⅜ to $1.43¾, both new seasonal high prices, before profit taking checked the upturn.

The advance brought heavy commission house and professional selling and the best prices were not fully maintained. Wheat futures finished ¼ to ⅞ higher. Deferred deliveries of corn were unchanged to ⅜ higher. Oats finished ⅛ lower to ⅝ higher, rye ¼ to 2 cents higher, May leading, and barley 2⅛ higher to ¼ lower.

DOUBT TRUMAN WILL APPOINT CZAR FOR FOOD

Agreement Sought Thru Vinson

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 16—Doubts that President Truman will follow the recommendation of senate food investigators and appoint a supreme food czar to supervise the office of price administration and the war food administration were expressed by congressmen today.

War Mobilizer Vinson earlier had been reported ready to step into the food controversy between congress and the OPA at the request of the President and take command of the situation. It was predicted, however, that Vinson will not take any czar-like action, but instead is attempting to reconcile divergent elements in congress and the OPA and develop legislation designed to iron out the food problem, particularly the meat crisis.

Vinson, Lawmakers Confer

Congressmen said that President Truman does not believe a food czar is the answer to the problem, but is hopeful that Vinson, as war mobilization director, can work out effective legislation. It was learned that Vinson is calling in senators and representatives and officials of the OPA and WFA in an attempt to arrive at a measure on which all groups will be united.

Sen. Taft [R., O.], a member of the subcommittee on banking and currency, which currently is considering the price control extension act, asserted that a food czar not only is not the answer to the food problem, but that it is too late to appoint an over-all food head. He said the solution is adequate profit for the processor and distributor.

It was learned that the legislation sought by Vinson and Mr. Truman would give direct subsidies to cattle feeders and increased subsidies to meat packers.

OPA "Sick and Tired" of It

An OPA source said that the agency is so "sick and tired" of being made the butt of congressional criticism, such as that contained in yesterday's senate agriculture committee report, that it is willing to "go along" with whatever Vinson may develop.

The senate committee report, besides demanding appointment of a food czar, sharply criticized the OPA and the WFA for failure to cooperate in measures which the committee said might have prevented the meat crisis.

The committee asked a reasonable margin of profit for meat processors, and recommended removal of price controls from all commodities as soon as they become sufficiently plentiful to permit functioning of the law of supply and demand.

Vinson is being assisted by J. B. Hutson, former president of the Commodity Credit corporation, who advised Vinson's predecessor, James F. Byrnes, on food matters. Congressional sources said they did not expect that Vinson will take any direct action or announce a concrete program, but will work quietly behind the scenes and attempt to obtain effective legislation.
